Labor Backs LBJ Solidly In New Bid

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has won promises of solid labor support for his re-election and left little doubt he intends to seek another term.

"We do intend to stand here as long as we can stand here," he said Monday night, "and fight for what is right."

Johnson dropped the hint on his political plans during an unannounced visit to the second annual Farm Policy and Rural Life conference in a speech filled with homespun humor.

He told the farmers they had mastered the hardest skill of all: "You know how to make hay in Washington."

Promises Came Earlier

The promises of labor support came earlier at a legislative conference of several thousand AFL-CIO Building and Construction Trades delegates.

AFL-CIO President George Meany said the 14-million-member labor federation will support Johnson for re-election despite his Vietnam war policy critics.

"I don't think we're going to turn our back on a friend," Meany said. "Labor will discharge its obligations."

In other political developments:

—The GOP moderates' National Coalition for a Republican Alternative said it has four potential presidential candidates: New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, New York City Mayor John V. Lindsay, Sen. Charles H. Percy of Illinois and Sen. Mark O. Hatfield of Oregon.

The 'Invisible Quartet'

All four are noncandidates at this point but coalition organizer Duff Reed, an aide to Sen. Thruston B. Morton of Kentucky, called them the "invisible quartet."

—Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy told a crowd of more than 15,000 at Madison, Wis., his Democratic presidential candidacy is no longer simply a protest against President Johnson's policies.

"We are seeking the presidency of the United States," McCarthy said and hundreds stood and cheered.

—Republican candidate Richard M. Nixon mapped strategy with staff members and friends in New York and plans to continue his Wisconsin primary campaign Wednesday. The primary vote comes a week from today.

In Stroke Of Purge

7 Intellectuals Fired By Poland

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — The Polish Communist regime fired seven intellectuals Monday in the biggest stroke of a purge following recent student demonstrations and street rioting.

The government ousted six teachers at Warsaw University on charges of implanting in their students political views contrary to the state's, the official news agency PAP reported.

There was no explanation for the ouster of the seventh intellectual, but he has been under fire for some time because of unorthodox Marxist views.

The regime now has ousted 12 persons, most of them Jews, since disturbances began on March 8, growing out of student unrest over the closing of a play which had some lines construed by censors as anti-Soviet.

The students have charged police brutality, accused the official press of lying and demanding more freedom. No new demonstrations have been reported since three Warsaw sit-ins ended Saturday.

The latest move was further evidence of the government's intention to root out so-called "reactionary elements, Zionists and demagogues" whom it accuses of starting the trouble.

Some Western observers feel, however, that the student unrest has given the party leadership an opportunity to strike back against opponents of its policy.

PAP said those dismissed at Warsaw University carried out their duties from "revisionist positions." They were Bronislaw Baczko, Leszek Kolakowski and Stefan Morawski, professors of philosophy; Zygmunt Bauman and Maria Hirszowicz, assistant professors of philosophy; and Wlodziemierz Brus, a professor of political economics.

Kolakowski, one of Poland's leading Marxist philosophers, has been in trouble with the regime for more than 10 years because he advocates a more moral, humane and idealistic basis for communism.

The seventh person dismissed Monday was Prof. Stefan Zolkiewski, as head of the social science department of the Polish Academy of Sciences.

So It Can Work With New President

Panama Assembly Asks National Guard To Leave

PANAMA (AP) — The National Assembly asked the National Guard, backing deposed President Marco A. Robles, to withdraw from around the legislative palace today so it can get to work with the new president it installed.

A spokesman for the 4,000-man guard, the country's only military force, said the request from Assembly President Carlos Agustin Arias was under study. But it was learned that the guard has notified Max Delvalle, sworn in as president Sunday, that he is not authorized to enter the assembly hall.

U.S. Ambassador Charles W. Adair Jr., meanwhile, was informally in touch with Ricardo Arias, named foreign minister in the eight-man Delvalle Cabinet. The United States was caught up in the thorny problem of whether to recognize Delvalle.

In impeachment proceedings Sunday, Robles was convicted by a 30-0 vote, with 12 minority assemblymen abstaining, on charges that he was promoting his finance minister, David Samudio, to succeed him in the May presidential elections. The opposition claimed such support violates constitutional law but Robles countered that the law does not prohibit him from merely expressing a preference.

Behind this was the opposition's low regard for Samudio, whose tax reforms have offended Panama's wealthy elite. The five-party coalition, is backing former President Arnulfo Arias in the elections.

The guard has said it could not obey the assembly decision to change presidents but would await an opinion from the Supreme Court, which convenes next Monday.

Tri-State Continues To Enjoy Mild Spell

As the weatherman promised, the mild spell is to continue thoughout the tri-state district at least through Wednesday.

2 Generals Defend U.S. Viet Policy

Oppose Changes Leaving South Viet Countryside To VC

WASHINGTON (AP) — Both the retiring Army chief of staff and the new Marine commandant say they oppose any change of U.S. strategy which would leave South Vietnam's countryside to the Viet Cong.

These views have emerged at a time of rising speculation that Gen. William C. Westmoreland's impending removal as commander in Vietnam means a basic switch in military policy is being considered.

Generally the speculation has been that the United States might benefit by abandoning Westmoreland's "search-and-destroy" operations or giving up such remote outposts as Khe Sanh.

Johnson Against Fallback

Gen. Harold K. Johnson, whom Westmoreland will replace as Army chief of staff by July 2, said a U.S. fallback to defense of only select, high-population areas would give the Viet Cong "a license to hunt when and where they choose."

Marine Gen. Leonard F. Chapman said: "I certainly would not favor what is called the enclave strategy. I trink that is tantamount to certain defeat."

Johnson commented in the April issue of Army Digest magazine, Chapman in an Associated Press interview.

Johnson, discussing war strategy, said U.S. efforts must continue to center on driving the enemy's larger military formations away from South Vietnam's population.

"Any change in emphasis away from search-and-destroy operations would free the enemy to operate with relative impunity around and between the peripheries of our enclaves," the four-star Army general asserted.

Enemy Would Be Free

"In short," he said, "a withdrawal to an enclave strategy would simply give enemy main force units a license to hunt when and where they choose."

Some civilian leaders are portrayed as believing the United States would suffer fewer casualties by conducting fewer countryside search patrols or by avoiding static defensive positions in border areas where enemy forces are close to supply caches.

But military officers argue that giving up search-and-destroy tactics would surrender to

This is an artist's conception of a nuclear power station similar to the 800,000-kilowatt facility that will be built by the Duquesne Light Co. adjacent to its Shippingport Station, the world's first full-scale atomic power plant devoted exclusively to peaceful uses.

The reactor plant structure has been cut away to show the interior, the nuclear reactor, and the three-loop nuclear steam supply system. The building in the background houses the turbine - generator.

The new facility which will be part of the huge CAPCO Power Pool, in which Duquesne is participating with four other electric utilities in western Pennsylvania and northern and central Ohio, will cost approximately $147 million when completed in 1973.

Ground is expected to be broken for the station next year. In addition to the new Beaver Valley Power Station, three other generating facilities will be built within the pool area through 1974. Two of them will be 625,000 kilowatt coal - fired units and the fourth will be another 800,000 kilowatt nuclear facility.

The total capacity of the four new units will be nearly 3 million kilowatts.

Duquesne's annual report released today showed the utility's net income for 1967 amounted to $29,966,544, a 4 per cent increase over 1966's income of $28,823,194.

Philip A. Fleger, chairman of the board, said earnings per common share were $2.08, compared to $2 for the previous year. Dividends per common share were $1.60, up from the $1.50 of 1966.

Barr Gives Assessment To Senate Committee

Top Official Says U.S. Can't Afford Both War And Domestic Problems

WASHINGTON (AP) — A top Treasury official has told Congress the nation can't afford both guns and butter—to wage war in Vietnam while pressing ahead with domestic programs.

Undersecretary Joseph W. Barr's assessment before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee came Monday as President Johnson was telling a labor group: "We will do what must be done—we will do it both at home and we will do it wherever our brave men are called upon to stand."

Barr contended: "We are a great and powerful country and we can do a lot." But, he added, only "if we are willing to get down to the subsistence level like the Russians or someone else" can both war and domestic needs be fully met.

Cites Senators' Obligation

"I'll either get fired or impeached before I get out—and either one is not too bad, Barr told the Senate panel after declaring senators had an obligation to "vote for fiscal responsibility."

He said the administration anticipates a "back to back" deficit of $20 billion for the current fiscal year and the one beginning July 1 if Johnson's proposed 10 per cent income tax surcharge isn't enacted.

Following Barr's appraisal of the financial problems posed by the war and domestic needs, Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper, R-Iowa, said, "It takes the butter out of it when we reduce our standard of living." Barr agreed.

He said if the surtax is enacted, the current fiscal year's deficit will be $2 billion smaller than the $20 billion he forecast, while the tax hike combined with spending cuts could keep the fiscal 1969 deficit down to $8 billion.

Johnson told the AFL-CIO Building Trades Department legislative conference he will seek to build "a better America in a climate of law and order"

Refuse Crews Will Move To New Site On Saturday

The incinerator department's garbage and trash collection crews will move Saturday from a 10-year-old sanitary landfill site in Bloomfield to a new location on a 150-acre tract along the Y. & O. Rd. in Madison Township.

Mayor George E. Willshaw and Safety-Service Director Robert E. Vodrey said the move will be made after the dump closes at noon Saturday — the usual time. The crews will begin operating Monday out of the new tract which was purchased a year ago for $10,000.

The Madison Township site, full of deep gullies considered ideal for a landfill operation, is an abandoned farm which was strip-mined for coal.

The Umbaugh Pole Building Co. of Ravenna, awarded a contract by the Board of Control, already is in the process of erecting a structure at the new site which will be used for storing the department's bulldozer. Allied Forces Slay 284 Viet Cong In Battle Near Saigon

SAIGON (AP) — About 1,000 North Vietnamese troops attacked a U.S. artillery base in the central highlands in human wave assaults today and overran one gun position in the heaviest fighting there in four months.

The North Vietnamese, armed with flame throwers and rocket-propelled grenades, were driven back by the 500 U.S. defenders after four hours of battle, the U.S. Command said.

A spokesman said 135 North Vietnamese troops and 19 Americans were killed and 51 Americans wounded.

Viet Cong Battered

Near Saigon, allied forces pushed through rice paddies and hedgreows pursuing a battered Viet Cong force that broke off a sharp 24-hour battle shortly before dawn. The Viet Cong death toll was put at 284.

The U.S. Command said 10 U.S. soldiers were killed and 71 wounded in the fighting. South Vietnamese casualties were described as light.

The attack in the central highlands was launched under the cover of darkness by two or three North Vietnamese battalions against an artillery support base of the U.S. 4th Infantry Division 19 miles west of Kontum City.

Reds Storm U.S. Base

Headquarters said the North Vietnamese troops, operating only 20 miles from their Cambodian border sanctuary, stormed the 500 American defenders and drove through a portion of the perimeter.

Four hours later, headquarters said, U.S. infantrymen had pushed the enemy troops back and restored their defense line.

The North Vietnamese began withdrawing toward Cambodia as dawn broke and American reinforcements poured in. Air cavalrymen made a elicopter assault into the battle zone in an attempt to block the enemy's withdrawal.

It was the heaviest fighting in the central highgands since last November's 21-day battle for Dak To, 25 miles north of Kontum. Kontum City was hard hit by enemy troops during the Viet Cong lunar offensive Jan. 30. U.S. 4th Division infantrymen went into the city to clear it out.

According to intelligence reports, four North Vietnamese regiments—about 12,000 troops—threaten the Kontum City-Dak To area.

the enemy the initiative—as well as vast areas of South Vietnamese territory—without a battle.

It is generally assumed that the administration's current evaluation of Vietnam policy includes a new look at military strategy and the manpower required to execute it.

In announcing Westmoreland's scheduled Pentagon assignment, President Johnson said strategy as such wasn't involved in the change of command.

But as one senior officer in the Pentagon observed, the next Vietnam commander's plans will to some extent be directly contingent on the amount of new troops the President authorizes for the war effort.

The appraisal of the war and possible future military needs has been under way for almost two months following the massive enemy Tet offensive against South Vietnamese cities

Of several manpower plans which have been proposed, some officers believe the administration may choose one which would involve the deployment of about 45,000 men to Vietnam in the next few months.

Criticizes LBJ Foes

"Of course they are going to focus on the war that nobody wants," Meany said. He urged Americans "to let Hanoi know they can't win at the ballot box in this country what they can't win in Asia."

"We did make progress," Johnson told the labor group, in helping millions of Americans rise from poverty, providing medical care for the elderly and bringing better jobs at higher pay for workers.

"These are the mighty foundations that we have put into place," he said, "and we are not going to sit by and let them be torn down in a partisan, political election year.

"I'm not saying you never had it so good," the President said, "but that is a fact, isn't it?"

Hits Johnson Opponents

He also took issue with political opponents of the President who he said label the Vietnam conflict "Johnson's war." It is no more Johnson's than it was the war of former Presidents Dwight D. Eisenhower of John F. Kennedy, said Meany.

Sen.George A. Smathers, D-Fla., told the Senate the war will go on for another year as he argued for enactment of the surtax.

Smathers said "even if some dove, for lack of a better word, gets elected" president he won't be in office until January.

"The war won't even end until about a year from today, even if he's a miracle worker, which I doubt," Smathers said.

The Agency for International Development told Congress today the enemy's Tet offensive against South Vietnamese population centers in late January amounted to $120 million in damages, excluding losses in Hue and the northern I Corps area.

The analysis was submitted to the House Foreign Affairs.

Testimony Continues In Hearing At Lisbon

LISBON — Testimony continued this morning in the Common Pleas Court trial of Albert G. Crissman of Wellsville, charged with incest and statutory rape of a 14-year-old girl.

Judge Raymond S. Buzzard this morning overruled a motion for a mistrial made by Bernard Fineman, defense counsel. Counsel argued that Prosecuting Atty. J. Warren Bettis did not lay the proper foundation in questioning Mrs. Crissman, the defendant's wife, and that the questions were prejudicial to his client.

The state rested its case Monday. Indicted by the April 1967 grand jury, Crissman last Thursday filed a notice of alibi.

Mrs. Crissman testified he was with her on March 2, 1967, the date when the state claims the offense occurred at the Crissman home.

Board Discusses Social Aide For Hancock's Home

NEW MANCHESTER — The Hancock County Children's Home Board met Monday night at the home on Gas Valley Rd. with Ernest John, vice chairman, presiding.

Norman Ferrari Sr., presented a letter from Paul Crabtree, executive assistant to the governor, concerning the appointment of a social worker to the home. Ferrari said he had talked with Gov. Hulett Smith who agreed that the home needs such a worker, and has contacted L. L. Vincent, commissioner of the Dept. of Welfare.

Mrs. Dorothy Knabb, a representative from the Dept. of Welfare, was present to discuss possible new admissions.

Harold Sweat, farm manager, was granted permission by the board to purchase four small pigs, 200 chickens, two new tires and one recapped tire for the farm equipment.

The Board approved payment of the monthly bills and the purchase of a buffer to be used at the home.

Guardrails Damaged As Auto Leaves Road

A woman motorist told police Monday her auto damaged guardrails along the River Rd. Sunday night when she swerved off the pavement to avoid an oncoming car.

The 1960 model auto driven by Leila M. Ward, 25, of Anderson Blvd. hit the city-owned fence at 11:24 p. m. about 1,500 feet west of State St., she reported. The mishap scraped and dented the left side of the car and tore off a door handle.

The woman said she was driving east about 25 miles an hour when she was blinded by the headlights of an oncoming car. When she pulled to the right, her car hit the guardrails, she reported.

Excessive smoking "weakens the sight, prejudices the smelling, diminishes the appetite and dries and damages the brain," according to the first Encyclopaedia Britannica, printed in 1768.

Boy Hospitalized When Hit By Car

Benjamin Hatterick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Carpenter of 300 Pearl St., was struck Monday at 6:45 p. m. on N. Chester St. by an auto operated by Donald L. Ward, 43, of New Cumberland RD 2.

The child had been playing in the area and already had run across the road once before the accident, onlookers said. When first hit, the child was thought to have suffered possible fractures of the right thigh and pelvis and possible scalp injuries, Police Chief William Webster said. The hospital reported today that Hatterick complained of back pain.

City Street Sweeper To Resume Schedule

The city's mechanical sweeper, ending a winter layoff, will resume cleaning streets on a regular basis, effective Monday at 7 a.m., Safety - Service Director Robert E. Vodrey reported today.

The sweeper usually is out of service from late fall until early spring. One reason for the winter layoff is the fact that water sprayed from the machine to hold down dust freezes on the pavement and creates a hazard.

The sweeping schedule will be announced regularly, Vodrey said. He cautioned motorists to begin observing again the parking regulations which apply when the sweeper is working.

Board Will Meet

LISBON—The advisory board of the Catholic Service Bureau of Columbiana County will meet Thursday at 8 p.m. in St. George's rectory here, with Robert Hocking of East Liverpool, president, in charge.

while meeting U.S. commitments in Vietnam.

Hits Johnson Opponents

He also took issue with political opponents of the President who he said label the Vietnam conflict "Johnson's war." It is no more Johnson's than it was the war of former Presidents Dwight D. Eisenhower of John F. Kennedy, said Meany.

Sen.George A. Smathers, D-Fla., told the Senate the war will go on for another year as he argued for enactment of the surtax.

Smathers said "even if some dove, for lack of a better word, gets elected" president he won't be in office until January.

"The war won't even end until about a year from today, even if he's a miracle worker, which I doubt," Smathers said.

The Agency for International Development told Congress today the enemy's Tet offensive against South Vietnamese population centers in late January amounted to $120 million in damages, excluding losses in Hue and the northern I Corps area.

The analysis was submitted to the House Foreign Affairs.

the enemy the initiative—as well as vast areas of South Vietnamese territory—without a battle.

It is generally assumed that the administration's current evaluation of Vietnam policy includes a new look at military strategy and the manpower required to execute it.

In announcing Westmoreland's scheduled Pentagon assignment, President Johnson said strategy as such wasn't involved in the change of command.

But as one senior officer in the Pentagon observed, the next Vietnam commander's plans will to some extent be directly contingent on the amount of new troops the President authorizes for the war effort.

The appraisal of the war and possible future military needs has been under way for almost two months following the massive enemy Tet offensive against South Vietnamese cities ic Northwest after a stop in Los Angeles' Watts area where he was cheered by thousands of Negroes.

Criticizes LBJ Foes

"Of course they are going to focus on the war that nobody wants," Meany said. He urged Americans "to let Hanoi know they can't win at the ballot box in this country what they can't win in Asia."

"We did make progress," Johnson told the labor group, in helping millions of Americans rise from poverty, providing medical care for the elderly and bringing better jobs at higher pay for workers.

"These are the mighty foundations that we have put into place," he said, "and we are not going to sit by and let them be torn down in a partisan, political election year.

"I'm not saying you never had it so good," the President said, "but that is a fact, isn't it?"

Two deputy registrars are on duty at each of the branch offices. The offices opened again this morning at 10 and functioned until 12. The branches at the market and the two fire stations also will be open from 4 to 9 tonight, while the site at the Post Office will close at 8.

Testimony Continues In Hearing At Lisbon

LISBON — Testimony continued this morning in the Common Pleas Court trial of Albert G. Crissman of Wellsville, charged with incest and statutory rape of a 14-year-old girl.

Judge Raymond S. Buzzard this morning overruled a motion for a mistrial made by Bernard Fineman, defense counsel. Counsel argued that Prosecuting Atty. J. Warren Bettis did not lay the proper foundation in questioning Mrs. Crissman, the defendant's wife, and that the questions were prejudicial to his client.

The state rested its case Monday. Indicted by the April 1967 grand jury, Crissman last Thursday filed a notice of alibi.

Mrs. Crissman testified he was with her on March 2, 1967, the date when the state claims the offense occurred at the Crissman home.

Board Discusses Social Aide For Hancock's Home

NEW MANCHESTER — The Hancock County Children's Home Board met Monday night at the home on Gas Valley Rd. with Ernest John, vice chairman, presiding.

Norman Ferrari Sr., presented a letter from Paul Crabtree, executive assistant to the governor, concerning the appointment of a social worker to the home. Ferrari said he had talked with Gov. Hulett Smith who agreed that the home needs such a worker, and has contacted L. L. Vincent, commissioner of the Dept. of Welfare.

Mrs. Dorothy Knabb, a representative from the Dept. of Welfare, was present to discuss possible new admissions.

Harold Sweat, farm manager, was granted permission by the board to purchase four small pigs, 200 chickens, two new tires and one recapped tire for the farm equipment.

The Board approved payment of the monthly bills and the purchase of a buffer to be used at the home.

Guardrails Damaged As Auto Leaves Road

A woman motorist told police Monday her auto damaged guardrails along the River Rd. Sunday night when she swerved off the pavement to avoid an oncoming car.

The 1960 model auto driven by Leila M. Ward, 25, of Anderson Blvd. hit the city-owned fence at 11:24 p. m. about 1,500 feet west of State St., she reported. The mishap scraped and dented the left side of the car and tore off a door handle.

The woman said she was driving east about 25 miles an hour when she was blinded by the headlights of an oncoming car. When she pulled to the right, her car hit the guardrails, she reported.

Boy Hospitalized When Hit By Car

Benjamin Hatterick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Carpenter of 300 Pearl St., was struck Monday at 6:45 p. m. on N. Chester St. by an auto operated by Donald L. Ward, 43, of New Cumberland RD 2.

The child had been playing in the area and already had run across the road once before the accident, onlookers said. When first hit, the child was thought to have suffered possible fractures of the right thigh and pelvis and possible scalp injuries, Police Chief William Webster said. The hospital reported today that Hatterick complained of back pain.

City Street Sweeper To Resume Schedule

The city's mechanical sweeper, ending a winter layoff, will resume cleaning streets on a regular basis, effective Monday at 7 a.m., Safety - Service Director Robert E. Vodrey reported today.

The sweeper usually is out of service from late fall until early spring. One reason for the winter layoff is the fact that water sprayed from the machine to hold down dust freezes on the pavement and creates a hazard.

The sweeping schedule will be announced regularly, Vodrey said. He cautioned motorists to begin observing again the parking regulations which apply when the sweeper is working.

Board Will Meet

LISBON—The advisory board of the Catholic Service Bureau of Columbiana County will meet Thursday at 8 p.m. in St. George's rectory here, with Robert Hocking of East Liverpool, president, in charge.

Time To Fire The Manager

If the idea of combining Gen. William C. Westmoreland's kick upstairs to Army chief of staff with two other high-level appointments was to make it sound like a routine shuffle, it failed.

It had been surmised for months that President Johnson would have to replace Gen. Westmoreland in Vietnam because there would be no other way to dissipate dissatisfaction with the Vietnam War.

It was the same fix the general manager of a ball club is in when the public loses confidence in the club's ability.

The standard reaction is to fire the manager. The reaction is so standard, in fact, that managers expect to get fired and are a clique of rotating fall-guys, who know their fate is to hang around at good wages until it is time for them to play scapegoat.

There is no reason to think any other general can do any better in Vietnam than Gen. Westmoreland has done. Nor is there any reason to wonder if some other general might do worse. Professional military men can be depended on to do about the same with the same circumstances. They all study the same textbooks.

It isn't lack of military savvy in the field that has bogged down the United States in Vietnam. It isn't anything that can be blamed on tacticians, certainly nothing that can be blamed on the brave Americans who have been offering their lives in a war that threatens to go on forever.

It is one thing for Americans to believe they are in Asia defending the freedom of the people of South Vietnam — and that proposition goes down hard even for most Americans.

It has significant credibility for the majority of Vietnamese.

They feel they are resisting invasion. They are being equipped by allies on the Asiatic mainland similarly fired up by what appears to them to be violation of their territorial rights and interests.

The United States is fighting Red China and Red Russia, too.

Gen. Westmoreland did his best. All the brave Americans in Asia are doing their best. Thousands are dying, tens of thousands are being wounded and mutilated. A new commander in the field after next July 1 won't change anything.

The managerial shuffle may help President Johnson with his political problems. But it won't lessen the determination of the Vietnamese to throw Americans out of Asia at any cost.

Chamber Week

Activities of the East Liverpool Area Chamber of Commerce have reached into almost every area of community interest since it was founded in 1916.

The Chamber has been the one coordinating organization through which programs involving industry, business, schools and government have been advanced.

Sucesses of the Chamber over the years have been a reflection of the talent and energy of its members and that is why, with new projects and new ambitions mapped for the immediate future, it is important for more men and women in East Liverpool and the area to become a part of the Chamber and its scope of action.

The current anniversary observance of the organization should serve to stimulate many in the community to become members, and to inspire present members to undertake new tasks.

Sacrificial Rites Near Sabina

The visitor from afar stopped when he saw the crowd one mile east of Sabina in southwestern Ohio. He was in America to take notes on the way people lived. The name on the mailbox was Richard Rolf.

He wrote the name in his notebook.

Stock trucks were drawn up in ranks. Men with guns were walking about. There was an ear-piercing squealing, the terror-stricken sound of animals who sense imminent death when they smell the blood of their own kind.

A bulldozer was chugging nearby, pushing dirt into a ditch. The visitor from afar asked a bystander what was happening. The bystander's face was flushed and angry.

"We're killing hogs, that's what," he replied, the muscles in his jaw knotted. "Six of my own hogs are in that ditch where the dozer is pushing dirt. There are hundreds more in there."

"Is it a sacrifical rite?" inquired the visitor from afar. "Something to do with religion maybe? Or I'll bet I know. You are celebrating spring with a blood offering to the goddess of animal fertility. I'll bet that's what you're doing. I've never seen anything like this."

The bystander looked hard at the visitor. "You some kinda city nut or something?" he growled. "This ain't no fertility rite and it hasn't got nothing to do with religion, unless you call getting a fair price religion. This is a hog-killing by the National Farmer's Organization to scare packers into giving us a fair price for pork on the hoof."

"Do you think it will work?"

The bystander thought about this before he answered. "I haven't the vaguest idea, mister," he said, biting his lower lip. "But it better. I got six dead hogs in that ditch."

As the visitor from afar walked back to his car to continue his tour of America, he heard more squealing and more gunfire. Who would have expected to run into sacrificial rites in America, he mused.

"Surely, it is a wondrous place . . ." he wrote in his notebook.

Tribute To Loser

Victory in championship basketball play at Columbus carries its own reward.

For years, the forgotten teams have been those ousted in semi-final action. These teams worked hard to become one of the four finalists in their divisions. Often they represented the best showing their school ever made in basketball.

This year first-round losers were presented plaques as remembrances of their trip to Columbus. It was a long-neglected obligation. The Ohio High School Athletic Association will continue the practice in years ahead. We applaud the move.

The attractive plaques will be displayed prominently in high school trophy cases where they will be admired by proud fans and serve as a permanent tribute to a significant achievement.

As years roll on, they will inspire numerous conversations and heated debates all beginning with the words: "Remember that '68 team. . ."

TRUMAN TWILL

Purely Personal Observations

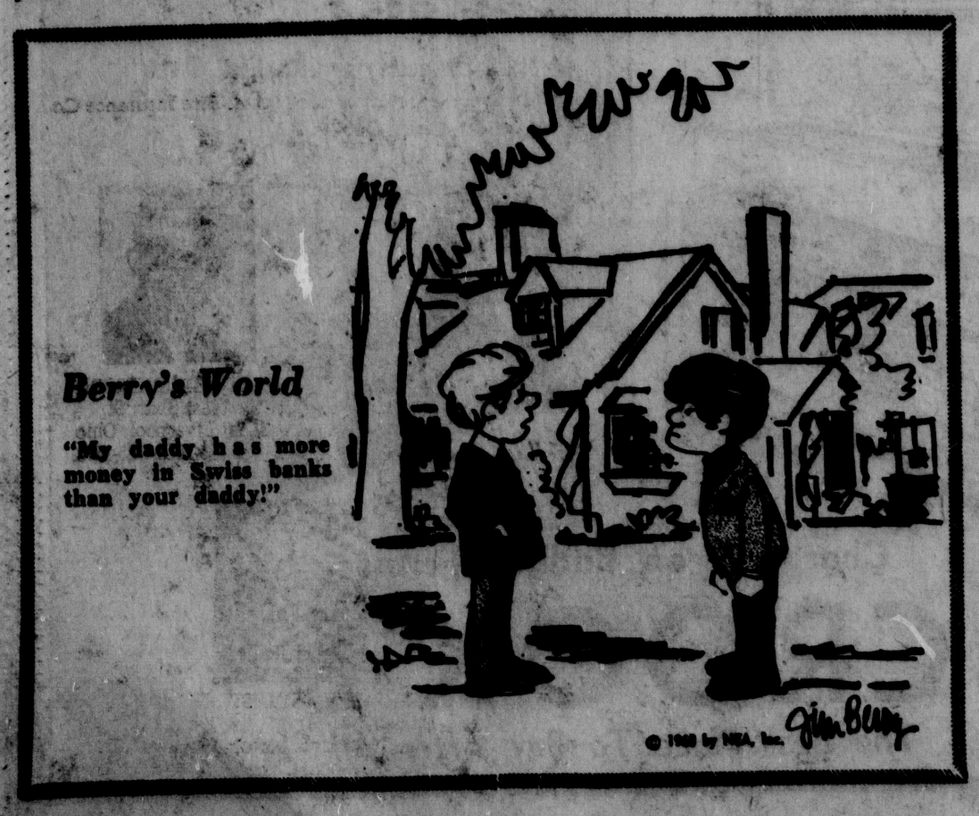

The murderer of Kitty Genovese (the New York City barmaid whose cries for help were ignored by 38 neighbors) sprinted away from his jailers, raped a woman, stole a car, acquired a gun, took as hostages one man, three women and an infant girl, then finally was recaptured. Anyone willing to say the punk's sentence to die in the electric chair should have been commuted?

I will string along with Harry Truman when he says flatly the Democrats will nominate LBJ, also with my own conviction that the Republicans won't be able to unseat him, if he runs, because they will be unable to get together on a candidate who can command wide support.

I do not like the show-business practice of introducing actresses and singers who have been several times married with the prefix "Miss." They should be called by their names. Anything else is bad form.

When it comes to automobiles, Packard still had the best advertising slogan: Ask the Man Who Owns One. Not every auto manufacturer dared to make that statement in the old days. Not every manufacturer dares to make it now.

I see no hope for saving representative democracy other than dynamic skepticism about all the chaff and chum thrown out for the gullible by political manipulators with nothing on their minds but their own agrandizement.

Love's New Sweet Song

GOP Doublecross

By Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON

Now that Gov. Nelson Rockefeller has put himself out of the Republican presidential race, former Vice President Nixon seems to have the field to himself. I thought this would satisfy everyone until I ran into my friend, Trembling, a loyal member of the Republican Party.

Art Buchwald

"Maybe," I said, "Nixon feels that with no one else opposing him for the nomination, he could win for a change."

"Yes, but by running for the Republican nomination unopposed, all he's doing is dividing the Republican Party."

"I don't understand, Trembling," I said.

"It's quite simple. If Romney or Rockefeller had run against Nixon in the primaries it would have united the Republican Party. Republicans would have worked for their own candidates within the party. But now, with only Nixon running, the party is split right down the middle."

"I DON'T THINK Nixon should be blamed for this. After all, it was up to Romney and Rockefeller to run so the party wouldn't be split."

"Romney acted in good faith. He bowed out because he thought Rockefeller was going to run against Nixon."

"That I understand. But why did Rockefeller bow out?"

"Because he thought if he bowed out, then Nixon would bow out, too, and the unity of the Republican Party would have been preserved."

"Then Nixon doublecrossed Rocky by staying in the race?"

"He doublecrossed all of us. One of the reasons many of us in the Republican Party supported Nixon to start with is that we didn't think he had a chance," Trembling said. "How did we know he was so opportunistic and ruthless about going after the Republican nomination?"

"Doesn't Nixon know he's splitting the Republican Party by running alone?" I asked.

"Of course he knows it. We've pleaded with him. We've said, 'Dick, you've got the nomination for the asking. What more do you want to prove? Get out of the race before it's too late.' "

"He wouldn't listen?"

"He said, 'I don't care what it's doing to the party. I feel the issues are so important that I've got to get in the race, even if it means running unopposed.' "

"WELL, YOU'LL have to admit he has guts," I said.

"He has nothing to lose. If he wins the presidential election in November, everyone will consider it an upset. If he loses, the public will chalk it up to one more election that he's lost."

"He's running against himself in Oregon, and if he loses there, he may call it quits."

"By the same token," Trembling continued, "he might be stubborn enough to stick through until the Republican convention in August on the off chance that Rockefeller won't be drafted."

"From what you've said, then, the Republicans seem much more divided than the Democrats."

"They are. The Democrats have President Johnson, McCarthy and Kennedy fighting it out. They're united in giving the nomination to one of the three. But how can the Republicans be united when all they have to support is Nixon?"

Letter To The Editor

EDITOR OF THE REVIEW:

I read with sadness recently about a police report of two youngsters "fighting it out" to settle their differences (Review March 14, 1968).

Without attempting to justify this fracas or assign blame to anyone, isn't it a sad commentary on our times when two Christian youths, from Christian homes, in a Christian community, beat each other bloody with bare fists while 20 Christian young people stand around watching with tacit approval? And the whole tragic affair takes place in church property!

The police report stated, "it was a good, fair fight." We adults know what the officers meant, but isn't it about time someone revealed the secret that Sean Connery, the Dynamic Duo, and John Wayne really don't hit each other in all those film donneybrooks? It's sad to let children grow up believing that fighting is manly or provides any solutions to individual problems. This thinking is what leads to international conflict. Now, I admit children need spanking once in a while, but by the time they become teenagers they should be reasonable.

Is it reasonable to think that there ever can be such a thing as "fair fight?" Of course not! Someone always has the physical emotional, mental or psychological advantage. We were meant to use our hand to bless, build, pet, caress, train, encourage, uphold, and point the way to the stars — not to strike each other, children, or even animals. And there is no such thing as a "good" fight, for it is sinful to fight.

In this Lenten season young people and all the people, should think seriously about the awful abuse Jesus took at the hands of the barbaric Roman soldiers and His own blood thirsty people, and though He could have commanded 20 legions of angels to help Him, He opened not His innocent mouth—to teach us His gentle way. Is there any display of strength such as we find in a gentle man!

To fight with bare fists and attack one another about the head is really simple-minded when you stop to think that the brain controls all body functions and mediates life processes. What a risk! Think of the possible consequences — life-long debility, crippling, brain damage, fractured skulls, thrombosis, heart attack and death. Chester Ice probably never meant to pummel that poor human being to death in a tavern brawl, but now he is in prison doing 20 years for first degree manslaughter. Just on March 18 the Review reported that a 52-year-old Maplewood man died of head injuries. For one blow a man is dead and another's life is ruined.

Fighting is not the answer to solving debates or for proving one's courage. There's no such thing as cowardice to begin with, and history has proven the fatality of war. Under the right psychological conditions, and with sufficient stimulus, any man can be provoked to fight.

But how can we motivate each other to take on our own worst enemy — our own sinful self: The Lord Buddha once said: "Though a man should conquor a thousand times a thousand men in battle, he who conquers himself is the greatest warrior of all."

And our own Lord Jesus who calls us to perfection said: "Blessed are the peacemakers for they shall be called sons of God." "If any man lives by the sword, he will die by the sword." So let's cultivate a reasonable, intelligent, gentle way of life, remembering the prosaic words of Brer Rabbit from Joel Chandler Harris' Uncle Remus, as he admonished supposedly sly ole Brer Fox, outwitted time and again: "What yo' thinks, yo gets!"

DAVID LAWRENCE

GOP Experiment

Gov. Nelson Rockefeller has launched an extraordinary experiment.

He will be glad to be awarded the Republican presidential nomination even though he will not have participated in any primary.

He will rely, instead, on development of public opinion between now and Aug. 5, when the Republican national Convention meets. He will make a series of speeches on "national and international issues."

Gov. Rockefeller was asked if he now was saying he does not "want to be president of the United States."

He answered: "No, I did not say that — I think any citizen would like to (be president) if he feels he can be of service."

Mr. Rockefeller concedes that Richard Nixon is ahead "at this time." The New York governor says, therefore, he will not divide the party by seeking delegates in the various primaries still to be held.

HE OPENLY asserts, however, that, if the convention itself calls him "to serve it and the nation," he stands ready to accept the nomination.

The governor promises to do everything in his power to maintain harmony within the party and to coordinate its efforts. He declares he will spend most of his time on "the issues and the platform positions of the Republican party, speaking on those and working with the party on those."

Mr. Rockefeller expresses the Republican platform will "reflect the realities of the world in which we live" and give "constructive alternatives to the present administration." This is broad enough to cover almost everything.

But it indicates an intention to voice his own convictions and asuumes that, if the country agrees with his views, the Republican party may decide to "draft" him as the man who could best carry out the policies proposed in the platform.

Mr. Rockefeller will make a number of speeches im the next four months. He will not have to travel any great distance to reveal his views. He could make all his addresses in his own state, and they would be ready by the people of the country, particularly if he presents persuasively a dissent from the Johnson administration.

Mr. Nixon may or may not agree with some of the points made by Mr. Rockefeller, but certainly the debate between these two leading Republicans will be in sharp contrast to that which has been going on among the adversaries inside the Democratic party.

The purpose of the Rockefeller effort is to win public opinion not only inside the Republican party but among voters generally. This means that if by chance he is drafted at the Republican convention, he will have attracted substantial support also in the independent group, which will have a decisive voice on election day.

The Rockefeller strategy gives every evidence of having been carefully thought out. It received beforehand the unanimous approval of his advisers.

RICHARD NIXON obviously had the lead among the state delegations and could not be displaced by a victory obtained by the New York governor here and there in the primaries. It became necessary, therefore, to address the whole country — Republicans, Democrats and independents.

Under the American system of government, the processes of public opinion are considered to be vital in shaping national and international policies.

Unfortunately, the convention system is not necessarily responsive to public opinion. Delegations are often controlled by party bosses.

Presidential-preference primaries are held in only 11 states. So Gov. Rockefeller is trying the other course now — an appeal directly to the American people in the belief that, if they agree with his ideas, Republican delegations will be urged to "draft Rockefeller."

Veteran politicans are skeptical about such a course. They believe the delegate system will still dominate and the party platform will be written by a few influential Republicans in Congress and some of the governors.

If this happens and the New York governor's views are well-received, he may have in mind the possibility that, if President Johnson is re-elected this time, there will be a real opening for Nelson Rockefeller in 1972.

Time To Fire The Manager

If the idea of combining Gen. William C. Westmoreland's kick upstairs to Army chief of staff with two other high-level appointments was to make it sound like a routine shuffle, it failed.

It had been surmised for months that President Johnson would have to replace Gen. Westmoreland in Vietnam because there would be no other way to dissipate dissatisfaction with the Vietnam War.

It was the same fix the general manager of a ball club is in when the public loses confidence in the club's ability.

The standard reaction is to fire the manager. The reaction is so standard, in fact, that managers expect to get fired and are a clique of rotating fall-guys, who know their fate is to hang around at good wages until it is time for them to play scapegoat.

There is no reason to think any other general can do any better in Vietnam than Gen. Westmoreland has done. Nor is there any reason to wonder if some other general might do worse. Professional military men can be depended on to do about the same with the same circumstances. They all study the same textbooks.

It isn't lack of military savvy in the field that has bogged down the United States in Vietnam. It isn't anything that can be blamed on tacticians, certainly nothing that can be blamed on the brave Americans who have been offering their lives in a war that threatens to go on forever.

It is one thing for Americans to believe they are in Asia defending the freedom of the people of South Vietnam — and that proposition goes down hard even for most Americans.

It has significant credibility for the majority of Vietnamese.

They feel they are resisting invasion. They are being equipped by allies on the Asiatic mainland similarly fired up by what appears to them to be violation of their territorial rights and interests.

The United States is fighting Red China and Red Russia, too.

Gen. Westmoreland did his best. All the brave Americans in Asia are doing their best. Thousands are dying. tens of thousands are being wounded and mutilated. A new commander in the field after next July 1 won't change anything.

The managerial shuffle may help President Johnson with his political problems. But it won't lessen the determination of the Vietnamese to throw Americans out of Asia at any cost.

Chamber Week

Activities of the East Liverpool Area Chamber of Commerce have reached into almost every area of community interest since it was founded in 1916.

The Chamber has been the one coordinating organization through which programs involving industry, business, schools and government have been advanced.

Sucesses of the Chamber over the years have been a reflection of the talent and energy of its members and that is why, with new projects and new ambitions mapped for the immediate future, it is important for more men and women in East Liverpool and the area to become a part of the Chamber and its scope of action.

The current anniversary observance of the organization should serve to stimulate many in the community to become members, and to inspire present members to undertake new tasks.

Sacrificial Rites Near Sabina

The visitor from afar stopped when he saw the crowd one mile east of Sabina in southwestern Ohio. He was in America to take notes on the way people lived. The name on the mailbox was Richard Rolf.

He wrote the name in his notebook.

Stock trucks were drawn up in ranks. Men with guns were walking about. There was an ear-piercing squealing, the terror-stricken sound of animals who sense imminent death when they smell the blood of their own kind.

A bulldozer was chugging nearby, pushing dirt into a ditch. The visitor from afar asked a bystander what was happening. The bystander's face was flushed and angry.

"We're killing hogs, that's what," he replied, the muscles in his jaw knotted. "Six of my own hogs are in that ditch where the dozer is pushing dirt. There are hundreds more in there."

"Is it a sacrifical rite?" inquired the visitor from afar. "Something to do with religion maybe? Or I'll bet I know. You are celebrating spring with a blood offering to the goddess of animal fertility. I'll bet that's what you're doing. I've never seen anything like this."

The bystander looked hard at the visitor. "You some kinda city nut or something?" he growled. "This ain't no fertility rite and it hasn't got nothing to do with religion, unless you call getting a fair price religion. This is a hog-killing by the National Farmer's Organization to scare packers into giving us a fair price for pork on the hoof."

"Do you think it will work?"

The bystander thought about this before he answered. "I haven't the vaguest idea, mister," he said, biting his lower lip. "But it better. I got six dead hogs in that ditch."

As the visitor from afar walked back to his car to continue his tour of America, he heard more squealing and more gunfire. Who would have expected to run into sacrificial rites in America, he mused.

"Surely, it is a wondrous place . . ." he wrote in his notebook.

Tribute To Loser

Victory in championship basketball play at Columbus carries its own reward.

For years, the forgotten teams have been those ousted in semi-final action. These teams worked hard to become one of the four finalists in their divisions. Often they represented the best showing their school ever made in basketball.

This year first-round losers were presented plaques as remembrances of their trip to Columbus. It was a long-neglected obligation. The Ohio High School Athletic Association will continue the practice in years ahead. We applaud the move.

The attractive plaques will be displayed prominently in high school trophy cases where they will be admired by proud fans and serve as a permanent tribute to a significant achievement.

As years roll on, they will inspire numerous conversations and heated debates all beginning with the words: "Remember that '68 team. . ."

TRUMAN TWILL

Purely Personal Observations

The murderer of Kitty Genovese (the New York City barmaid whose cries for help were ignored by 38 neighbors) sprinted away from his jailers, raped a woman, stole a car, acquired a gun, took as hostages one man, three women and an infant girl, then finally was recaptured. Anyone willing to say the punk's sentence to die in the electric chair should have been commuted?

I will string along with Harry Truman when he says flatly the Democrats will nominate LBJ, also with my own conviction that the Republicans won't be able to unseat him, if he runs, because they will be unable to get together on a candidate who can command wide support.

I do not like the show-business practice of introducing actresses and singers who have been several times married with the prefix "Miss." They should be called by their names. Anything else is bad form.

When it comes to automobiles, Packard still had the best advertising slogan: Ask the Man Who Owns One. Not every auto manufacturer dared to make that statement in the old days. Not every manufacturer dares to make it now.

I see no hope for saving representative democracy other than dynamic skepticism about all the chaff and chum thrown out for the gullible by political manipulators with nothing on their minds but their own agrandizement.

Love's New Sweet Song

GOP Doublecross

By Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON

Now that Gov. Nelson Rockefeller has put himself out of the Republican presidential race, former Vice President Nixon seems to have the field to himself. I thought this would satisfy everyone until I ran into my friend, Trembling, a loyal member of the Republican Party.

Art Buchwald

"Maybe," I said, "Nixon feels that with no one else opposing him for the nomination, he could win for a change."

"Yes, but by running for the Republican nomination unopposed, all he's doing is dividing the Republican Party."

"I don't understand, Trembling," I said.

"It's quite simple. If Romney or Rockefeller had run against Nixon in the primaries it would have united the Republican Party. Republicans would have worked for their own candidates within the party. But now, with only Nixon running, the party is split right down the middle."

"I DON'T THINK Nixon should be blamed for this. After all, it was up to Romney and Rockefeller to run so the party wouldn't be split."

"Romney acted in good faith. He bowed out because he thought Rockefeller was going to run against Nixon."

"That I understand. But why did Rockefeller bow out?"

"Because he thought if he bowed out, then Nixon would bow out, too, and the unity of the Republican Party would have been preserved."

"Then Nixon doublecrossed Rocky by staying in the race?"

"He doublecrossed all of us. One of the reasons many of us in the Republican Party supported Nixon to start with is that we didn't think he had a chance," Trembling said. "How did we know he was so opportunistic and ruthless about going after the Republican nomination?"

"Doesn't Nixon know he's splitting the Republican Party by running alone?" I asked.

"Of course he knows it. We've pleaded with him. We've said, 'Dick, you've got the nomination for the asking. What more do you want to prove? Get out of the race before it's too late.' "

"He wouldn't listen?"

"He said, 'I don't care what it's doing to the party. I feel the issues are so important that I've got to get in the race, even if it means running unopposed.' "

"WELL, YOU'LL have to admit he has guts," I said.

"He has nothing to lose. If he wins the presidential election in November, everyone will consider it an upset. If he loses, the public will chalk it up to one more election that he's lost."

"He's running against himself in Oregon, and if he loses there, he may call it quits."

"By the same token," Trembling continued, "he might be stubborn enough to stick through until the Republican convention in August on the off chance that Rockefeller won't be drafted."

"From what you've said, then, the Republicans seem much more divided than the Democrats."

"They are. The Democrats have President Johnson, McCarthy and Kennedy fighting it out. They're united in giving the nomination to one of the three. But how can the Republicans be united when all they have to support is Nixon?"

Letter To The Editor

EDITOR OF THE REVIEW:

I read with sadness recently about a police report of two youngsters "fighting it out" to settle their differences (Review March 14, 1968).

Without attempting to justify this fracas or assign blame to anyone, isn't it a sad commentary on our times when two Christian youths, from Christian homes, in a Christian community, beat each other bloody with bare fists while 20 Christian young people stand around watching with tacit approval? And the whole tragic affair takes place in church property!

The police report stated, "it was a good, fair fight." We adults know what the officers meant, but isn't it about time someone revealed the secret that Sean Connery, the Dynamic Duo, and John Wayne really don't hit each other in all those film donneybrooks? It's sad to let children grow up believing that fighting is manly or provides any solutions to individual problems. This thinking is what leads to international conflict. Now, I admit children need spanking once in a while, but by the time they become teenagers they should be reasonable.

Is it reasonable to think that there ever can be such a thing as "fair fight?" Of course not! Someone always has the physical emotional, mental or psychological advantage. We were meant to use our hand to bless, build, pet, caress, train, encourage, uphold, and point the way to the stars — not to strike each other, children, or even animals. And there is no such thing as a "good" fight, for it is sinful to fight.

In this Lenten season young people and all the people, should think seriously about the awful abuse Jesus took at the hands of the barbaric Roman soldiers and His own blood thirsty people, and though He could have commanded 20 legions of angels to help Him. He opened not His innocent mouth—to teach us His gentle way. Is there any display of strength such as we find in a gentle man!

To fight with bare fists and attack one another about the head is really simple-minded when you stop to think that the brain controls all body functions and mediates life processes. What a risk! Think of the possible consequences — life-long debility, crippling, brain damage, fractured skulls, thrombosis, heart attack and death. Chester Ice probably never meant to pummel that poor human being to death in a tavern brawl, but now he is in prison doing 20 years for first degree manslaughter. Just on March 18 the Review reported that a 52-year-old Maplewood man died of head injuries. For one blow a man is dead and another's life is ruined.

Fighting is not the answer to solving debates or for proving one's courage. There's no such thing as cowardice to begin with, and history has proven the fatality of war. Under the right psychological conditions, and with sufficient stimulus, any man can be provoked to fight.

But how can we motivate each other to take on our own worst enemy — our own sinful self: The Lord Buddha once said: "Though a man should conquor a thousand times a thousand men in battle, he who conquers himself is the greatest warrior of all."

And our own Lord Jesus who calls us to perfection said: "Blessed are the peacemakers for they shall be called sons of God." "If any man lives by the sword, he will die by the sword." So let's cultivate a reasonable, intelligent, gentle way of life, remembering the prosaic words of Brer Rabbit from Joel Chandler Harris' Uncle Remus, as he admonished supposedly sly ole Brer Fox, outwitted time and again: "What yo' thinks, yo gets!"

GOP Experiment

Gov. Nelson Rockefeller has launched an extraordinary experiment.

He will be glad to be awarded the Republican presidential nomination even though he will not have participated in any primary.

He will rely, instead, on development of public opinion between now and Aug. 5, when the Republican national Convention meets. He will make a series of speeches on "national and international issues."

Gov. Rockefeller was asked if he now was saying he does not "want to be president of the United States."

He answered: "No, I did not say that — I think any citizen would like to (be president) if he feels he can be of service."

Mr. Rockefeller concedes that Richard Nixon is ahead "at this time." The New York governor says, therefore, he will not divide the party by seeking delegates in the various primaries still to be held.

HE OPENLY asserts, however, that, if the convention itself calls him "to serve it and the nation," he stands ready to accept the nomination.

The governor promises to do everything in his power to maintain harmony within the party and to coordinate its efforts. He declares he will spend most of his time on "the issues and the platform positions of the Republican party, speaking on those and working with the party on those."

Mr. Rockefeller expresses the Republican platform will "reflect the realities of the world in which we live" and give "constructive alternatives to the present administration." This is broad enough to cover almost everything.

But it indicates an intention to voice his own convictions and asuumes that, if the country agrees with his views, the Republican party may decide to "draft" him as the man who could best carry out the policies proposed in the platform.

Mr. Rockefeller will make a number of speeches im the next four months. He will not have to travel any great distance to reveal his views. He could make all his addresses in his own state, and they would be ready by the people of the country, particularly if he presents persuasively a dissent from the Johnson administration.

Mr. Nixon may or may not agree with some of the points made by Mr. Rockefeller, but certainly the debate between these two leading Republicans will be in sharp contrast to that which has been going on among the adversaries inside the Democratic party.

The purpose of the Rockefeller effort is to win public opinion not only inside the Republican party but among voters generally. This means that if by chance he is drafted at the Republican convention, he will have attracted substantial support also in the independent group, which will have a decisive voice on election day.

The Rockefeller strategy gives every evidence of having been carefully thought out. It received beforehand the unanimous approval of his advisers.

RICHARD NIXON obviously had the lead among the state delegations and could not be displaced by a victory obtained by the New York governor here and there in the primaries. It became necessary, therefore, to address the whole country — Republicans, Democrats and independents.

If this happens and the New York governor's views are well-received, he may have in mind the possibility that, if President Johnson is re-elected this time, there will be a real opening for Nelson Rockefeller in 1972.

A contractor will be hired to move the department's bulldozer from Bloomfield to the new tract. The bulldozer is used to cover the refuse daily, complying with state and county health regulations.

The 17-acre tract in Bloomfield has been in use since about 1958, when the administration of former Mayor Fred P. Lawrence discontinued use of the old incinerator furnace on the riverfront in favor of burying the trash. The move ended the need for large purchases of coal, frequent furnace repairs and building maintenance.

The mayor pointed out that the Bloomfield tract, leveled since the refuse was buried, is designated to become an East Liverpool recreation site.

There is a Colt baseball field at the site at present and plans have been made to provide two more fields. The mayor recalled that he contacted a Marine Corps Reserve unit at Youngstown months ago on a promise it would provide heavy equipment for leveling and preparing the site for additional ballfields.

After the original contact was made, the commander was transferred to Vietnam. The new commander has promised to make good on the pledge of the officer who formerly was in charge, but pointed out that war requirements take precedence, the mayor said.

The Bloomfield tract is scheduled for administration by the City Park Commission as part of the city's recreation complex, the mayor said.

The sweep by 50,000 U.S. and South Vietnamese troops is the biggest allied operation of the war. It is taking place in five provinces around Saigon with the aim of easing enemy pressure on the capital and wresting the initiative from the Viet Cong.

In the air war, the U.S. Command announced that swing wing F111s, the newest American warplanes, flew their first combat mission Monday. The radar-guided, supersonic jets flew from Ta. the structure, the mayor said.

A contractor will be hired to move the department's bulldozer from Bloomfield to the new tract. The bulldozer is used to cover the refuse daily, complying with state and county health regulations.

The 17-acre tract in Bloomfield has been in use since about 1958, when the administration of former Mayor Fred P. Lawrence discontinued use of the old incinerator furnace on the riverfront in favor of burying the trash. The move ended the need for large purchases of coal, frequent furnace repairs and building maintenance.

The mayor pointed out that the Bloomfield tract, leveled since the refuse was buried, is designated to become an East Liverpool recreation site.

There is a Colt baseball field at the site at present and plans have been made to provide two more fields. The mayor recalled that he contacted a Marine Corps Reserve unit at Youngstown months ago on a promise it would provide heavy equipment for leveling and preparing the site for additional ballfields.

After the original contact was made, the commander was transferred to Vietnam. The new commander has promised to make good on the pledge of the officer who formerly was in charge, but pointed out that war requirements take precedence, the mayor said.

The Bloomfield tract is scheduled for administration by the City Park Commission as part of the city's recreation complex, the mayor said.

'Dragnet' Drama Scores Point

Next Thursday's "Dragnet" episode is considerably more than the usual cops-and-robbers stuff and proves that TV entertainment actually can be a reflection of our society and its problems when it wants to.

Hal Humphrey

Jack Webb and writer Michael Donovan (a pseudonym) have come up with a script dealing with the friction frequently developing between white cops and Negro citizens. The story is wrapped off too patly in a spot or two, but generally it is well done and says an awful lot on the subject in the scant half hour.

EVERY ONE of the Los Angeles police department's 16 divisions now has attached to it a community relations officer, or CRO as he is called in the department. In this particular episode Sgt. Joe Friday (Webb) is the CRO, and part of his job is speaking before groups of citizens living in his district.

After one such meeting a Negro man and wife are stopped on their way home by a patrol car and questioned "like common criminals," the man complained to Sgt. Friday the following day.

The couple happened to be driving a green Mustang and had a TV set in the back seat which they had picked up from a repair shop. What they didn't know (and the cops didn't bother to explain) was that five burglaries (TV sets included) had taken place in the neighborhood in recent weeks and that a green Mustang was tops on a priority list of wanted vehicles for such burglaries.

THE NEGRO COUPLE is assuaged somewhat, but Sgt. Friday admits the patrolmen in this case made one mistake.

"What's that, Sergeant?" the wife asked.

"They didn't tell you why, why they stopped you."

In the next scene the patrolmen are called in by Sgt. Friday and questioned about the incident. One of them sees Friday's point about explaining why the couple was stopped; the other doesn't buy that routine.

"I figure that's your job," says the patrolman. "You're the community relations officer. My job's enforcing the law and keeping crime down. If I step on a few toes doing that, I guess it's too bad."

"You keep thinking your way and I wouldn't want to bet how much of a future you've got on the job," he tells him.

In the same episode Friday delivers a speech to the officers in his division on what community relations are all about.

Later he and Gannon (Harry Morgan) pick up a radio call that another unit needs assistance in a Code 2. When they arrive they find a Negro (one who'd been belligerent at the first community meeting) holed up and resisting arrest on a traffic warrant.

The young Negro doesn't believe Sgt. Friday's line that he can be out on bail in five minutes, but finally is talked into surrendering by Sgt. Friday.

As I said, some parts of this drama are a bit too pat, and a lot of Negroes watching it are going to say to themselves, "Yeah? Where's this Sgt. Friday when a guy needs him?"

WEBB ADMITS this episode doesn't tell the whole story. He couldn't in a bare half hour, but at least he grappled with a problem that's very tense today. Webb even had Los Angeles Police Chief Thomas Reddin come on at the end of the show and make a plea for mutual understanding and tolerance between citizens and the police.

Even with its flaws, the "Dragnet" episode at least had something to say, which is rarely done on any TV series, where pure escapism is the order of the day.

When Webb returned to NBC early last year with "Dragnet" he said he hoped a series like "Dragnet" could do something to restore respect for the law, but it isn't enough just to show cops tracking down criminals. Respect for the law entails much more than that, as Webb apparently has found out.

Court Action Due Today In Powell Case

NEW YORK (AP) Adam Clayton Powell has been ordered to show cause why his parole should not be revoked pending an appeal of his contempt conviction.

The court action today is one of three related hearings scheduled, but Powell, who dropped from public sight Monday after his weekend return to Harlem, is not required to appear personally for any of them.

Powell's whereabouts were not known, but he was reported to have gone back to his island retreat in Bimini, the Bahamas, where he has lived most of the last year since his expulsion from Congress.

The hearing on revoking parole was ordered by State Supreme Court Justice Joseph A. Sarafite upon the application of an attorney for Mrs. Esther James, a Harlem widow who won a defamation suit against Powell.

Raymond Rubin, the attorney, alleged that the justice who granted the parole was unaware that a Puerto Rican court had issued an arrest order against Powell Wednesday for violating parole there.

Justice Arthur Markewich issued the parole Friday night after Powell agreed to a stipulation that he file an appeal within two weeks on a criminal contempt finding stemming from the defamation case.

Another hearing on the court calendar involves an inquest in which Mrs. James, who has been battling Powell in the courts for eight years, seeks to have him assessed for the costs involved in collecting the original defamation judgment.

A third hearing is on a motion by Powell's attorney to have the court strike down three contempt rulings against his client on the ground that Powell has paid almost all the money he owes Mrs. James.

Officers Arrest Man In Building Damage

A man identified as Harry LaFlamme, 37, of East Hampton, Mass., was taken into custody shortly after 2 a. m. today after he allegedly damaged three imitiation marble panels on the front of the New York Restaurant in the Bondy Building on Market St., police reported.

Lt. Paul A. Burson Jr. cited LaFlamme, who said he had broken the panels with his foot. LaFlamme said he is residing temporarily at the Travelers Hotel.

The defendant was taken to City Hospital about 4 a. m. for treatment for lacerations of the face and head. Officers said he had been hurt in a fight, but declined to give any details. LaFlamme also faces an intoxication charge.

Goal Of $22,500 Set In Cancer Solicitation

LISBON — Columbiana County has a $22,500 goal in the American Cancer Society's month - long educational and fund - raising crusade beginning April 1.

Galen Greenisen of Salem is president of the county unit and Jack H. Cohen, East Palestine attorney, is county crusade chairman.

He headed the 1967 crusade which brought in $16,000 for the ACS program of research, education and service. An additional $5,000 for cancer research was received from legacies.

VOLUNTEERS will canvass homes in the cities and villages and this year for the first time letters will be mailed to all boxholders in the rural areas. Everyone contacted, by canvass or letter, will receive the society's leaflet on cancer's seven warning signals.

Greenisen said the public slowly is acquiring knowledge of the "signals," but too many people are unfamiliar with them. He said they are potential aids to early diagnosis when cancer is in its earliest and most curable stage.

The 1968 crusade slogan is "It makes sense to know the seven warning signals of cancer, and it makes sense to give to the American Cancer Society."

Columbiana — Business and Professional Women's Club, Mrs. Lorraine Kleist and Mrs. Lawrence Davis.

Out Of The Air

By HAL HUMPHREY

'Dragnet' Drama Scores Point

Next Thursday's "Dragnet" episode is considerably more than the usual cops-and-robbers stuff and proves that TV entertainment actually can be a reflection of our society and its problems when it wants to.

Hal Humphrey

Jack Webb and writer Michael Donovan (a pseudonym) have come up with a script dealing with the friction frequently developing between white cops and Negro citizens. The story is wrapped off too patly in a spot or two, but generally it is well done and says an awful lot on the subject in the scant half hour.

-:-

EVERY ONE of the Los Angeles police department's 16 divisions now has attached to it a community relations officer, or CRO as he is called in the department. In this particular episode Sgt. Joe Friday (Webb) is the CRO, and part of his job is speaking before groups of citizens living in his district.

After one such meeting a Negro man and wife are stopped on their way home by a patrol car and questioned "like common criminals," the man complained to Sgt. Friday the following day.

The couple happened to be driving a green Mustang and had a TV set in the back seat which they had picked up from a repair shop. What they didn't know (and the cops didn't bother to explain) was that five burglaries (TV sets included) had taken place in the neighborhood in recent weeks and that a green Mustang was tops on a priority list of wanted vehicles for such burglaries.

THE NEGRO COUPLE is assuaged somewhat, but Sgt. Friday admits the patrolmen in this case made one mistake.

"What's that, Sergeant?" the wife asked.

"They didn't tell you why, why they stopped you."

In the next scene the patrolmen are called in by Sgt. Friday and questioned about the incident. One of them sees Friday's point about explaining why the couple was stopped; the other doesn't buy that routine.

"I figure that's your job," says the patrolman. "You're the community relations officer. My job's enforcing the law and keeping crime down. If I step on a few toes doing that, I guess it's too bad."

"You keep thinking your way and I wouldn't want to bet how much of a future you've got on the job," he tells him.

In the same episode Friday delivers a speech to the officers in his division on what community relations are all about.

Later he and Gannon (Harry Morgan) pick up a radio call that another unit needs assistance in a Code 2. When they arrive they find a Negro (one who'd been belligerent at the first community meeting) holed up and resisting arrest on a traffic warrant.

The young Negro doesn't believe Sgt. Friday's line that he can be out on bail in five minutes, but finally is talked into surrendering by Sgt. Friday.

As I said, some parts of this drama are a bit too pat, and a lot of Negroes watching it are going to say to themselves, "Yeah? Where's this Sgt. Friday when a guy needs him?"

WEBB ADMITS this episode doesn't tell the whole story. He couldn't in a bare half hour, but at least he grappled with a problem that's very tense today. Webb even had Los Angeles Police Chief Thomas Reddin come on at the end of the show and make a plea for mutual understanding and tolerance between citizens and the police.

Even with its flaws, the "Dragnet" episode at least had something to say, which is rarely done on any TV series, where pure escapism is the order of the day.

When Webb returned to NBC early last year with "Dragnet" he said he hoped a series like "Dragnet" could do something to restore respect for the law, but it isn't enough just to show cops tracking down criminals. Respect for the law entails much more than that, as Webb apparently has found out.

Court Action Due Today In Powell Case

NEW YORK (AP) Adam Clayton Powell has been ordered to show cause why his parole should not be revoked pending an appeal of his contempt conviction.

The court action today is one of three related hearings scheduled, but Powell, who dropped from public sight Monday after his weekend return to Harlem, is not required to appear personally for any of them.

Powell's whereabouts were not known, but he was reported to have gone back to his island retreat in Bimini, the Bahamas, where he has lived most of the last year since his expulsion from Congress.

The hearing on revoking parole was ordered by State Supreme Court Justice Joseph A. Sarafite upon the application of an attorney for Mrs. Esther James, a Harlem widow who won a defamation suit against Powell.

Raymond Rubin, the attorney, alleged that the justice who granted the parole was unaware that a Puerto Rican court had issued an arrest order against Powell Wednesday for violating parole there.

Justice Arthur Markewich issued the parole Friday night after Powell agreed to a stipulation that he file an appeal within two weeks on a criminal contempt finding stemming from the defamation case.

Another hearing on the court calendar involves an inquest in which Mrs. James, who has been battling Powell in the courts for eight years, seeks to have him assessed for the costs involved in collecting the original defamation judgment.

A third hearing is on a motion by Powell's attorney to have the court strike down three contempt rulings against his client on the ground that Powell has paid almost all the money he owes Mrs. James.

More Students Due For Area

African With OSU Degree Eyes Post-Graduate Work

By LIDA SMITH

Having earned a Bachelor of Science degree in industrial production, what's next in an educational sense for a resident of Ethopia who has been studying in America since 1965?

The student, Mebrate Mengistu, said he now plans to seek his master's degree, providing he can find sufficient employment with which to meet the additional expense of post-graduate work.

MENGISTU, who came to the East Liverpool area in August 1965 under the African scholarship program in American universities, has used two and a half years of his allotted four years.

He was graduated March 17 from Ohio State University, and the program's funds stop on a student's graduation.

Mengistu is the "foster" son of Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Reynolds of Calcutta. He hails from Addis Ababa, Ethiopia's capital, where the native tongue is "Amharic." He is one of five children and the only one who has come to America to study. His father operates a small department store.

WHEN queried about some of the differences between Addis Ababa and East Liverpool, Mengistu pointed to the architecture — African houses for the most part being round — and to the climate.

MEBRATE MENGISTU
Seeks More Education.

And, in contrast to the mini skirts in America, the women's dresses in Africa are full length. They are made, Mengistu said, from a woven, airy material, however, which allows for "air-conditioning."

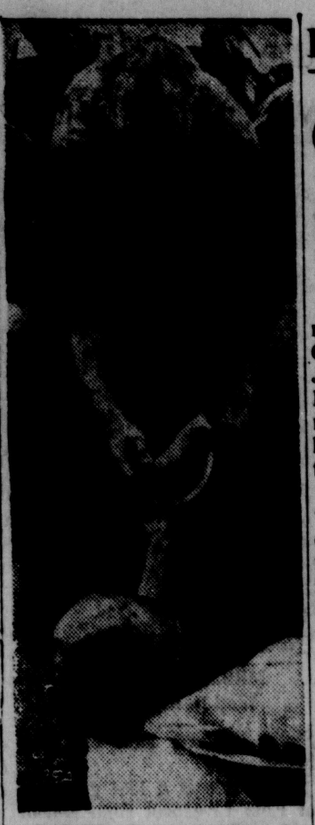

Mengistu, when he is home from college, resides with Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds who are the parents of this area's ASPAU program chairman, Mrs. Robert (Barbara) Morris. She said this area has been commended for having had percentage-wise more ASPAU students than, for example, a city the size of Chicago.

WANTING to make the percentage even better, she is now seeking tentative "foster" parents for three or four more students who will arrive late this summer. Mrs. Morris, who explained that the program pays for everything for the students until their graduation from college, said she must have the foster families selected by May. The prospective parents will be interviewed and the program will be explained to them in the hope that both the program's requirements and the families' expectations will be met, she said.

Mrs. Morris seems to be destined to assist in the program, her brother, Dr. Dan F. Reynolds, being a medical missionary in Africa. He has been there about 6½ years. He and his wife have three children.

Area families who want to gain in knowledge about African countries and who want to help students become familiar with our food, dialect and dress, as well as provide family life for them, may contact Mrs. Morris at 386-6639.

ESSEX FELLS, N.J. (AP)—Martin F. Tiernan, 85, a leading industrialist who was a pioneer in the chlorination process of purifying water, died Sunday. Tiernan was a former president and chairman of Wallace & Tiernan Inc., of Belleville, N.J.

The DOCTOR Says

By DR. W. G. BRANDSTADT

Q — A urologist says I have a nonspecific bacterial infection in my bladder. Antibiotics have not helped. Is there anything that will clear it up? Would the fact that my uterus presses on my bladder cause this infection?

Dr. Brandstadt

A — Different bacteria require different antiseptics and, in some cases, tests must be made to determine whether the organisms causing the infection have become resistant to the treatment used. Pressure from inside the pelvis may irritate the bladder and cause frequent urination but will not cause infection.

Q — I am a woman, 72, and have a constant urge to urinate. When I do, I have a burning pain. What can I take for it?

A — First, have your doctor determine the cause. A treatment program might include drugs and diet that will change the acidity or alkalinity of your urine, urinary antiseptics and drugs to soothe your bladder. In stubborn cases, it may be necessary to irrigate the bladder with a weak solution of silver nitrate or some other antiseptic.

Q — Can an ulcer of the bladder be cured? Does it turn to cancer?

A — Chronic ulcers of the bladder are notoriously hard to cure. Local treatment through a cystoscope is usually required. Chronic irritation of the bladder may be a precipating cause of some cancers.

Q — My doctor found pus in my urine. What is the cause?

A— The cause is an infection in the kidneys, bladder or both. Urinary antiseptics usually clear up this condition.

Q — My bladder has fallen. My doctor says I should have it repaired but it doesn't bother me. It has been like that for 20 years. Are there any exercises that would help? If the bladder is put back in place, will it stay put?

A — A repair operation for a bladder that protrudes into the birth canal is usually advisable to prevent a bladder infection. I know of no exercise that will hold your bladder in place. Since your cystocele is a result of one or more deliveries and since I assume you are past the childbearing age, there should be no danger of a recurrence after the operation.

Q — My doctor says I have scar tissue in my urethra and must have more cystoscopic dilations. Won't this instrumentation cause more scarring? If not, how many more treatments will be necessary?

A—If the instrumentation is properly performed by a qualified urologist, it will not cause scarring. Many treatments are usually required. The number depends on the progress made toward correction of the underlying cause.

Please send your questions and comments to Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D., in care of The Review. While Dr. Brandstadt cannot anser individual letters, he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

Viet War Termed No Issue In Indictment Of Dr. Spock

BOSTON (AP) — The war in Vietnam is not an issue in the indictment of Dr. Benjamin Spock and four others, the government said Monday in a memorandum filed in U.S. District Court opposing dismissal of the indictments.

Spock and his codefendants called the Vietnam war illegal in their motions for dismissal of the indictments charging them with conspiracy to counsel young men to evade the draft.

The Justice Department's replies to the questions raised by Spock and the others are the first legal defense of the American position in the war brought before a court.

"United States presence in Vietnam is supported by the full constitutional authority of the President and Congress, and no declaration of war is necessary to authorize this presence," the government said.

The government said the legality of the war should not be examined in the Spock case "both because the court lacks jurisdiction to adjudicate it and because defendants lack standing to raise it."

Defendants with Spock, 64, are William Sloane Coffin Jr., 43, chaplain at Yale University; Michael Ferber, 23, of Boston, a Harvard graduate student; Mitchell Goodman, 44, of New York and Temple, Maine; and Marcus Raskin, 33, of Washington, codirector of the Institute for Policy Studies.

The motions for dismissal said the Selective Service Act was invalid, and charged that regulations of the agency requiring draft eligibles to possess registration cards and classification cards were violations of free speech and of the 5th Amendment.

More Students Due For Area

African With OSU Degree Eyes Post-Graduate Work

By LIDA SMITH

Having earned a Bachelor of Science degree in industrial production, what's next in an educational sense for a resident of Ethopia who has been studying in America since 1965?

The student, Mebrate Mengistu, said he now plans to seek his master's degree, providing he can find sufficient employment with which to meet the additional expense of post-graduate work.

MENGISTU, who came to the East Liverpool area in August 1965 under the African scholarship program in American universities, has used two and a half years of his allotted four years.

He was graduated March 17 from Ohio State University, and the program's funds stop on a student's graduation.

Mengistu is the "foster" son of Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Reynolds of Calcutta. He hails from Addis Ababa, Ethiopia's capital, where the native tongue is "Amharic." He is one of five children and the only one who has come to America to study. His father operates a small department store.

WHEN queried about some of the differences between Addis Ababa and East Liverpool, Mengistu pointed to the architecture — African houses for the most part being round — and to the climate.

MEBRATE MENGISTU
Seeks More Education.

And, in contrast to the mini skirts in America, the women's dresses in Africa are full length. They are made, Mengistu said, from a woven, airy material, however, which allows for "air-conditioning."

Mengistu, when he is home from college, resides with Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds who are the parents of this area's ASPAU program chairman, Mrs. Robert (Barbara) Morris. She said this area has been commended for having had percentage-wise more ASPAU students than, for example, a city the size of Chicago.

WANTING to make the percentage even better, she is now seeking tentative "foster" parents for three or four more students who will arrive late this summer. Mrs. Morris, who explained that the program pays for everything for the students until their graduation from college, said she must have the foster families selected by May. The prospective parents will be interviewed and the program will be explained to them in the hope that both the program's requirements and the families' expectations will be met, she said.

Mrs. Morris seems to be destined to assist in the program, her brother, Dr. Dan F. Reynolds, being a medical missionary in Africa. He has been there about 6½ years. He and his wife have three children.

Area families who want to gain in knowledge about African countries and who want to help students become familiar with our food, dialect and dress, as well as provide family life for them, may contact Mrs. Morris at 386-6639.

Proposes Conference To Create Monetary Plan

France Calls For Real Gold System

BRUSSELS (AP) — With three days until the Stockholm conference that seeks final accord on "paper gold" as international credit, France called today for a conference to create a monetary system ruled by real gold.

"France, however, was completely isolated," Dutch Finance Minister Hendrik Witteveen said after French Finance Minister Michel Debre argued his point at a dinner here Monday night.

Debre told his colleagues from the Common Market countries that special drawing rights on the International Monetary Fund were not a solution to the world monetary crisis. The drawing rights are called "paper gold."

Gold Would Be Supreme

Debre said that instead, the official price of gold should be raised and a new monetary system set up with gold supreme. A conference should be convoked, he declared, "to make all currencies juridically equal."

President Charles de Gaulle, whose government has left the international gold pool, hoarded gold and warred against the U.S. dollar as a reserve currency, has demanded a return to the simple gold system.

Replying to Debre Monday night, however, Italian Treasury Minister Emilio Colombo and West German Economics Minister Karl Schiller said the two-pricegold market and the system of drawing rights could function quite well.

Under the two-price system, central banks back their nations' currencies with gold at $35 an ounce and the public deals in a market where the price varies with supply and demand.

Agreed With 5 Partners

In Rio de Janeiro last September France agreed with her five Common Market partners, the United States, Japan, Sweden and Canada to cut down on the role of gold and create the drawing rights to provide readier currency for world trade.

If the drawing rights system is finally approved in Stockholm by the 10 richest non-Communist countries it could usher in a new epoch in international payments in which gold's role would diminish. Sponsors of the "paper gold" system argue that it would be easier to control than the dynamic gold market and would ensure a growth of world currency resources needed for the expansion of trade.

Heated Wrangle Expected

At Stockholm a heated wrangle is expected between France, represented by Debre, and the United States, represented by Treasury Secretary Henry M. Fowler. Italy and West Germany have been cast by some experts in the role of mediators.

"We still hope on Thursday evening in Stockholm to convince France of the necessity for special drawing rights," Witteveen said.

The Dutch finance minister said he felt France could not pull out of the basic agreement on drawing rights reached in Rio last fall. In Witteveen's opinion, France may go along with the system at Stockholm once she realizes she will be isolated there as well.

France may agree, he said, "but on condition that she can opt out." One big issue is the determination of the point at which a country that disapproves of drawing rights can refuse to take part in the system.

If approved, the new system is expected to come into operation next year at the earliest. The reserve fund would amount to a relatively modest $400 million the first year, but the drawing rights are intended to increase each year afterwards.

Will Lead To Duty In Viet

Battleship New Jersey Sails In Comeback Trials

PHILADELPHIA (AP) The battleship USS New Jersey sails today in the second phase of a comeback that will lead eventually to Vietnam duty.

Tugs stood by at Philadelphia Naval Shipyard to nudge the 45,000-ton battlewagon — nearly as long as three football fields —down to the mouth of the Delaware River where she will proceed out into the Atlantic under her own steam for three days of sea trials. The ship has been in the mothball fleet for more than 10 years.

After the trials, the New Jersey will steam back to Philadelphia where she will be recommissioned April 6. Then the battleship will put out to sea again to test fire her nine 16-inch guns.

The New Jersey will proceed to the Gulf of Tonkin, probably in early fall, where she will go on station to hurl 2,700-pond projectiles at North Vietnam's coastal cities and defenses.

The Navy believes the New Jersey's destructive guns will help ease the burgeoning loss in men and aircraft in bombing missions over North Vietnam. That was the main argument of Navy brass who campaigned for the recommissioning.

Two purposes will be served by the three days of trials.

Capt. J. Edward Snyder, who served during World War II as a gunnery officer aboard the now scrapped USS Pennsylvania, his crew of 1,400 men, and shipyard personnel will tax the New Jersey almost to the limit.

The battlewagon will be brought up to its maximum speed of 31 knots and hundreds of items of equipment and machinery and electronic gear will be tested.

The trials also will give the crew, drawn largely from other ships in the Atlantic Fleet, a chance to renew skills and learn new ones. Only a few of the crew, besides Snyder, have battleship service since none of the floating fortresses has sailed in more than a decade.

The New Jersey will have only half the normal 2,800-man crew that took her through World War II and the Korean war. The smaller crew was possible because the battleship was stripped of all but her big guns and because of extensive use of sophisticated electronic equipment.

After joining the Pacific Fleet, the New Jersey's home port will be Long Beach, Calif.

Crew Letters Described As 'Propaganda'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department has described as probable propaganda North Korea's distribution of letters from captive crew members of the USS Pueblo, three of which were sent to Michigan Gov. George Romney.

State Department press officer Robert J. McCloskey said Monday delivery of the letters to the families of crew members "with the consent of North Korean authorities, has propaganda overtones."

North Korea has demanded a U.S. apology for allegedly sending the Pueblo into its waters on a spying mission. The intelligence-gathering ship, with 83 men aboard, was captured Jan. 23. One crewman died later.

Romney's office said the governor has received letters from three men identifying themselves as members of the Pueblo crew.

The letters were received last week and asked Romney for any assistance possible but "did not deal in specifics," the governor's office said.

A North Korean broadcast heard in Tokyo today claimed that nine more letters of appeal have been written by Pueblo crewmen and sent to President Johnson, the U.S. goverment, various politicians and crewmen's families.

McCloskey declined comment on the substance of the 12th private meeting between U.S. and North Korean negotiators in Panmujom Friday or an open session Sunday night, Washington time. He said if the talks are to be productive they must remain substantially private.

Proposal Studied

FREEDOM — The trustees of the Beaver County Community College will study a possible change in the number of members on the board. There currently are nine, but under law 15 are allowed. Ralph Bennett of New Brighton is heading a committee to set the date and site for the next board meeting. He also is in charge of the nominating committee for officers.

Streets, Appropriation Busy Salineville Council

SALINEVILLE — The inclusion of some back streets in the hard - surfacing program was discussed, and the annual appropriation was approved by Salineville Council Monday night.

Council proposed an attempt be made to include some of the back streets in its recommendation for hard surfacing when the street committee next meets with John Ursu, county engineer.

The appropriations totaling approximately $90,000, virtually the same as last year's budget, Mrs. Sarah Ahlborn, clerk, reported.

In other business, on recommendation of the street committee, Council voted to purchase two more loads of slag.

Council expressed thanks to Brammer's Equipment Co. for sweeping the village streets last week. Brammers donated the services of a new street sweeper.

The fire department also was thanked for its aid in the cleaning.

An offer from the state to furnish flasher signals for the school if the village maintained them was accepted by Council.

Councilman Gillis Earl reported he has received complaints that shooting at the village dump is creating safety hazards.

Council voted to summon the fire marshal to check buildings in the village which could be fire hazards.

A proposal to extend street lights to outlying districts was discussed.

Gillis Earl, chairman of the street committee, reported several drains in the village need cleaning.

Howard Ahlborn, council president, was in charge of the meeting in the absence of Mayor Dwayne Felton.

Council will meet again April 10.

Hearing Delayed For Youths Cited In 4 City Blazes

LISBON — Judge Louis Tobin of Juvenile Court this morning continued for one week the arraignment of two East Liverpool boys, 14 and 16, charged with setting four fires in vacant homes since March 8.

The 14-year-old appeared with his parents and attorney, but the other boy, who lives with his mother, did not have counsel. Judge Tobin appointed Ben Berman of East Liverpool to represent him.

Since the older boy's mother works and there is no one to supervise him, Judge Tobin ordered him held in detention. Parents of the younger boy promised to keep constant watch over him.

The court scheduled conferences for both boys Wednesday at the County Mental Health Clinic here.

Roche Quits In Viet, Hits U.S. Policies

SAIGON (AP) — A retired U.S. Army officer who spent more than four years in military and civilian posts in South Vietnam says he is quitting because, despite recent enemy successes, the United States is following "the same old policies."

Sidney J. Roche, a retired lieutenant colonel, said in a statement that he had hoped or "some change in policies" after the success of the Viet Cong Tet offensive.

"However," he said, "it appears that we are going to follow the same old road and pursue the same policies."

While in the Army, Roche was on the staff of Gen. William C. Westmoreland, U.S. military commander in Vietnam. Since leaving the service, he has been with the U.S. Agency for International Development (AID).

He was a field coordinator for the New Life (hamlet) Development program.

In his letter of resignation, Roche listed what he said were the primary reasons U.S. efforts to end the war are being frustrated.

Among other factors, he blamed corruption in the South Vietnamese government, faulty U.S. military tactics, growing strength of the Communist party apparatus in South Vietnam, failure of the pacification program, failure of basic U.S. aid programs to meet the needs of Vietnam and failure to give adequate aid to 1.4 million South Vietnamese refugees.

"After more than four years involvement in Vietnam affairs," Roche said, "I am finally throwing in the towel."

Driver Fined $41 On Tickets; Truckers Pay On Overloads

An East Liverpool driver accused of ignoring 13 parking tickets paid $41.50 today in Municipal Court and two truckers cited by the Ohio Highway Patrol on overload charges forfeited bonds totaling $254.20.

Judge Samuel M. Chertoff meted out a fine of $34 and $7.50 costs to Frank C. Smith of 412 Monroe St., accused of ignoring 13 parking tickets. Smith was named in an affidavit signed by "Meter Maid" Maxine Clark.

It's the third in a series of charges taken to court as "Meter Maids" pushed a campaign to clean up a backlog of old tickets. The judge said the penalty for Smith was computed at $10, plus $7.50 costs, for the first ticket and $2 for each additional citation.

Jacob Diehl of Beaver Falls forfeited a $181.90 bond on a charge of operating a rig with a 7,470 - pound overload. Leo Frank Walters of Youngstown, accused of driving a truck with an overload of 3,800 pounds, forfeited $72.30.

Both were cited Monday at 11:30 a.m. on Route 7, the patrol said.

William R. Noah Jr. of Post Office Box 163, Newell, was fined $25 and costs after pleading "no contest" to a charge of reckless operation of a motorcycle. He was cited Monday at 5:18 p. m. on Broadway by Patrolman Charles Coen.

William E. Davis of RD 2 was fined $10 and costs on a charge of speeding 50 miles an hour in a 40-mile zone. Cited Friday at 10:30 p. m. on Route 170 by the patrol, he pleaded "no contest."

Robert Ankrom of 2201 Harvey Ave. was ordered to pay court costs on a charge of operating an auto with faulty headlights and fined $25 and costs on a charge of using fictitious plates on his auto.

Ankrom pleaded "no contest" on each charge. He was cited Thursday at 1 p. m. on Route 7 by the patrol.

'Wrong-Way Parking' Rule Ends For Spring

Police Chief A. J. Radeschi today issued an order lifting the customary winter - time rule that permits so - called "wrong-way parking," particularly on hillside streets.

The advent of spring means the end of the dispensation granted annually against ticketing of cars parked the wrong way at the curb, the chief explained. When the order is in effect, motorist may park their autos headed downhill on either side of a street to facilitate movement away from the curb in slippery weather.

The chief also reminded that new Ohio auto registration plates must be displayed by April 15. There will be no extension of the present tags, he added.

Battleship New Jersey Sails In Comeback Trials

PHILADELPHIA (AP) The battleship USS New Jersey sails today in the second phase of a comeback that will lead eventually to Vietnam duty.

Tugs stood by at Philadelphia Naval Shipyard to nudge the 45,000-ton battlewagon — nearly as long as three football fields —down to the mouth of the Dlaware River where she will proceed out into the Atlantic under her own steam for three days of sea trials. The ship has been in the mothball fleet for more than 10 years.

After the trials, the New Jersey will steam back to Philadelphia where she will be recommissioned April 6. Then the battleship will put out to sea again to test fire her nine 16-inch guns.

The New Jersey will proceed to the Gulf of Tonkin, probably in early fall, where she will go on station to hurl 2,700-pond projectiles at North Vietnam's coastal cities and defenses.

The Navy believes the New Jersey's destructive guns will help ease the burgeoning loss in men and aircraft in bombing missions over North Vietnam. That was the main argument of Navy brass who campaigned for the recommissioning.

Two purposes will be served by the three days of trials.

Capt. J. Edward Snyder, who served during World War II as a gunnery officer aboard the now scrapped USS Pennsylvania, his crew of 1,400 men, and shipyard personnel will tax the New Jersey almost to the limit.

The battlewagon will be brought up to its maximum speed of 31 knots and hundreds of items of equipment and machinery and electronic gear will be tested.

The trials also will give the crew, drawn largely from other ships in the Atlantic Fleet, a chance to renew skills and learn new ones. Only a few of the crew, besides Snyder, have battleship service since none of the floating fortresses has sailed in more than a decade.

The New Jersey will have only half the normal 2,800-man crew that took her through World War II and the Korean war. The smaller crew was possible because the battleship was stripped of all but her big guns and because of extensive use of sophisticated electronic equipment.

After joining the Pacific Fleet, the New Jersey's home port will be Long Beach, Calif.

'Wrong-Way Parking' Rule Ends For Spring

Police Chief A. J. Radeschi today issued an order lifting the customary winter - time rule that permits so - called "wrong-way parking," particularly on hillside streets.

The advent of spring means the end of the dispensation granted annually against ticketing of cars parked the wrong way at the curb, the chief explained. When the order is in effect, motorist may park their autos headed downhill on either side of a street to facilitate movement away from the curb in slippery weather.

The chief also reminded that new Ohio auto registration plates must be displayed by April 15. There will be no extension of the present tags, he added.

Lisbon Council Urged To Pay On Pension Action

LISBON — Council Monday night adopted a 1968 appropriation ordinance totaling $307,893, including $90,265 in the general fund. The 1967 appropriation of $280,686 had $4,441 in the general fund.

Clerk - Treasurer John Ebert said there was a sizable carryover from 1967 because of inheritance tax and an accumulation of mayor's court fines. He suggested that a "husky" payment be made this year on the community's liability under the state-administered police pension fund.

The state took over community pension funds nearly two years ago. At that time, Lisbon's liability, based on the size of the police force and the two retirees, was $85,604. Payment to the state of the police pension system left a balance owed of $52,459.

UNDER A new law covering the pension fund payments, no payment is required in 1968. However, that part of the liability remaining unpaid on Jan. 1, 1969, shall be paid by the employer (village) on the following schedule: In 1969, 2 per cent of the base amount — the liability as of next Jan. 1; in 1970, 3 per cent of the base; in 1971, 4 per cent of the base, and in 1972 and annually thereafter for 35 years, 5 per cent of the base amount. All payments will be figured with interest — probably 4 per cent, Ebert said. He emphasized that it would be to Council's advantage to reduce the base amount owed as much as possible before Jan. 1.

Council voted to retain Morris E. Nall and Associates, civil-municipal engineers of Cleveland, to furnish engineering services for the improvement of Exchange St. The firm, which recently established a Lisbon office in Dean Rose's Sandy and Beaver Building on E. Lincoln Way, submitted a price of $500 for the work.

Late last summer, Council entered into a contract with City Asphalt and Paving to blacktop Pritchard Ave. and Exchange St., but cold weather arrived before Pritchard was ready for surfacing. No work was done on Exchange.

COUNCIL also voted to ask County Engineer John Ursu to surface treat or seal coat the Rose Addition streets which were given blademix treatment last summer.

Mayor Clyde B. Pike reported he had been approached about the purchase of the old waterworks building and land at the foot of S. Jefferson St. He said the old build would be razed and a new block building constructed. Several councilmen said they were opposed and the mayor referred the request to the property committee — Charles Webber and Ray Beers — for a report at the next meeting April 8.

Three insurance companies — Connecticut General, Metropolitan and Prudential — submitted proposals for group medical - hospitalization insurance for the 15 full-time village employes. Pike asked a special committee headed by Councilman William Robinson to meet with the finance committee and make a recommendation April 8.

COUNCIL employed Policeman John Vokovich to sandblast wainscoating in the first-floor and second-floor lobbies at Village Hall for $7.50 per hour, including labor, machine and sand. Vokovich also will sandblast the stairway, rails and spindles, and the stone around the entrance. The work is part of the Town Hall renovation program.

The Brown and Williams Construction Co. asked Council to approve for dedication in its Hills and Dales allotment a 24-foot-wide street with drainage ditches on either side rather than a curb-and-gutter combination. Pike turned the request over to the street committee for a decision by the next meeting.

Council agreed to furnish slag to surface the alley east of the Sandy and Beaver building. Rose said he will be surfacing a parking lot behind the building and offered to tar the alley next to his property if the community will furnish the spread chin for the alley.

Driver Penalized $10 For 'Hill Rd.' Mishap

Donald N. Shaneyfelt, 54, of Claiborne St., whose auto spun out of control and hit an embankment early Sunday on the Pennsylvania Ave. "Hill Rd.," was fined $10 and costs Monday by Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff on a charge of driving at speeds unreasonable for weather and highway conditions.

Meanwhile, Rose Marie Cox, 29, of 810 Riverview St. was given a suspended 10-day County Jail term on a charge of operating an auto without a driver's license. Police said her car skidded into a curb on Avondale St. Saturday night and then was struck from the rear by another car. Slippery streets were blamed for the crash.

Artist Strikes Again With 'Flower Power'

Conference Due This Afternoon In Fund Question

Municipal officials are scheduled to confer this afternoon at 4 at Lisbon with the County Budget Commission to determine if the city will be able to appropriate immediately the $86,000 in new revenue anticipated from a boost in the city income tax.

Solicitor J. Michael Kapp said he has arranged a meeting with Treasurer Vincent Judge, Auditor Kenneth Bell and Prosecutor J. Warren Bettis, who comprise the county commission. The city will be represented by Kapp, Safety - Service Director Robert E. Vodrey, Auditor Lawrence J. Zollinger and possibly several members of Council.

The question was posted last week after Council boosted the income tax to a full one per cent — a hike of two-tenths of one per cent. City officials expected to include the new revenue in the annual appropriation ordinance, due for action by Council this week.

County officials said law may not permit the new funds to be listed at the outset of the year and the city may be required to wait until the anticipated new revenue actually is collected.

Chester Council Okays Lighting

Chester Council authorized 19 new mercury vapor lights for Carolina Ave. when it met Monday night at City Hall.

The work will be done by the Monongahala Power Co. for an estimated $350 and will include the removal of the present-closed - globed lights to various parts of the community off the main street.

By using the present lights on other streets, replacing the 400 candlepower residential lights with the 7000 candlepower, nearly three times the present light will be realized, Larry Louden, manager of the Chester office of the utility said.

The $350 can be broken down into about $1 per light per month for each mercury vapor lamp, he said.

IMMEDIATE patching was pledged for the 5th and 6th St. railroad crossings by E. C. Berkey, supervisor of tracks, and George E. McCarl, trainmaster, representing the Penn Central. The bridges also will be checked, Berkey said.

The men attended in response to a request by Council to have the crossings repaired and made safer by the application of lights or other signal devices.

COUNCIL unofficially appointed Councilman Robert Kincaid as chairman of a group to consider a "pre-bridge barrier" to caution motorists of the metal beam which now restricts the height of vehicles crossing the Chester bridge.

The discussion began when Kincaid said he and some friends were talking about the barrier and the accidents which have occurred as a result. Kincaid said that if some sort of barrier could be erected to warn motorists of the danger perhaps some lives may be saved.

Councilman Charles Kology expressed the opinion that it would have been wiser for red lights, meaning "stop," to be erected on the present barriers instead of the yellow, or "caution", lights.

Authorization was received from Robert Hall, superintendent of Hancock County schools, for the city to use Chester Junior High School for Fourth Ward residents' voting in both the primary and general elections. The primary election will be held Tuesday from 7 a. m. to 7 p.m., with a special meeting of Council scheduled for Wednesday at 7 p. m. in City Hall to canvass the votes in compliance with state law, Don Hood, clerk, said.

HOOD said he also has received a letter certifying the proposed budget for the next fiscal year from G. T. Battle, state tax department commissioner.

Remittances received were $5,154.32. Bills totaling $1,153.57 were paid.

Mayor Burton Ward said that 20 extra hours were allowed newly - appointed Patrolmen Jerry Cornell and Richard Manypenny during the past week to afford them additional experience, though the force has returned to the regular schedule.

Councilman Thomas Bowen mentioned an auto hazard has been created due to persons parking near the Chester post office, blocking the drivers' view. He will investigate the possibility of making the limited area connected with the postal service a one - way space.

Bowen also brought up for comment the advisability of having a certain number for anyone in need of a fire truck, police, or other emergency vehicles and personnel. He referred to a proposed plan by a telephone company which has not as yet been approved as an emergency signal effective throughout the U.S.

Kincaid mentioned that the volunteer firemen who clean the trucks and equipment on Sundays, have requested that they be permitted to play basketball in the court on the second floor of City Hall after the equipment is cleaned. It was brought out by other members of Council that earlier action forbids the playing of basketball on Sundays in the building. The legislators said however, the firemen could use the floor any other time during the week, though "that would be stretching the rules a little," Bowen pointed out.

Mother Of Two Sons Clears UFO Mystery

CASTLE ROCK, Colo. (AP) — There was no question it was a strange flying object, a number of Castle Rock residents averred after looking at the night sky. One man said it was at least 50 feet long with flashing lights.

Then a mother in the foothills community cleared up this UFO mystery. Her two sons fastened thin wood sticks to a plastic bag and lighted four birthday-cake candles fastened to an aluminum cup in the center. Hot air from the lighted candles caused the small balloon to rise and float away.

Mother Of Two Sons Clears UFO Mystery

CASTLE ROCK, Colo. (AP) — There was no question it was a strange flying object, a number of Castle Rock residents averred after looking at the night sky. One man said it was at least 50 feet long with flashing lights.

Then a mother in the foothills community cleared up this UFO mystery. Her two sons fastened thin wood sticks to a plastic bag and lighted four birthday-cake candles fastened to an aluminum cup in the center. Hot air from the lighted candles caused the small balloon to rise and float away.

ANN LANDERS

Egg 'Outlet' For Anger

By Ann Landers

Dear ANN Landers: If you don't have egg on your face it is not because you don't deserve it. I'll bet you hear plenty from your readers about your prescribed outlet for anger. You advocated trying to break an egg by squeezing it in the palm of the hand.

If the egg is held vertically in the palm, your scheme is okay, but if the egg is held sideways, watch out. Exactly why the egg defends itself when held vertically, I do not know. It has to do with some structural reason which I've never been able to understand.

One bright note: Anyone who tries Ann Landers' remedy for anger will surely succeed, in that he'll stop being mad at the original object and he'll be mad at YOU instead. — F.A. OF WASHINGTON, D.C.

Dear F.S.: I've already received enough letters on this subject to write a sequel to "The Egg and I." One reader sent me the splattered egg — in an envelope. A million apologies, folks. The yolk's on me.

Unfair Advantage

Dear Ann: After 10 years of what I thought was a good marriage my wife suddenly became bored and found a lover. I remained patient, thinking she'd get over it. but I was wrong. She wants a divorce.

My reward of 10 years of devotion is that she'll take my children and use my hard-earned money to pay her lawyer for cutting my throat. While the divorce is going through she and the children will move into an apartment and I must pay for that, too.

Everyone has the impression that it is always the husband who plays around. If this had been the case I'd have felt that I got what I deserved, but it just isn't so.

The divorce laws in this country are shamelessly slanted in favor of the wife. It's criminal. Why isn't something done to make these laws more equitable?

It's too late to help me but it would help other defenseless husbands whose conniving wives want to give them the works. — PILLORIED.

Dear Pilloried; you must have a lawyer. What does he say? It's difficult for me to believe that you are as blameless as your letter suggests. I agree that the divorce laws in many states strongly favor the wife, particularly if there are children, but this case is ridiculous.

It's The Law

Dear Ann: I was shocked at the letter from the man who had the nerve to sign himself "Honest Abe." He practically went into orbit because the postman didn't put stamps on his greeting cards and gifts — just left them in the mailboxes.

Hasn't that idiot got anything better to complain about? And YOU — are you trying to tell me that when our paper boy and the neighborhood children leave cards in the mailbox they are breaking the law?

People who are considerate and thoughtful should be praised, not threatened. Shame on you. — GIRLS OF DEPARTMENT 22.

Dear Girls: I'm not trying to tell you anything. All I'm trying to do is give correct advice. I didn't write the law. I'm merely informing the public that such a law exists.

I agree, it sounds loony, but nevertheless there's indeed a $300 fine for leaving cards and gifts in the mailbox without stamps. There's no fine, however, for ringing the bell and handing the card or gift to the occupant.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

LONER, David Pile of Sheffield, England, designed and built a boat which he plans to enter in this year's one-man trans - Atlantic race. Built over a two - year period, boat's cost will run about $1,800.

Robber Gets $3,000

CINCINNATI (AP) — A bandit robbed the Provident Bank in downtown Cincinnati of approximately $3,000 Monday. It was the second time in a week that a Provident branch has been robbed at gunpoint.

Varied Actions Taken By Trustees Of Camp

Robert Hummer of Girard, chairman of the board, presided during the session in Rose Lodge. The Rev. Robert Palisin of Homeworth opened the meeting with a devotional and prayer.

—:—

DURING A report by Mrs. Phyllis Conley of East Liverpool, secretary, it was announced that the Rev. Robert Butcher of Petersburg is the new trustee from the Mahoning Presbytery. He was appointed to the program committee.

During a discussion led by the Rev. Franklin MacAllister of Sebring, chairman of the administration committee, it was decided to raise the fee from $30 to $40 for the planned Canadian canoe trip.

The Rev. Thomas Redick of Carrollton and the Rev. Roger Bush of Richmond were named to handle the final editing of the new set of camp slides, with the secretary to schedule the slides for churches within the Steubenville and Mahoning Presbyteries.

The Rev. Richard Shipley of East Liverpool, chairman of the program committee, reported 15,000 church bulletin inserts have been distributed to churches of the two presbyteries to be used as camp promotion. He said the summer service student will be available to area churches as supply minister on eight Sundays.

THOSE wishing to serve as counselors during the camping season are to contact Mrs. Palisin of Homeworth.

A devotional booklet, written by the Rev. William Woodall of Leetonia, is being prepared for distribution to the campers.

William Crawford of Toronto, development committee chairman, discussed the placement of the four small cabins that have been donated to the camp.

The treasurer's report was given by Marion Horger of East Liverpool.

Charles Findling of Youngstown and Marshall Dutterer of East Liverpool, co - chairmen of the operations committee, reported they are working on the plans for the new road into camp in the hope it will be ready before the camping season starts.

Rev. Bush is in charge of hiring the summer staff. He said a nurse, a lifeguard and three cooks are still needed.

Rev. Bush closed the meeting with prayer. The Rev. Roland Kamm of Cambridge, Christian Education field director, was a guest.

The next meeting will be May 18 at 1:30 at the camp.

HINTS FROM HELOISE

Frozen Food 'Carryall'

DEAR HELOISE: We do not have a frost-free refrigerator and most of the people in our circle of acquaintances also have refrigerators which have to be defrosted.

Heloise

I used to try to get all the stuff in the freezer compartment "used down" to a minimum, but it never worked out. So I'd end up having to run to a neighbor's real fast, with items to park in their refrig while I was defrosting.

No more!

I now take all the things out of the freezer compartment and pack them into one of those foam chiller-chests.

This will hold everything in a solid freeze, even ice cubes, for longer than it takes to defrost, even when I do a leisurely job of it.

MRS. E. C. LENZ.

You're so right, Dolly.

Another trick I learned was to carry that foam chiller-chest in the car when I went to the grocery store to do our bi-monthly shopping.

I put all the frozen stuff in it. Then if I'm delayed on the way home, it doesn't get soft.

Moreover, when you do bring in all your bags of groceries, the frozen stuff is all together so you can just take the chest to your freezer.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: For our church sale, I sew odd buttons that I can't use on 3x5 file cards.

They sure sell fast.

NANA.

DEAR HELOISE: If you have a large kitchen, put a bookcase in it. You'll find the extra space great for cookbooks, serving and souffle dishes, etc., with canisters on the top.

READER.

DEAR HELOISE: Tell your readers not to throw away their husband's old suits and trousers that have gone out of style. That wool is worth it's weight in gold.

First I tear them up in fine strips. (Do not cut them unless it is absolutely necessary because they will ravel). Then I crochet these strips with a big, wooden crochet needle. They make the most fabulous bathgoom and front door rugs you can imagine!

The secret is not to wash them until after you have the rug braided. Usually wool has been dry cleaned. After you make the rug and THEN wash it in lukewarm (not hot or cold) water, it will shrink just enough to make it very, very tight.

These are the best dirt and water catchers we have in our whole house!

Wool dresses, old skirts and any kind of a garment can be used for this.

DOLLAR SAVER.

DEAR HELOISE: I just "did over" a jewelry box that had become faded and soiled. I removed the velvet lining, then washed the box with soap and water. When it was dry, I used pink shoe coloring to paint the outside and recovered the inside with a matching adhesive-backed plastic.

It looks like a new jewelry box and I am real proud of it sitting on my dresser.

AGNES.

DEAR HELOISE: I discovered that those little clear plastic clips found on men's new shirts and packaged clothing are handy to use.

My favorite trick is to slip them over the top of each pleat on drip-dry drapes and allow them to remain for several days.

When the clips are removed, the pleats are much tighter and look so much better. Sure saves sags.

MRS. J. C. K.

Dave DeBusschere's big play—which almost backfired—ignited a Detroit last-ditch drive Monday that gave the Pistons an even break in their National Basketball Association playoff with the Boston Celtics.

DeBusschere, who scored 23 points in the 126-116 Pistons' victory, made his move with 2:46 to play and Detroit leading 114-112.

He stole an errant Boston pass and drove in all alone toward the basket and dunked the ball—and missed.

Teammate Eddie Miles, though, racing down court, snared the rebound and dropped it in for a 116-112 Piston edge. Detroit outscored the Celtics 8-4 the rest of the way to tie the best-of-7 Eastern Division series at one game apiece.

Dave Bing topped Detroit with 26 points and five other Pistons were in double figures. Sam Jones led the Celtics with 18 points and three Boston players, including player-Coach Bill Russell fouled out. The others were Tom Sanders and Bailey Howell.

The third game of the series will be played in Boston Wednesday night.

The Lakers, who led all the way until a furious Bull surge tied the score at 100-all with 3:33 to play, got clutch baskets from Jerry West and Archie Clark to gain the triumph.

West, who finished with a game-high 35 points, got a three-point play to put the Lakers up 109-104 and ice their second straight victory in the best-of-7 series.

Chicago's Flynn Robinson with 32 points and Keith Erickson with 18 led the late Bull rally. Baylor finished with 26 points and 16 rebounds and Clark had 15 points.

The third game in the series shifts to Chicago Wednesday night and all Bull Coach Johnny Kerr said was: "We're coming closer but we took a couple of bad shots toward the end. Overall we're playing better."

Tonight's playoff action has only one game, St. Louis at San Francisco, in the best-of-7 Western Division series, which is tied at 1-1. Wednesday New York plays at Philadelphia in the East. Each club has won one game.

Chaps Top Houston In West

By The Associated Press

Near the end of Dallas' 115-97 victory over Houston in the American Basketball Association's Western Division playoffs Monday night, Martin became enraged at a shoving battle between Jerry Pettway of the Mavericks and John Beasley of Dallas.

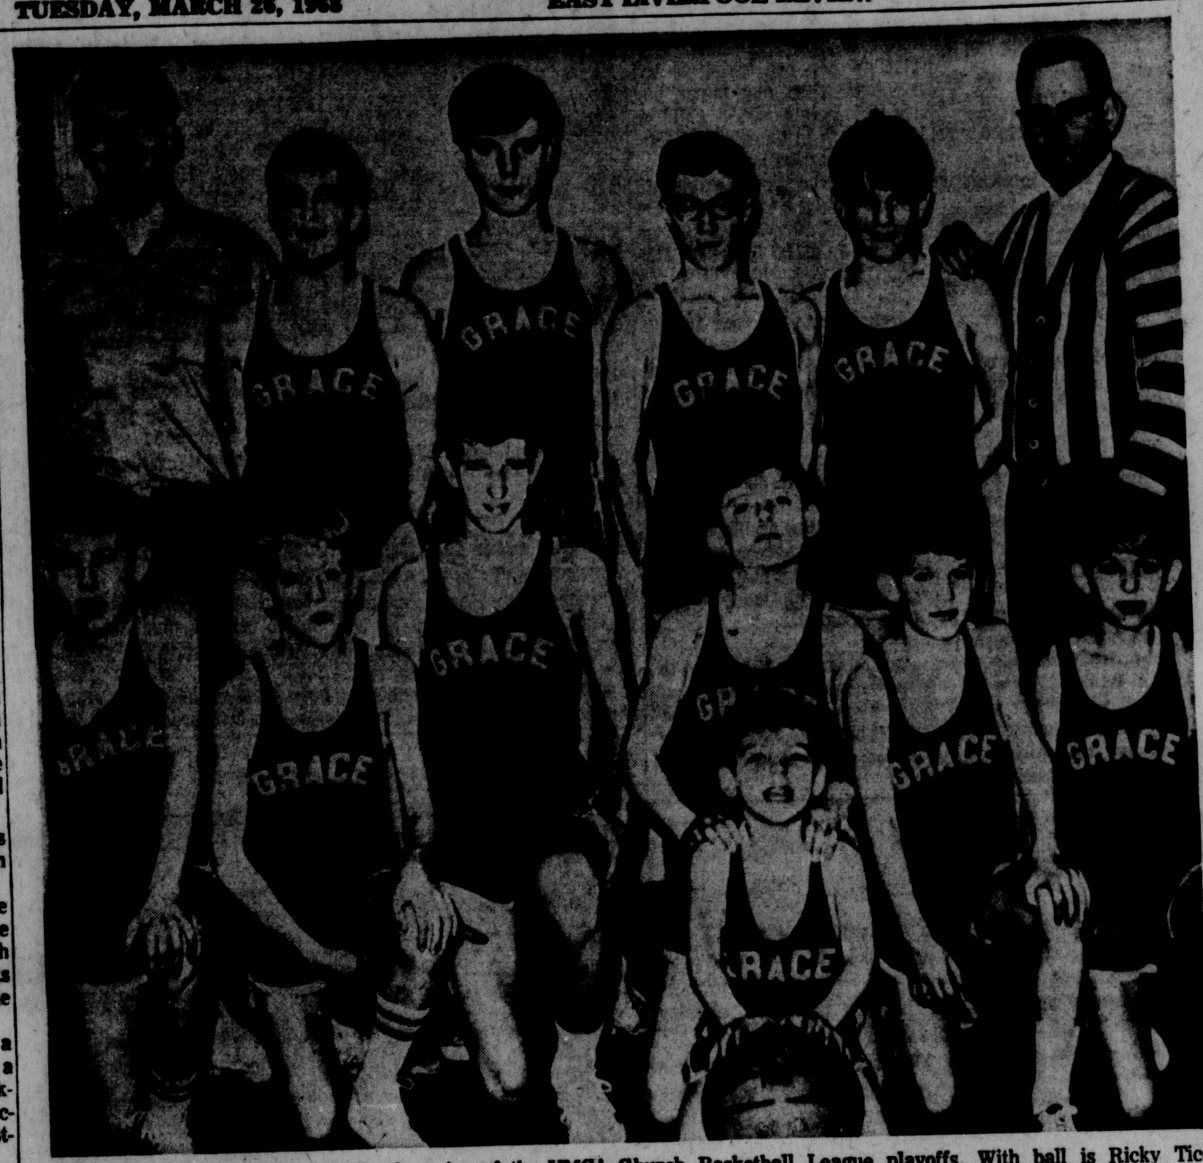

Dallas already was way ahead, but Martin took up the defense of Pettway and in the course of things grabbed referee Andy Hershock and turned him around.

Police were called to eject Martin, but no foul was called either on Martin's action or the shoving incident that started it.

In the Eastern Division playoffs of the ABA Monday, Pittsburgh took a 1-0 lead in the best-of-5 semifinal series, beating Indiana 146-127.

Dallas took a 2-0 lead in the best-of-5 Western Division semifinals playoffs as Charles Beasley scored 27 points. Willie Somerset scored 40 in the Mavericks' losing cause.

Connie Hawkins scored 38 points for the victorious Pipers, who took an early lead and never lost it. Roger Brown led Indiana with 32 points.

Hawkins Named MVP, Leads Pipers In Playoffs

PITTSBURGH (AP) — "The Hawk" Connie Hawkins—is flying high.

During lean years of one-night stands with the Harlem Globetrotters or playing semipro in the Pittsburgh City League, Hawkins never got the chance to prove he was good enough for the National Basketball Association.

It took him one season with the Pittsburgh Pipers to be named the best in the American Basketball Association.

The Hawk is leading the ABA in scoring, second in rebounds and winner of the Most Valuable Player award from the Basketball Writers Association Sunday.

But he's not crowing, even though four frustrating years trying to crack the NBA climaxed in a lawsuit that accused the league of blacklisting. The suit has been dropped.

"I was just glad to be in basketball this season," says Hawkins. "I'll let the NBA worry about the NBA. I don't even like to discuss it."

But he says the formation of the rival ABA last year "is the greatest thing that could have happened to basketball.

"The guys who couldn't get in the NBA get a chance to play, and the college players like Elvin Hayes get a chance to make more money," referring to the Houston All—America.

Hawkins didn't get a chance to make a name for himself in college. He dropped out of the University of Iowa in his first year and blamed scholastic and financial troubles.

He had been a standout career at Boys High in New York City. Two weeks after he dropped out of Iowa, New York District Attorney Frank S. Hogan broke the city's 1961 betting scandals and said Hawkins had been paid to introduce gamblers to players.

The next year, Hawkins gained a spot with the Pittsburgh Rens of the defunct American Basketball League.

He earned Most Valuable Player honors the first year. The league folded midway through its second year.

He went showboating with the Harlem Globetrotters, then settled down in Pittsburgh and played a little semipro ball.

Hawkins says the competition was good. But he had trouble switching back to the pros.

"I guess it had me kind of grieved," he said. "I got into a lot of bad habits—making a lot of mistakes."

About midseason he found himself. He was out for a week with a blood clot in his leg, then came back in the last 20 games to average 30 points, pushing his season average to 26.8.

Although he doesn't like to discuss the years of frustration, he's not hesitant about the present.

"I love it," he says. "I feel a lot better. I enjoy it here a lot more."

Bic's Bar edged Rodger's Sunoco of East Liverpool 60-57. Lavert Freeman paced the winners with 20 points while Milt Martin had 22 for the losers and Kenney added 18.

Baker's Lakers whipped Jim's Barbers of East Liverpool 67-28. Jim Lassiter scored 22 for the winners and Lyder 10 for the losers.

Roger Ours led the Wellsville SOI to a 57-36 triumph over Friendly Lanes of East Liverpool with 18 points. Comparetta added 12. McElhaney had 16 and Rudibaugh 10 for the losers.

Baltimore Pitchers Post 23 Straight Goose Eggs

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

It's only baseball spring training, but Baltimore pitchers are bringing back 1966 memories, erasing 1967 nightmares and raising 1968 hopes.

Oriole hurlers extended their shutout string to 23 innings Monday before the Chicago White Sox scored once, not enough as Baltimore beat the Sox 2-1 for its fourth straight victory.

Tom Phoebus, following a pair of two-hit shututs, had Chicago blanked for four innings before Ken Berry homered for a 1-1 tie. But Phoebus, rookie Roger Nelson and Brad Dillman stopped the Sox the rest of the way, and two errors by Chicago pitcher Gary Peters on a sacrifice bunt set up Mark Belanger's winning sacrifice fly in the seventh.

Phoebus, Stu Miller, who pitched one shutout inning Friday, and Eddie Watt are the only pitchers involved in the whitewash string that remain from the 1966 staff that pitched Baltimore to the pennant and world series championship.

During last year's disappointing sixth place finish when sore arms and injuries hampered the hurlers, the Orioles came up with many new faces. They include Nelson, Dillman, Jim Hardin, Gene Brabender, John O'Donoghue and Pete Richert, the other weekend shutout pitchers.

At the same time Detroit's pennant hopes suffered a blow when slugging Willie Horton bruised a shoulder tendon in a 5-1 loss to Atlanta as Tito Francona homered and later scored the winning run.

Horton, injured while making a tumbling catch in left field, is expected to be out a week as injuries that kept him out of about 50 games last year continued to plague him.

California lost pitcher Jim McGlothlin in the second inning with a muscle spasm in his back, but Chuck Hinton's bat powered the Angels to a 9-3 victory over San Francisco. Hinton drove in six runs with three hits.

Houston had its eight-game winning streak snapped when Philadelphia broke a 2-2 tie with eight runs in the last three innings for an 8-2 triumph as Grant Jackson and rookie Larry Colton combined on a three-hitter.

Rich Nye, the Chicago Cubs' pitching discovery in their 1967 surprise finish, held Cleveland to six hits and no walks in eight innings in a 7-2 victory.

Joe Rudi bounced a hit over shortstop Gene Alley's head in the seventh inning and Oakland beat Pittsburgh 4-3.

Bob Bailey used more power to pull Los Angeles past the New York Yankees 4-1 as he slugged a triple and a homer.

St. Louis and Minnesota won a pair of extra inning games. The Cardinals nudged Cincinnati 7-6 on Floyd Wicker's winning hit in the 10th after the Cardinals tied in the ninth on Orlando Cepeda's two-run homer.

Cardinals Favorites To Repeat NL Pennant

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — The pitcher-rich St. Louis Cards, with power and speed to spare, have picked up where they left off last October and rate solid favorites to repeat in the National League.

Red Schoendienst came South with a set ball club, his bench bolstered by wise offseason trades. His main problem has been how to cut down his fine pitching staff.

The Cards became the first club in Florida to win 10 exhibition games and probably w become the first to hit the 100 mark when they start playing for keeps.

"We know we have our work cut out for us," said Schoendienst. "That 10½ game lead didn't fool us. You won't find any complacency here. We want to prove we can do it again."

Observers who have watched Lou Brock, Curt Flood, Orlando Cepeda, Roger Maris, Mike Shannon, Tim McCarver, Dal Maxvill and Bob Tolan stinging the ball are wondering what club can provide real competition for El Birdos.

After the first 11 games the club was batting at a .301 clip and every regular was at .300 or better.

Julian Javier, the second baseman, was a holdout for a time and got a late start in the exhibition schedule due to a slight injury. The first time the complete World Series line-up was in action was March 22. They proceeded to shut out Pittsburgh, regarded as a top challenger.

Cepeda has been hitting home runs. Brock has been slugging and stealing bases. Bob Gibson, the ace of the staff, allowed only one run in his first 11 innings.

Due to the patchwork schedule of early season, Schoendienst probably will use only four starters in the early games. They are Gibson, Nelson Briles, Steve Carlton and Dick Hughes.

Ray Washburn and Larry Jaster are ready to take a turn. Mike Torrez and Hal Gilson, two graduates from the Tulsa farm have looked the best of the new boys. Wayne Granger, another Tulsa product, also pitched well.

If there is any problem in the Cards' rosy future it could be the bullpen. Joe Hoerner has been hit freely. Ron Willis must prove he can repeat his rookie year's performance. Jack Lamabe is another to be considered when the final cutdown to 25 men comes on opening day.

The infield is set and solid with Cepeda on first, Javier on second, Maxvill at short and Shannon at third.

The Cards have picked up infielder Dick Schofield from the Los Angeles Dodgers and still have Phil Gagliano and Ed Spiezio for either infield or outfield.

Tim McCarver, perhaps the No. 1 catcher in the league, will get help from Edwards, a former All-Star whose puzzling batting slump ended his days in Cincinnati. Dave Ricketts probably also will be kept as the third catcher.

Hayes Boosts Football Experiences

The qualities that you learn in football will carry you through life, Ohio State football coach Woody Hayes told the annual banquet sponsored by the Columbiana Boosters at Columbiana's South Side school last night.

Hayes noted that a mathematician will forget in a year something that he has learned, whereas the lessons learned on the gridiron are lifelong. The OSU mentor was quick to point out the importance of education, however. Noting that 8 of the 11 Columbiana football starters were in the National Honor Society, he said that the other three could do just as well if they applied themselves.

Hayes mentioned that he hopes to make another trip to South Viet Nam this spring.

Ray Bellisari, football coach from last season who is now at Canton South, got a standing ovation when he was introduced. He introduced the football team and pointed out that Bill Cyrus and Bill Ward, honored as all-Ohio, were the first Columbiana boys ever to be honored.

George Morris, newly appointcoach Ralph W. Ward introduced, and Larry Brown, coach of the unbeaten 1918 football team, and some of the players from that team who were in attendance were introduced.

Archer Shoots 65, Wins Pensacola Golf

By RON SPEER
Associated Press Sports Writer

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — Lanky George Archer says he would like to cut down on his golfing trips. But he admits he hates to stay home and miss out on all that money offered on the pro tour.

"I should take a week off after every four or five tournaments," the new champion of the Pensacola Open said after his closing 65 gave him a $16,000 payoff Monday. "But when I sit around home for a couple of weeks I get to thinking about the money I'm not making."

Archer almost passed up the Pensacola tournament, but his wife, Donna, talked him into playing.

"I had a premonition that he might win," said Mrs. Archer. "Beside, we had flown to Florida and I didn't want us to fly back after just one tournament."

Archer almost dropped out in the first round when he became sick to his stomach while playing, but he shot a 66 and decided to keep going. He added rounds of 68 and 69 before his closing burst gave him the title with a 72-hole total of 268, 20 strokes under par and the lowest total on the tour this year.

The 6-foot-6 cowboy from Gilroy, Calif., won the championship with a blazing finish which he needed to edge veteran Dave Marr and young Tony Jacklin of Britain by a shot.

Archer, who trailed both of the other contenders most of the round, shot in front with a closing string of birdies. He sank birdie putts of five, eight and five feet on the last three holes.

Marr finished with a 65 to tie Jacklin, who turned in a 66. They won $7,200 each for their 269 totals. Jacklin, making his best showing ever, reportedly is the first English golfer to finish as high as second on the American tour.

Hayes Shuns Olympics, Looks For Pro Offer

HOUSTON (AP)—Elvin Hayes says he will not compete for a spot on the Olympic basketball team because he needs money and he needs to work on his game to "make a pro team."

He said it was his own decision and that he had not been contacted by anyone who had proposed that Negro athletes boycott the Olympics.

"It's not color or anything like that," said Hayes, college basketball's player of the year. "It's my own decision. I only hope the public can understand my problem."

Meanwhile, two professional teams have announced they will try to sign the Houston Cougar star who is college basketball's second highest scorer in history.

The San Diego Rockets won the coin toss Monday for the first draft choice in the National Basketball Association and immediately announced they would try to sign the 6-8 star.

The Houston Mavericks of the American Basketball League also say they have the negotiation rights for Hayes although the ABA draft will not be until April 8.

Hayes says he favors the NBA and for the first time has set a definite price tag on himself. He said he will ask for $300,000 over three years.

Nonpareil Tournament Dates Set

The annual Blue and White Nonpareil Club junior basketball tournament will be held April 5-6 in the Memorial Auditorium.

The tournament is open to graduating seniors in Ohio and seniors and underclassmen in Pennsylvania. All high schools are invited to enter a team. He said it was his own decision and that he had not been contacted by anyone who had proposed that Negro athletes boycott the Olympics.

"It's not color or anything like that," said Hayes, college basketball's player of the year. "It's my own decision. I only hope the public can understand my problem."

Meanwhile, two professional teams have announced they will try to sign the Houston Cougar star who is college basketball's second highest scorer in history.

The San Diego Rockets won the coin toss Monday for the first draft choice in the National Basketball Association and immediately announced they would try to sign the 6-8 star.

The Houston Mavericks of the American Basketball League also say they have the negotiation rights for Hayes although the ABA draft will not be until April 8.

Hayes says he favors the NBA and for the first time has set a definite price tag on himself. He said he will ask for $300,000 over three years.

Cardinals Favorites To Repeat NL Pennant

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — The pitcher-rich St. Louis Cards, with power and speed to spare, have picked up where they left off last October and rate solid favorites to repeat in the National League.

Red Schoendienst came South with a set ball club, his bench bolstered by wise offseason trades. His main problem has been how to cut down his fine pitching staff.

The Cards became the first club in Florida to win 10 exhibition games and probably w become the first to hit the 100 mark when they start playing for keeps.

"We know we have our work cut out for us," said Schoendienst. "That 10½ game lead didn't fool us. You won't find any complacency here. We want to prove we can do it again."

Observers who have watched Lou Brock, Curt Flood, Orlando Cepeda, Roger Maris, Mike Shannon, Tim McCarver, Dal Maxvill and Bob Tolan stinging the ball are wondering what club can provide real competition for El Birdos.

After the first 11 games the club was batting at a .301 clip and every regular was at .300 or better.

Julian Javier, the second baseman, was a holdout for a time and got a late start in the exhibition schedule due to a slight injury. The first time the complete World Series line-up was in action was March 22. They proceeded to shut out Pittsburgh, regarded as a top challenger.

Cepeda has been hitting home runs. Brock has been slugging and stealing bases. Bob Gibson, the ace of the staff, allowed only one run in his first 11 innings.

Due to the patchwork schedule of early season, Schoendienst probably will use only four starters in the early games. They are Gibson, Nelson Briles, Steve Carlton and Dick Hughes.

Ray Washburn and Larry Jaster are ready to take a turn. Mike Torrez and Hal Gilson, two graduates from the Tulsa farm have looked the best of the new boys. Wayne Granger, another Tulsa product, also pitched well.

If there is any problem in the Cards' rosy future it could be the bullpen. Joe Hoerner has been hit freely. Ron Willis must prove he can repeat his rookie year's performance. Jack Lamabe is another to be considered when the final cutdown to 25 men comes on opening day.

The infield is set and solid with Cepeda on first, Javier on second, Maxvill at short and Shannon at third.

The Cards have picked up infielder Dick Schofield from the Los Angeles Dodgers and still have Phil Gagliano and Ed Spiezio for either infield or outfield.

Tim McCarver, perhaps the No. 1 catcher in the league, will get help from Edwards, a former All-Star whose puzzling batting slump ended his days in Cincinnati. Dave Ricketts probably also will be kept as the third catcher.

Nonpareil Tournament Dates Set

The annual Blue and White Nonpareil Club junior basketball tournament will be held April 5-6 in the Memorial Auditorium.

The tournament is open to graduating seniors in Ohio and seniors and underclassmen in Pennsylvania. All high schools are invited to enter a team. The entry fee is $10 and should be mailed to PO Box 158, East Liverpool. Further information can be obtained from Bud Steffen, 385-5836, or Joe Anderson, 385-2668, after 5 p.m.

Chaps Top Houston In West

By The Associated Press

Near the end of Dallas' 115-97 victory over Houston in the American Basketball Association's Western Division playoffs Monday night, Martin became enraged at a shoving battle between Jerry Pettway of the Mavericks and John Beasley of Dallas.

Dallas already was way ahead, but Martin took up the defense of Pettway and in the course of things grabbed referee Andy Hershock and turned him around.

Police were called to eject Martin, but no foul was called either on Martin's action or the shoving incident that started it.

In the Eastern Division playoffs of the ABA Monday, Pittsburgh took a 1-0 lead in the best-of-5 semifinal series, beating Indiana 146-127.

Dallas took a 2-0 lead in the best-of-5 Western Division semifinals playoffs as Charles Beasley scored 27 points. Willie Somerset scored 40 in the Mavericks' losing cause.

Connie Hawkins scored 38 points for the victorious Pipers, who took an early lead and never lost it. Roger Brown led Indiana with 32 points.

Hayes Boosts Football Experiences

The qualities that you learn in football will carry you through life, Ohio State football coach Woody Hayes told the annual banquet sponsored by the Columbiana Boosters at Columbiana's South Side school last night.

Hayes noted that a mathematician will forget in a year something that he has learned, whereas the lessons learned on the gridiron are lifelong. The OSU mentor was quick to point out the importance of education, however. Noting that 8 of the 11 Columbiana football starters were in the National Honor Society, he said that the other three could do just as well if they applied themselves.

Hayes mentioned that he hopes to make another trip to South Viet Nam this spring.

Ray Bellisari, football coach from last season who is now at Canton South, got a standing ovation when he was introduced. He introduced the football team and pointed out that Bill Cyrus and Bill Ward, honored as all-Ohio, were the first Columbiana boys ever to be honored.

George Morris, newly appointcoach Ralph W. Ward introduced, and Larry Brown, coach of the unbeaten 1918 football team, and some of the players from that team who were in attendance were introduced.

Bill Hopper To Attend Annapolis

Hopper played offensive guard and defensive end on last year's 8-1 team. He hopes to play football at Navy. He is undecided as to whether to make the navy a career.

Basketball Coaches Blast Paul Landis

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio High School Basketball Coaches Association revealed Monday a resolution containing several grievances aimed at the Ohio High School Athletic Association and its commissioner, Paul E. Landis of Columbus.

Paul Walker of Middletown, secretary-treasurer of the coaches' group, said the resolution was adopted at a board of directors meeting here last Thursday.

The resolution charges that Landis has not been aggressive in providing the state association's board of control with recommendations favored by the basketball coaches.

Another grievance alleges that there has been a dereliction of leadership responsibility in not using the coaches' association as a sounding board for establishing policies designed to strengthen the quality of Ohio schoolboy basketball.

The coaches also ask for official recognition for the annual Ohio High School All-Star Basketball Game and a drive toward uniformity in state tournament arrangements, including seedings and financial arrangements of the cage classic.

Landis said the coaches' resolution will be discussed at the April 17 meeting of the state commission.

State Board Considering Grid Practice

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A decision on a proposal for additional practice time for high school football teams is expected next month from the Board of Control of the Ohio High School Athletic Association.

Directors of the High School Football Coaches Association, meeting here Saturday, asked for an additional four or five days of practice before regular drills begin Aug. 16.

Coaches said they have the support of doctors who have advocated prepractice time with emphasis on physical conditioning.

The coaches also announced they plan to ask the OHSAA to sanction the annual all-star football game in Canton. But a decision was delayed on a proposal calling for participation in the Big 33 all-star football game with Pennsylvania schoolboys at Hershey, Pa.

Shortstop Versalles Key To Dodger Resurgence

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

VERO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Zoilo Versalles has unpleasant memories of 1967 in Minnesota, but his new Los Angeles teammates are trying hard to help him forget.

It's a kind of group therapy for the Dodgers. They, too, have been trying to forget 1967 all winter.

Versalles, the American League's Most Valuable Player in 1965, struggled through the worst year of his career, batting just .200 for the Twins and wishing he were miles away from Minnesota.

The Dodgers, meanwhile, stumbled through their worst National League season in 62 years, finishing eighth after winning the pennant in 1966.

Now, Versalles is the Dodgers' shortstop, having come to Los Angeles with another disgruntled Twin, pitcher Jim Grant, in a winter trade that sent catcher John Roseboro and relief pitchers Ron Perranoski and Bob Miller to Minnesota. Zoilo can return the favor by plugging a big gap in the Dodgers' infield opened when shortstop Maury Wills was dealt to Pittsburgh last year.

Wills hit .302 for the Pirates while Bob Bailey and Gene Michael, picked up by Los Angeles in the deal, plodded home at .227 and .202, respectively.

They had plenty of company. Jim Lefebvre developed a power failure, sagging from 24 homers in 1966 to eight last year; Willie Davis fell from a .284 average to .257 and Ron Fairly plummeted from .288 to .220.

"It was almost like a plague," said Fairly. "There's only one thing about a season like that. It surely humbles you."

The rehabilitation of the Dodgers started with the Minnesota deal, picked up steam when catcher Tom Haller was obtained from San Francisco in exchange for Ron Hunt and progressed through a rigorous winter conditioning program that carried into spring training.

Walter Alston, dean of major league managers, is cautiously optimistic about the Dodgers' 1968 chances as he embarks on his 15th go-round. "We've filled a few holes," he said, "and we might bounce back a little higher than expected."

Pitching was, and still is, the big plus for the Dodgers. Claude Osteen, 17-17, Don Drysdale, 13-16, Don Sutton, 11-15, and Bill Singer, 12-8, are returning starters. Rookie Alan Foster also has earned a starting shot. Grant, 5-6 with the Twins, will start or relieve, or both.

Phil Regan and Jim Brewer head up the bullpen crew. Newcomers John Purdin, Mike Kekich, John Duffie, Jack Billingham, Vicente Romo, Larry Staab and Leon Everitt, all impressive thus far, are battling for the remaining two or three spots.

Basketball Coaches Blast Paul Landis

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio High School Basketball Coaches Association revealed Monday a resolution containing several grievances aimed at the Ohio High School Athletic Association and its commissioner, Paul E. Landis of Columbus.

Paul Walker of Middletown, secretary-treasurer of the coaches' group, said the resolution was adopted at a board of directors meeting here last Thursday.

The resolution charges that Landis has not been aggressive in providing the state association's board of control with recommendations favored by the basketball coaches.

Another grievance alleges that there has been a dereliction of leadership responsibility in not using the coaches' association as a sounding board for establishing policies designed to strengthen the quality of Ohio schoolboy basketball.

The coaches also ask for official recognition for the annual Ohio High School All-Star Basketball Game and a drive toward uniformity in state tournament arrangements, including seedings and financial arrangements of the cage classic.

Landis said the coaches' resolution will be discussed at the April 17 meeting of the state commission.

State Board Considering Grid Practice

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A decision on a proposal for additional practice time for high school football teams is expected next month from the Board of Control of the Ohio High School Athletic Association.

Directors of the High School Football Coaches Association, meeting here Saturday, asked for an additional four or five days of practice before regular drills begin Aug. 16.

Coaches said they have the support of doctors who have advocated prepractice time with emphasis on physical conditioning.

The coaches also announced they plan to ask the OHSAA to sanction the annual all-star football game in Canton. But a decision was delayed on a proposal calling for participation in the Big 33 all-star football game with Pennsylvania schoolboys at Hershey, Pa.

Shortstop Versalles Key To Dodger Resurgence

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

VERO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Zoilo Versalles has unpleasant memories of 1967 in Minnesota, but his new Los Angeles teammates are trying hard to help him forget.

It's a kind of group therapy for the Dodgers. They, too, have been trying to forget 1967 all winter.

Versalles, the American League's Most Valuable Player in 1965, struggled through the worst year of his career, batting just .200 for the Twins and wishing he were miles away from Minnesota.

The Dodgers, meanwhile, stumbled through their worst National League season in 62 years, finishing eighth after winning the pennant in 1966.

Now, Versalles is the Dodgers' shortstop, having come to Los Angeles with another disgruntled Twin, pitcher Jim Grant, in a winter trade that sent catcher John Roseboro and relief pitchers Ron Perranoski and Bob Miller to Minnesota. Zoilo can return the favor by plugging a big gap in the Dodgers' infield opened when shortstop Maury Wills was dealt to Pittsburgh last year.

Wills hit .302 for the Pirates while Bob Bailey and Gene Michael, picked up by Los Angeles in the deal, plodded home at .227 and .202, respectively.

They had plenty of company. Jim Lefebvre developed a power failure, sagging from 24 homers in 1966 to eight last year; Willie Davis fell from a .284 average to .257 and Ron Fairly plummeted from .288 to .220.

"It was almost like a plague," said Fairly. "There's only one thing about a season like that. It surely humbles you."

The rehabilitation of the Dodgers started with the Minnesota deal, picked up steam when catcher Tom Haller was obtained from San Francisco in exchange for Ron Hunt and progressed through a rigorous winter conditioning program that carried into spring training.

Walter Alston, dean of major league managers, is cautiously optimistic about the Dodgers' 1968 chances as he embarks on his 15th go-round. "We've filled a few holes," he said, "and we might bounce back a little higher than expected."

Pitching was, and still is, the big plus for the Dodgers. Claude Osteen, 17-17, Don Drysdale, 13-16, Don Sutton, 11-15, and Bill Singer, 12-8, are returning starters. Rookie Alan Foster also has earned a starting shot. Grant, 5-6 with the Twins, will start or relieve, or both.

Phil Regan and Jim Brewer head up the bullpen crew. Newcomers John Purdin, Mike Kekich, John Duffie, Jack Billingham, Vicente Romo, Larry Staab and Leon Everitt, all impressive thus far, are battling for the remaining two or three spots.

Junior Editors Quiz on BLACK TULIPS

ANSWER: Tulips have flowers of a graceful, interesting shape. They are held in proud beauty at the tips of very tall upright stems and became garden favorites a very long time ago. They have been used by countless artists in paintings and designs. It is not only the shape of tulips, however, which captivates gardeners and artists; it is also the color. These large, brilliant flowers show a natural color range from gleaming white through many in-between tones to those which are extremely dark. It is because of such a natural range of color variations that there are black tulips, a color growers encourage because they contrast so effectively with the other tones. Black tulips are not actually black but rather a very deep purplish color, so deep it appears black. Large and glossy, they belong in the group called Darwin tulips. Tulips grow wild in Southern Europe and parts of Asia, many bulbs having been once brought by Russians into northern Europe. Holland, in particular, developed a kind of craze for them, and still exports millions of bulbs to the rest of the world.

Q. — How can I remove floor wax stains from washable materials?

A. — Laundering will remove most of the stains, and any leftover traces will usually yield to a carbon tetrachloride spotting treatment.

Home Work Repays Owner

Outdoors, homes are getting a facelift with everything from new roofing and siding to new patio furniture and plantings.

Indoors, rooms are responding to the magic of paneling, painting, wallpapering, flooring. Kitchens go modern; family rooms grow out of attics and basements; bathrooms expand and multiply. Repair and remodeling, expansion and modernization are in the air — it's home improvement time!

What's all this in aid of? Some proponents of home improvement hold that it's worthwhile to remodel because it's a good investment. Improving a home will increase property value and pay off with a better resale price, they say. True enough — but there's more to home improvement than property value, contends Edgar V. Hall, director of the National Home Improvement Council.

"We're used to spending substantial sums on cars, clothes, food, vacations, entertainment. We don't expect to recoup our expenses on these items," says Director Hall. "Why, then, should we expect to do so in the case of home improvement and remodeling?"

REMODELING pays its own dividends, he points out. For one thing, it enables families to enjoy a better over - all standard of living.

Children stay at home when they have more space to play in. Tensions between parents and children are less, when a second or third bathroom relieves the usual morning congestion, or when there is a basement family room for play or entertaining.

Converting an attic into a bedroom or study can mean less time spent in front of television and better grades in school. It can mean a place for Dad to catch up on office work — or, it can provide guestroom space for overnight — or longer — visits from friends and relatives.

For Mom, of course, a more spacious, better - equipped kitchen or laundry can mean a new lease on life. She will have more time to spend in community activities, or in pursuing the hobby she once dropped to raise a family.

IMPROVEMENTS like these make a house more livable, and they are easy to finance, too.

"The monthly payments for the kind of improvements that excite the admiration of the neighborhood are substantially less than the payments on a new house," Mr. Hall says.

There are other factors to consider, too. Inasmuch as mortgage money may be in short supply, it is difficult to buy a new home, even for those who can afford the payments. This also means that there are fewer buyers for used homes, making it harder to resell a home.

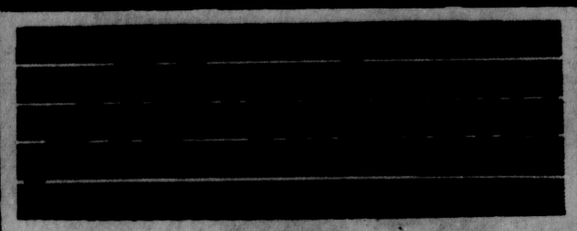

The alternative, then, may be to improve the present home. Unlike mortgage funds for new homes, financing for remodeling is not hard to come by. Most lending institutions are happy to finance remodeling projects.

WITH THE availability of financing, there is also an increasing number of contractors who are highly qualified to do expert work at fair prices. Contractors and new home builders are entering the remodeling field in large numbers.

As a one - stop source of remodeling supplies, the building materials dealer is opening new home improvement centers everywhere. The home remodeler has a convenient source of supplies, and a constant source of ideas, too.

"Never before has there been such a vast amount of materials available for remodeling," says the Home Improvement Council director.

Tips Are Offered On How To Lay Concrete Walk

By DOUGLAS TUOMEY

Still others look their best with a clean concrete walk.

Laying a concrete walk is a comparatively simple matter. The first step is to stretch lines from the house steps to the road and to have a proper pitch to insure drainage. The width is a matter of choice.

The next step is to dig out the turf and lay wood strips, properly nailed to stakes, as an outline for the path. Next, another strip exactly the width of the path is cut and set across. This enables one to lay the walk in sections, do the job as time permits and avoid back - breaking chores of mixing the concrete hour after hour. After all is said and done, there is no reason why the job should not be taken in easy stages.

The actual mixing of the concrete is an important matter and the value of the walk will depend upon how property the mix is made.

The best mix will be in these proportions: one of cement, two of clean sand and four of gravel or crushed stone. Use only enough water to make the mix workable. When the ingredients are assembled, they should be thoroughly mixed while dry and then the water added and the batch turned and turned.

The strips running along the sides of the path also act as guides across which you can easily lay a straight edge and screed off the surface of the fresh concrete. The work should be covered with burlap or old cloths and kept damp for three or four days before it is uncovered and walked over.

Sump Pump Aids Basement Areas

One of the most popular home improvements this year is converting the basement into a livable area.

Whether the basement becomes a family room, utility room, workshop, extra bedroom or a combination of these, one thing is sure. It holds a lot of valuable equipment that must be protected against basement flooding.

Sometimes called a cellar drainer, the pump is installed in a pit or sump. When water in the pit reaches a predetermined level, a float switch automatically starts the pump. It operates until all the water has been drained out, when shutoff also is automatic.

Basement flooding most frequently results from heavy rains. However, if the home has an overhead sewer, water from plumbed - in appliances can't drain away by gravity, and a sump pump is needed.

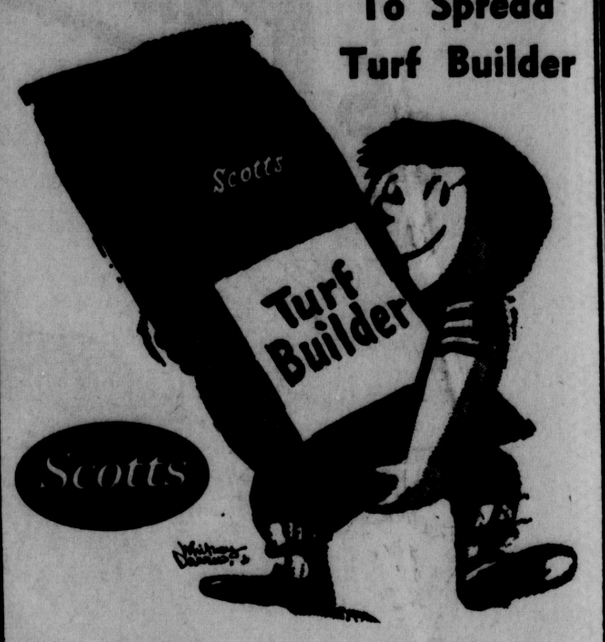

Plumbing contractors can advise about sump pumps.

Hang Drill On Loop

Home mechanics who like to keep their tools mounted on wall brackets near the workbench are often at a loss when trying to decide how to hang an electric drill. One of the easiest ways is to insert a screweye in the chuck of the drill, then tighten this securely, with the loop sticking out. The drill can then be hung up by hooking the loop of the screweye over a nail, or over a straight hook.

Bring Outdoors Inside

Does the old family homestead, which may have seemed fine for years, now begin to feel too crowded and confining? After long service as a retreat from the workaday world, are its four walls starting to close in?

It's only human nature to want to replace drab, outmoded interior space with a fresh, new environment which seems more roomy and cheerful.

One way of remodeling an indoor area to give it added sparkle and a feeling of greater spaciousness is to bring the outdoors indoors — to open the living room, kitchen or other area to the light and color of nature.

MAKE THE peacefulness of the backyard, or the scenic view from the front yard, a part of the home, both inside and outside.

In other words, knock out the exterior walls, or at least part of them, and replace them with floor - to - ceiling expanses of glass.

The remodeling - with - glass technique not only can make the interior seem larger and more visually pleasing, but also can pay extra dividends by giving the exterior a more modern and appealing appearance.

The key is to make a glass remodeling project fit the pocketbook. Pick out the most attractive view, and bring it into the home with glass.

Renovate with glass first in rooms which are used most often and then, when economics permit, branch out into other portions of the home.

Sliding glass doors are a particularly popular means of uniting the home's natural and manmade space because they serve both as a door and a window. They provide both visual and physical access to a patio, courtyard or lawn, turning it into another "room" in the home and making it enjoyable year-round.

USING INSULATING glass in these sliding doors is a practical means of making such a remodeled home work with the weather. Insulating glass is made of two panels of glass, separated by a sealed - in air space for an added margin of protection against inclement weather and for lowering of heating and air - conditioning costs.

The glass panel facing the outdoors can be tinted grey or bronze to soften sky brightness and further reduce sun heat transmission.

Tempered glass, also made with grey or bronze tint, is especially recommended for sliding patio doors. Glass tempered to make it highly resistant to breakage is three to five times stronger than regular plate glass of the same area and thickness.

Sandpaper Stops Slip

Owners of workshop table saws know how difficult it sometimes is to keep wood from slipping across the face of the miter gauge (the crosscut guide) when cutting at an angle. As the wood is fed into the saw blade, it must be held very tightly against the polished metal face of the miter gauge to keep it from slipping. One way to prevent this is to cover the metal face of the miter gauge with a sheet of fine grit sandpaper. Cement the sandpaper in place with ordinary rubber cement after cutting it to the proper size.

NO ROOM FOR a clothes dryer? Look again! This homemaker chose to fit her portable dryer with casters and store it in the closet when it's not in use. It can be hung on a wall or set on a counter just as easily, dries anything a standard - size dryer will dry.

New Door Saves Bathroom Space

It features a "column" that is actually an unusual folding shower door that moves on closed track to either side of the rounded corner shower receptor and takes up only eight inches when closed.

Manufacturers claim it is ideal for bathroom remodeling jobs as well as new home construction because it is easy to install and provides a spacious, elegant look in the shower area while taking up less space than the old fashioned conventional square or angle shower stalls with their rigid doors and walls.

Fish Aquariums

Space Miser Offered Tips About Closets

Need more closet space?

Inventory closet contents and then design the most efficient method of housing the items.

Be a space miser! The conventional five to five and one-half foot drop to the floor from closet rods really isn't necessary.

FOUR AND one - half will do for most overcoats and dresses, while most men's suits require only three and one - half feet. Women's blouses and jackets need even less.

By installing rods no higher than needed to serve their purpose, it's often possible to get a second rod almost at ceiling height, or to provide additional wall space for shelving.

Don't overlook the insides of closet doors. They make ideal locations for shoe bags or racks, a full length mirror or hooks for handbag storage.

CEDAR - LINING the walls is a job that goes quickly. Installation instructions are included in every package of cedar lining, and the lumber pieces themselves are tongue - and-grooved for fast, tight assembly.

A word of caution: Never paint, shellac or otherwise finish the cedar. Such treatment will close the wood's pores and minimize the desired cedar aroma.

Colors Offered For Brightening Concrete Patios

Color - conscious homeowners have found a new method for adding a durable carpet of color to patio floors, with easy to apply concrete stains that provide colorful protection for the walking surface while maintaining the textural appeal of concrete.

The new concrete stains, for use on walkways, driveways and pool areas, come in a variety of colors designed to complement and be at home in their natural outdoor setting. According to a color consultant, the colors were selected for the harmony they have with nature's color range. Also, any of the colors can be intermixed to obtain a color "original" to set a decorative color pace and mood.

Earthy tones, floral shades, spruce colors — the complete range allows decorative dexterity to please the tastes of many families and homemakers who seek as much individuality in the color plan for the patio as they do for a living room.

The new stains roll on easily with a roller, a large paint brush, a push - broom or a spray gun. The surface to be stained should be free of dirt, wax or grease. Depending on the intensity of color desired, one coat of stain may do the job.

The stains penetrate concrete surfaces in depth and do not form a film or surface coating that peels, flakes or scuffs under severe use.

Strong brown ale, called "stitch" in 1768, could be purchased for eight pence per gallon, according to the first edition of the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Use Windows For 'Space'

Bring Outdoors Inside

Does the old family homestead, which may have seemed fine for years, now begin to feel too crowded and confining? After long service as a retreat from the workaday world, are its four walls starting to close in?

It's only human nature to want to replace drab, outmoded interior space with a fresh, new environment which seems more roomy and cheerful.

One way of remodeling an indoor area to give it added sparkle and a feeling of greater spaciousness is to bring the outdoors indoors — to open the living room, kitchen or other area to the light and color of nature.

Beautification Plans Begin With Cleaning Dirt, Litter

From a homeowner's individual efforts to improve his home grounds to complete urban renewal, home and community beautification projects are on the increase, for both practical and aesthetic reasons.

Nearly all such projects start in the same way, with one essential step: cleaning up litter. And there's good cause for this.

Litter prevention is a prerequisite to property beautification, according to Keep America Beautiful, Inc.

"Just as a woman would not put cosmetics on a dirty face, so must littered property be cleaned up and kept clean, before it can be beautified," says Allen H. Seed Jr., executive vice president of the national litter-fighting organization.

"Property owners who permit yards and surrounding neighborhoods to be cluttered with litter are depreciating their investment," Mr. Seed explains. "There seems to be mutual agreement that litter - free property will appreciate much faster."

While it is difficult to place an accurate price tag on this loss, real estate men and builders agree that it is considerable. Anti - litter and beautification programs in many sections of the country are actively supported by real estate and builder groups.

How much improvements affect property is strikingly demonstrated by this example: Property values increased 26 times after a clean-up and beautification project along a four-mile boulevard in Los Angeles.

A few years ago, the street was left littered and unsightly after a street railway was removed. Property was selling for as low as $50 per front foot.

PROPERTY owners, in cooperation with the city government, cleaned up the area and planted flowering trees along a center island that replaced the tracks.

Sparked by the beautification, a fine business and professional district developed along the street. Property values soon rose to $1,300 per front foot.

"When a piece of property has been cleaned up, it tends to remain litter free, and it sets a good example that is likely to be followed by the neighbors," says Mr. Seed. "One good example can mushroom into a community trend."

Irradiated Foods

Around the corner for housewives are irradiated foods. Now waiting Food and Drug Administration approval, irradiation proponents say the method will eliminate spoilage, give year-round availability to seasonal items, end diseases, lower prices and make meal preparation quicker.

The United States minted a 20-cent coin in quantity at Carson City, Nev., in 1875. The coin was not popular, however, and was soon discontinued.

Select Local Company For Home Project

Make sure that the company you choose for remodeling is a local, established firm — one that is listed in the telephone book and has been around long enough to know its business well.

Be sure your modernizer will be around to take care of any repairs that may be called for after the job is done. Generally speaking, it is a good idea to work with a firm that is willing to take full responsibility for the complete project under one contract — providing all necessary materials and labor at a fixed price.

This may be a home improvement contractor, a lumber or building materials dealer, a home builder, or a general contractor. Whatever the label, whatever his classification he is your home modernizer when you sign a contract calling for him to add a room to your house.

A QUALIFIED home modernizer takes over all of the worrisome details and obtains the basic room addition plans.

Then, with your help and suggestions, he prepares an exact plan tailored to your needs. He obtains the building permits that are needed in almost all add-a-room jobs.

He arranges for financing under terms that fit your financial circumstances. He provides expert supervision of carpenters and other workmen while the job is in progress.

Finally, he provides service, or repairs, after the job is completed if they are needed. If the company provides the names of other people for whom it has worked as references, by all means contact them to check on the quality of work.

DON'T SIGN document that has blank spaces.

The most important step in your add-a-room project is that of choosing the company that will do the job.

To make sure that you will get your money's worth, it is essential to "investigate before you invest," just as you would with any other major purchase.

Before . . . And After!

Use Contrast Color

To emphasize features like dormer windows, doorways, etc., paint them to contrast with roof and siding. To make them less conspicuous, paint them the same color as the surrounding areas.

Brahmanism is another name for Hindulism.

Easily Cleaned, Too

Wallpaper Makes Major Difference At Minor Cost

Home improvements can be major or minor, both in effect and amount of time and money involved. Among the most major effects of change with the least amount of time or money spent are those accomplished with new wallcoverings.

New wallcoverings go on easily and can take a lot of abuse, because new manufacturing methods render them washable on scrubbable and fade and stain - proof, as may be required.

Wallpapers go on easier because a higher percentage of papers are pre - pasted at the factory. These just need dipping in water to activate the adhesive and require only measuring, matching and cutting to prepare for installation.

Many papers are pre - trimmed to save time, too.

PATTERNS IN wallpaper and wall-coverings can be purchased for as little as a dollar and a half per roll, although, of course, they can increase in price to as much as the pocketbook can afford.

Colors are bright or muted and can be found in many pattern types. Florals are of every description and scale. Paisleys and other Middle Eastern patterns are predicted to be fashionable for the next few years.

Traditional patterns such as damasks, toiles, brocades, flocks and stripes are in every color imaginable. Plaids, tweeds, caning, woods and bricks are readily available, too.

Look at interesting scenics in both pasted and unpasted sample books. There are some new novelty papers for children's rooms and dens, in particular.

A NEW wall pattern can set either an exciting or a calm mood in any room. Large, bold patterns can be interesting in a large room, whereas small-scaled patterns are usually more in keeping with the smaller room.

Many Materials Offered In Siding

Modern, low maintenance sidings make it more of a pleasure to be a homeowner.

Among the easy - care siding materials are steel, mineral fiber, aluminum, asbestos, cement, vinyl. Advantages include color variety, weather and fire resistance, installation convenience, with concealed nailing or other methods to assure attractive appearance.

Pre - finished hardboard sidings, with their plastic - coated surfaces, offer washability, long paint life and high resistance to denting, fading, abrasion, weather.

There are reverse board and batten designs, Texture One Eleven with its horizontal or vertical accents, striated, V-grooved, or plywood panels with overlaid surfaces, water-proof and permanent, in resin fibers.

Masonry veneers — brick, stone, simulated stone — feature distinctive textures. They look well alone or in combination with other types of siding.

Irradiation Survey

According to a current survey, only about 6 per cent of consumers know about irradiated foods. After an explanation, only 20 per cent showed hesitation about trying irradiated foods. The older, low income, less well - educated people showed the most resistance to the new food preservation process.

Seek New Types Of Shrubbery In Landscape Plans

Prominent nurseries usually have the newest varieties of the more common shrubs offered for sale to home owners, according to experts.

Often the difference in price may be only nominal for a variety that is outstanding and will give pleasure for many years.

The best way to obtain the best varieties is to go to the best nurseries and mail order catalogs. These nurseries constantly are on the lookout for the newly developed shrubs having superior characteristics.

Secondly, they will exhibit photos of the new varieties so you know what you are getting. Hybridized plants may cost more but give more value in colors, better blooms, better form or other features.

'Modern' Now Signifies Home Is Air Conditioned

★ ★ ★

TO DECIDE WHAT MODERN, central air conditioning will cost, get written estimates from two or three good contractors, recommends the Air Conditioning and Refrigeration Institute.

Planning to modernize a home without including central air conditioning?

It's almost a contradiction in terms: We've reached a point where a truly modern home will nearly always be centrally air conditioned, according to the Air Conditioning and Refrigeration Institute.

Consider these facts: A Federal Housing Administrator pointed out that it will not be long before homes without air conditioning will be considered obsolete; a survey made for a national magazine showed that two out of three Americans now consider air conditioning a "necessity" in the home; one out of every three new homes built is centrally cooled; and two out of three of the savings and loan institutions surveyed by the U.S. Savings and Loan League said that air-conditioned homes are better mortgage risks.

It will make the home more comfortable, and it's an investment, not an expenditure, because a home owner usually recovers the initial cost if and when he sells the home.

MANY OWNERS of older homes feel that a central air conditioning system will cost too much. Until firm bids have been obtained, there's really no way of accurately estimating what the cost will be.

For homeowners interested in air conditioning, ARI recommends asking two or three reputable contractors to visit the home, study the problem, and then submit written bids. Compare proposals to determine a definite price.

It is possible to centrally air condition almost any home effectively, no matter its age, size, or design. The cost of adding a central cooling system will depend on where you start out from.

For example, if the home already has a warm air heating system, a contractor probably will recommend that heating ducts be used to cool the house in the summer. This means the only cost will be the cooling equipment and its installation. If there are no ducts, however, getting them installed will add to the costs.

IF THE HOME has hydronic or "wet" heat, cooling equipment with its own means of air distribution will have to be installed. Frequently, in hydronically - heated homes the contractor will recommend locating the air - conditioning equipment and ducts in the attic.

Modern air - conditioning equipment is compact, and there's usually no difficulty in finding a spot for it — in a basement, crawl space, attic, or even a closet.

A "split" cooling system reduces the amount of interior space needed. Evaporator coils are placed inside the home and the condensor - compressor located outside. About 80 per cent of all residential central cooling systems are of the "split" variety.

PROPOSALS FROM contractors should be checked carefully to make certain they have recommended the same size of equipment.

Note, too, whether the recommended equipment bears the ARI Seal of Certification.

This Seal shows that the equipment has been manufactured and capacity - rated in accordance with industry-wide standards, and that it has been subject to rigid inspection and testing procedures.

If the home improvement or modernization program is planned, it's logical and easy to have the home centrally air conditioned at the same time.

Proper Lighting Needed For Use In Dining Areas

A common mistake in selecting a fixture for a dining room is to shop for the most decoratively correct model, without regard for lighting requirements. A chandelier may key a romantic mood and help fine silver and dinnerware sparkle like jewels — but there are limitations.

The low level of illumination is unflattering to the appearance of the hostess and her guests. It's hard to see food well, and this annoys some people. Setting the table and tidying up are difficult.

To maintain the glamour of the chandelier along with better lighting, install two or more recessed spotlights in the ceiling, suggests the American Home Lighting Institute.

This doesn't interfere with the candlelight effect, but will provide light where it's needed—for table and people.

A new kind of light switch, called a dimmer, can increase or decrease light as desired. Some dimmers are set for two or three light levels. With others, the required amount of light can be dialed.

Tips Are Offered On Leaky Faucet

AP Newsfeatures

Question: The faucet outside our house (the one we attach our garden hose to) has developed a drip. I have had some success replacing a washer in a faucet in our kitchen sink, but have never tackled an outside faucet. Is there anything I should know before I take it apart

—:—

ANSWER: The repair procedure is the same for the outside and inside faucets. The first and most important step in each case is to turn off the water supply to that particular faucet or, if there is no shutoff valve, the main water supply to the house. Unscrew the cap nut below the handle, take out the stem and replace the washer at the end of it.

If this doesn't stop the drip, then the faucet seat — the part inside the faucet after the stem is removed —must be smoothed.

This can be done with a seat-dressing tool available at hardware stores. Remember that all of this is based on the assumption that the drip is coming from the mouth of the faucet and not from under the cap nut.

If the latter is the case, tightening the nut may be all that is necessary. If this doesn't help, unscrew the cap nut and replace the cord-like material or packing under it.

Sucat was the British name of St. Patrick.

Quiet Needed For Family's Comfort Plan

Are you happy with your home?

Possibly you've been thinking about updating it or adding a room or two to gain needed space. If you're in the planning stage, be sure to analyze your product and consider how it will effect your overall living environment.

Especially if you're expanding your house or radically updating a kitchen, the bright, modern improvement could cause the rest of the house to look older than its years. You should give some thought to refurbishing other parts of your home on a more modest scale.

PAINTING, wall papering, paneling and tile flooring all offer examples of easy ways to brighten and modernize the home. They also help soften the transition between existing and new areas.

One way of tying old and new together while enhancing your home's decor and your family's comfort is through use of acoustical ceilings.

There are many styles on the market which will brighten any room and help cut down the noise level created by the television, stereo, children or the commotion of everyday active living.

Do you think your home is quiet Stop and consider those occasions when late-hour adult social activities had to be toned down ". . .for fear of disturbing the youngsters' sleep." Or, how the current teen age craze in popular music lacks the charms to sooth the tired head of the family after a long workday.

In addition to soaking up unwanted sound, they can be tailored to suit the specific needs of your room. The family room could be the ideal spot to combine an acoustical ceiling with exposed wood beams.

Kitchens can be brightened and quieted with a combination acoustical - luminous ceiling to provide light over work areas while toning down the clatter of pots and pans.

A new concept in acoustical ceiling design introduce this year is a large-module panel that is four feet wide and available in lengths up to 16 feet.

Protect Metal Work

Carpeting Makes Bathroom Lovely With Less Care

If the bathroom is the stepchild when it comes to decorating in your house, maybe it deserves a second look.

After all, surveys indicate that the bath gets more public scrutiny than any other room . . . and fewer (audible) comments. Which means you should anticipate its needs before the miauw starts among catty neighbors.

For effective yet easy-to-do decorating, try this:

Bedeck the bath in a medley of mosaics and an array of colorful accessories. The ceramic tiles are available in two inch squares and are easily affixed with mastic.

Use soft and fluffy gold carpet of olefin fiber perfectly at home in the bathroom, bedroom or backyard.

Since the olefin fiber on both the surface and backing doesn't absorb moisture, there are no worries about mildew — and this washable carpet is a joy to care for. Spots vanish with detergent suds and water.

Installation requires just scissors and double - faced tape. For those who love vivid colors, but are bashful about using them in other parts of the house, the bath is a great place to try out new and exciting color schemes.

Finishing touches to set the mood are indirect lighting and a bit of greenery which thrives in a moist atmosphere.

'Modern' Now Signifies Home Is Air Conditioned

★ ★ ★

TO DECIDE WHAT MODERN, central air conditioning will cost, get written estimates from two or three good contractors, recommends the Air Conditioning and Refrigeration Institute.

Planning to modernize a home without including central air conditioning?

It's almost a contradiction in terms: We've reached a point where a truly modern home will nearly always be centrally air conditioned, according to the Air Conditioning and Refrigeration Institute.

Consider these facts: A Federal Housing Administrator pointed out that it will not be long before homes without air conditioning will be considered obsolete; a survey made for a national magazine showed that two out of three Americans now consider air conditioning a "necessity" in the home; one out of every three new homes built is centrally cooled; and two out of three of the savings and loan institutions surveyed by the U.S. Savings and Loan League said that air-conditioned homes are better mortgage risks.

It will make the home more comfortable, and it's an investment, not an expenditure, because a home owner usually recovers the initial cost if and when he sells the home.

MANY OWNERS of older homes feel that a central air conditioning system will cost too much. Until firm bids have been obtained, there's really no way of accurately estimating what the cost will be.

For homeowners interested in air conditioning, ARI recommends asking two or three reputable contractors to visit the home, study the problem, and then submit written bids. Compare proposals to determine a definite price.

It is possible to centrally air condition almost any home effectively, no matter its age, size, or design. The cost of adding a central cooling system will depend on where you start out from.

For example, if the home already has a warm air heating system, a contractor probably will recommend that heating ducts be used to cool the house in the summer. This means the only cost will be the cooling equipment and its installation. If there are no ducts, however, getting them installed will add to the costs.

IF THE HOME has hydronic or "wet" heat, cooling equipment with its own means of air distribution will have to be installed. Frequently, in hydronically - heated homes the contractor will recommend locating the air - conditioning equipment and ducts in the attic.

Modern air - conditioning equipment is compact, and there's usually no difficulty in finding a spot for it — in a basement, crawl space, attic, or even a closet.

A "split" cooling system reduces the amount of interior space needed. Evaporator coils are placed inside the home and the condensor - compressor located outside. About 80 per cent of all residential central cooling systems are of the "split" variety.

PROPOSALS FROM contractors should be checked carefully to make certain they have recommended the same size of equipment.

Note, too, whether the recommended equipment bears the ARI Seal of Certification.

This Seal shows that the equipment has been manufactured and capacity - rated in accordance with industry-wide standards, and that it has been subject to rigid inspection and testing procedures.

If the home improvement or modernization program is planned, it's logical and easy to have the home centrally air conditioned at the same time.

Quiet Needed For Family's Comfort Plan

Are you happy with your home?

Possibly you've been thinking about updating it or adding a room or two to gain needed space. If you're in the planning stage, be sure to analyze your product and consider how it will effect your overall living environment.

Especially if you're expanding your house or radically updating a kitchen, the bright, modern improvement could cause the rest of the house to look older than its years. You should give some thought to refurbishing other parts of your home on a more modest scale.

PAINTING, wall papering, paneling and tile flooring all offer examples of easy ways to brighten and modernize the home. They also help soften the transition between existing and new areas.

One way of tying old and new together while enhancing your home's decor and your family's comfort is through use of acoustical ceilings.

There are many styles on the market which will brighten any room and help cut down the noise level created by the television, stereo, children or the commotion of everyday active living.

Do you think your home is quiet Stop and consider those occasions when late-hour adult social activities had to be toned down ". . .for fear of disturbing the youngsters' sleep." Or, how the current teen age craze in popular music lacks the charms to sooth the tired head of the family after a long workday.

In addition to soaking up unwanted sound, they can be tailored to suit the specific needs of your room. The family room could be the ideal spot to combine an acoustical ceiling with exposed wood beams.

Kitchens can be brightened and quieted with a combination acoustical - luminous ceiling to provide light over work areas while toning down the clatter of pots and pans.

A new concept in acoustical ceiling design introduce this year is a large-module panel that is four feet wide and available in lengths up to 16 feet.

Protect Metal Work

Carpeting Makes Bathroom Lovely With Less Care

If the bathroom is the stepchild when it comes to decorating in your house, maybe it deserves a second look.

After all, surveys indicate that the bath gets more public scrutiny than any other room . . . and fewer (audible) comments. Which means you should anticipate its needs before the miauw starts among catty neighbors.

Proper Lighting Needed For Use In Dining Areas

A common mistake in selecting a fixture for a dining room is to shop for the most decoratively correct model, without regard for lighting requirements. A chandelier may key a romantic mood and help fine silver and dinnerware sparkle like jewels — but there are limitations.

The low level of illumination is unflattering to the appearance of the hostess and her guests. It's hard to see food well, and this annoys some people. Setting the table and tidying up are difficult.

To maintain the glamour of the chandelier along with better lighting, install two or more recessed spotlights in the ceiling, suggests the American Home Lighting Institute.

This doesn't interfere with the candlelight effect, but will provide light where it's needed—for table and people.

A new kind of light switch, called a dimmer, can increase or decrease light as desired. Some dimmers are set for two or three light levels. With others, the required amount of light can be dialed.

Tips Are Offered On Leaky Faucet

AP Newsfeatures

Question: The faucet outside our house (the one we attach our garden hose to) has developed a drip. I have had some success replacing a washer in a faucet in our kitchen sink, but have never tackled an outside faucet. Is there anything I should know before I take it apart

—:—

ANSWER: The repair procedure is the same for the outside and inside faucets. The first and most important step in each case is to turn off the water supply to that particular faucet or, if there is no shutoff valve, the main water supply to the house. Unscrew the cap nut below the handle, take out the stem and replace the washer at the end of it.

If this doesn't stop the drip, then the faucet seat — the part inside the faucet after the stem is removed —must be smoothed.

This can be done with a seat-dressing tool available at hardware stores. Remember that all of this is based on the assumption that the drip is coming from the mouth of the faucet and not from under the cap nut.

If the latter is the case, tightening the nut may be all that is necessary. If this doesn't help, unscrew the cap nut and replace the cord-like material or packing under it.

Do-It-Yourself

Early Spring Provides Opportunity For Pruning

Healthy, beautiful trees spread shade, bear fruit, bring greenery to home scenery. But if they're to keep on doing all these things, they must be pruned.

More and more homeowners are tackling the important job of pruning on a do-it-yourself basis. For their guidance, here are some tips.

Exceptions are "bleeders" — notably, maples and birches. They exude much sap when cut during the dormant period, and should be cut during the full growth of summer.

WHEN PRUNING, make the cuts at a joint and make them clean and even. If a stump or lip is left behind, a callus won't be able to form over the wound and it will remain open to infection.

In severing large limbs, avoid tearing the bark. Try undercutting about a third or a quarter of the way through the bottom of the limb before starting to cut from the top. It's also helpful to lessen the weight of the branch by removing several sections before making the final cut.

For safety's sake, be sure no one is under the tree during pruning, or in position to be struck by a falling limb. If pruning requires climbing high, use a safety rope.

When any limb larger than a twenty-five cent piece is cut, the wound should be dressed to speed healing. Asphalt mixtures are popular for this work, because they are easy to apply and weather well, but pine tar is also effective, as well as Bordeaux mixture, or copper sulphate.

To apply mixture, try tying a brush to a pole and working from the ground. Balancing on a limb with a brush in one hand and a can in the other can be dangerous.

WITH THEIR high speed and light weight, chain saws can ease the work of tree pruning. In fact, pruning is one of the major uses homeowners find for chain saws, according to a recent survey which also showed that one American household in 20 now numbers a chain saw among its tools.

The survey, which was conducted by manufacturer of cutting chain for use in forestry work, reported that of thousands of saw owners interviewed, 24.2 per cent said they had been asked at least once to lend the tool to a friend or neighbor — a statistic which led a vice - president to remark:

"Homeowners who have a chain saw soon find their neighbors aren't coming around to borrow the lawn mower any more. They want the chain saw!"

MAKE CUTS clean and even, is advice for do-it-yourself tree pruners.

'Deck' Eases Lawn Needs

Of course the only way to eliminate lawn chores is to eliminate the lawn. And increasing numbers of families are doing just that — retaining only a play yard patch if there are small children.

—:—

THEIR OBJECT is simply to get more garden and better appearance with less work, and, at the same time, to expand the home's living space to the outdoors.

Execution of the plan falls into two parts. First is the substitution of a good deck for the lawn. At some homes, a real lawn - size deck is needed, while at others, a smaller structure — or several of them — better serve the need.

Building the deck on a flat lot is no problem. Joists are laid over concrete footings, with the deck boards run over the top. Either 2-by-4s or 2-by-6s may be used for decking, or 2-by-4s can be laid on edge.

Douglas fir and western red cedar are recommended for deck construction. But used close to the ground, as on a level lot, they and all other types of wood should be pressure treated for continuing top performance and appearance.

Along the deck, built - in benches give added appearance values plus utility. Again fir or cedar 2-by-4s can be used for seats and framing and 4-by-4s for the legs.

ONCE construction has been completed — to include any needed privacy screens — redesign of planting beds can begin. They'll depend on hardy evergreens to retain form and shape through the four seasons, with other materials to provide a balance of heights and masses, as well as varying leaf textures, colors and bloom dates.

Despite the greatly - increased size of planting areas, the quantity of new plant materials needed won't prove startling. It's the right placement that makes the showing. Any professional gardener will rely on fillers, too — rock, bark mulch, creepers and clumps of grasses. Winding pathways also can be used to advantage in filling space and shaping beds.

Consider some raised beds in the overall plan, especially for flower gardens and in areas of poor drainage. If flowers are wanted mainly for house use, include a cutting garden, concealed by an attractive screen.

Don't forget plant materials on the deck. This is the place to savor the excitement and challenge of container gardening.

Colorful Tips Are Offered

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

Trends in colors change. At the very moment you are painting a room a particular shade because you have heard that it is up-to-date, somebody may be planning the introduction of a new tone intended to catch the public's fancy or, at the very least, plotting a promotion campaign to repopularize one of the basic colors.

You should choose colors you like — colors that enhance your furnishings — colors which create visual illusions.

Within the bounds of your personal preferences, these fundamentals can serve as your guidelines:

1. — A small room can be made to seem larger by decorating it in light colors. Deep colors give a very large room a more intimate feeling.

2. — A small room also can be made to seem larger by painting the walls and woodwork the same color.

3. — A low ceiling will appear higher if it is painted a pale tint of the wall color. To make a high ceiling appear lower, use a darker color than the walls.

4. — When selecting a color remember that it seems darker on a wall than it does in a small chip sample. Therefore, when choosing from a small sample, which most paint stores carry, pick a color slightly lighter than you want it to be. Also, study the samples in both artificial and natural light.

5. — Generally, gloss paints withstand more washing. Flat paints reflect light evenly without glare. Hence, gloss paints are preferable in kitchens and bathrooms: flat paints are better in other rooms.

6. — Very bright colors in large areas will detract from your furnishings.

7. — While both warm and cool colors should be used in a room, too many accent colors will produce a hodge - podge effect.

8. — When a room has northern exposure, blues, blue - greens and blue - grays will make it seem cold.

9. — When a room has a southern exposure, the extensive use of warm reds, oranges and yellows is not recommended.

10. — Above all, use a good quality paint. The difference between poor quality and good quality may amount to as little as $2 or $3 a room, yet the difference in hiding power, color brilliance and wear may be very great.

The water flea, a shellfish, because of its transparent body, is often used to observe the effect of drugs.

Rare Fish Displayed By Chicago Museum

CHICAGO (AP) — A living-fossil fish called a Coelacanth was harpooned off the Comoro Islands in the Indian Ocean southeast of Africa Aug. 25, 1967.

This rare specimen of prehistoric life is now on display at the Field Museum of Natural History.

"It's like finding dinosaurs today," said Field Museum's Dr. Karel F. Liem, assistant curator of vertebrate anatomy.

The three - foot - long, 30-pound specimen was donated by the College of Medicine of the University of Illinois.

Liem said it is an amazing example of a creature that has escaped major evolutionary change in 300 million years. He said it was the predecessor of land vertebrates that descended from the Devonian ancestors of this group.

The fish has fins that are actually rudimentary limbs. The limbs have an internal skeletal arrangement which shows the point of limb development.

The first edition of the Encyclopaedia Britannica in 1768 defined an idiot as "a person that is born a natural fool."

Drain Problem

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Tips Offered On Sink Stoppage

While a dripping faucet is one plumbing repair you can put off for a day or two, a stopped-up drain is a problem you must solve immediately.

Drain stoppers in wash basins and strainers in kitchen sinks accumulate foreign material gradually. Quite often the buildup is so far down below the stopper that you will not notice it until it is too late. Then stoppage apparently occurs suddenly.

Though worked by a lifter mechanism, most stoppers can be lifted out, sometimes with little more than a twist. Now and then, the lift rod may have to be loosened.

REACH DOWN through the water and try to clean off the stopper. An accumulation of soap, hair, lint and other matter can form quite a plug. Long-nose pliers or a piece of wire with a hooked end can be useful to reach into the pipe with the stopper out.

If the water starts to trickle through let it drain. Then probe with a wire and remove the rest of the plug. Kitchen sinks have a strainer that lifts out easily, but under that is another grid that catches matter.

Some older sinks have a drain plug at the base of the trap (the "U" section of the drain). Place a bucket under it and remove. You can probe from below and remove what might be too difficult from above.

If you cannot open a drain by cleaning it in this fashion, you will have to use a plumber's force cup. Use one big enough to cover the drain opening. There must be enough water in the sink to cover the cup at all times. Work the plunger up and down to move a solid column of water against the stoppage. After a few strokes, jerk the force cup off to see if the water is moving. The force of suddenly pulling off the cup will help break the stoppage.

—:—

IF THE WATER starts to trickle through, let it all drain and then pour in a few gallons of extremely hot water.

If there is an overflow in the sink, stop it up before using the plunger. In a double sink, stop up the drain in the other section before starting.

If the force cup fails, remove the trap. Loosen the two slip nuts and pull the trap straight down. Don't force the nuts. The drain pipe material is thin.

If difficult to loosen, use penetrating oil on the nuts. Generally material will be blocking the trap itself. Poke out what you can, boil the section of pipe to get it clean. If the trap is clear, look for stoppage in the other sections of the drain and poke it clear with a length of wire.

Once a flow of water has started you can use a chemical cleaner, but work carefully. If hot water does it, then skip the cleaner. Observe directions carefully.

PROTECT SKIN and eyes. The caustic soda types boil when mixed with water and this melts the stoppage as well as making the water turbulent.

If you pour the crystals into a dry drain without water they might leave a crystalline deposit on the pipe, eventally creating a new blockage. It's best to premix the cleaner in an enamel pan or old paint bucket you can discard.

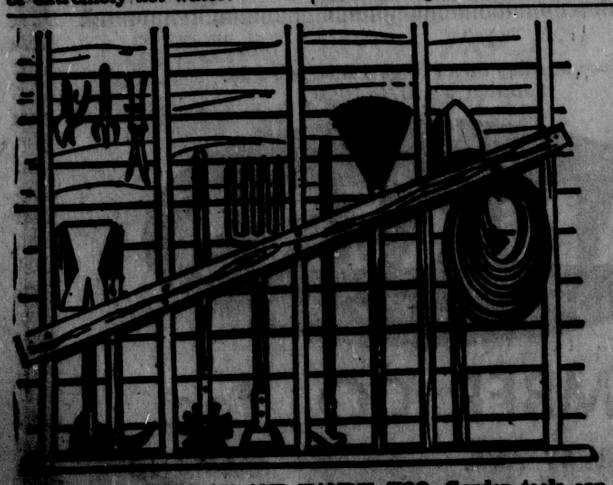

When all else fails, you will have to use a plumber's snake. This is a long length of spring steel which you push through the pipe. It can go around elbows and removes anything in its way with a little effort.

Check Home's Siding For Cracks, Peeling

Examine siding for presence of moisture. This can lead to termites, rotting wood. Fungus, mildew are two signs.

Blistering, chalking, peeling of paint show need for repainting or replacement. Cracks, splits or breaks are indications that it's time for replacement of siding.

OUT OF THE WAY AND HANDY, TOO. Garden tools can be stored in neat order in an unfinished garage or tool shed by nailing a board across four or more studs. If nailed at an angle the board will hold tools of varying length.

A GRACEFUL STOCK BAY WINDOW of ponderosa pine, with flanking casement and removable small-pane grilles, was used to beautiful advantage in this family room. Its Colonial look blends with the room decor, its wide expanse provides plenty of sunlight and a view of rustic surroundings, and the side units open at a 90-degree angle for maximum ventilation.

Give Nursery A 'New Look'

The nursery is probably the least redecorated room in the house. Once it's set up for baby number one, it generally stays "as is" with subsequent arrivals inheriting the hand - me-down decor.

You'd be surprised at how you can spark it up inexpensively and effectively with a little imagination. A fresh coat of paint for the crib, dresser and chair, the non - toxic variety please, can do wonders particularly if you dare to be adventuresome with your colors.

Instead of the traditional pallid baby shades, pick a pink with a lot of pzazzz, a bouncy blue, a no - nonsense yellow, Cover a couple of throw pillows for the chair with an inexpensive fabric in a matching or contrasting color.

If walls look bare, add pictures. And you don't have to go out and buy them. You can make them. All you need is heavy cardboard cut into strips and squares of your preferred dimensions, a pound box of baking soda. . .the same soda you use for baking, cleaning and brushing your teeth. . .corn starch, animal cookie cutters, paints, shellac and glue.

First you make a clay by mixing together thoroughly in a saucepan 2 cups baking soda (1 1-pound package), 1 cup corn starch.

Add 1¼ cups cold water. Stir until smooth. Bring to a boil over medium heat, stirring constantly. Cook a minute longer or until mixture resembles moist plate, cover with a damp cloth and when cool enough to handle, knead a little.

Roll out clay on waxed paper to ¼-inch thickness and cut out your animal shapes with cookie cutters. Place on wire rack in warm (350 degrees) turned-off oven for a half hour or until clay animals are hard and dry.

mashed potatoes. Transfer to

Make House 'Bigger'

You can make your house look longer and taller by using a white paint or a hue of light value. If you want that same house to look smaller, you can paint the siding a dark color.

'Deck' Eases Lawn Needs

Of course the only way to eliminate lawn chores is to eliminate the lawn. And increasing numbers of families are doing just that — retaining only a play yard patch if there are small children.

—:—

THEIR OBJECT is simply to get more garden and better appearance with less work, and, at the same time, to expand the home's living space to the outdoors.

Execution of the plan falls into two parts. First is the substitution of a good deck for the lawn. At some homes, a real lawn - size deck is needed, while at others, a smaller structure — or several of them — better serve the need.

Building the deck on a flat lot is no problem. Joists are laid over concrete footings, with the deck boards run over the top. Either 2-by-4s or 2-by-6s may be used for decking, or 2-by-4s can be laid on edge.

Douglas fir and western red cedar are recommended for deck construction. But used close to the ground, as on a level lot, they and all other types of wood should be pressure treated for continuing top performance and appearance.

Along the deck, built - in benches give added appearance values plus utility. Again fir or cedar 2-by-4s can be used for seats and framing and 4-by-4s for the legs.

ONCE construction has been completed — to include any needed privacy screens — redesign of planting beds can begin. They'll depend on hardy evergreens to retain form and shape through the four seasons, with other materials to provide a balance of heights and masses, as well as varying leaf textures, colors and bloom dates.

Despite the greatly - increased size of planting areas, the quantity of new plant materials needed won't prove startling. It's the right placement that makes the showing. Any professional gardener will rely on fillers, too — rock, bark mulch, creepers and clumps of grasses. Winding pathways also can be used to advantage in filling space and shaping beds.

Consider some raised beds in the overall plan, especially for flower gardens and in areas of poor drainage. If flowers are wanted mainly for house use, include a cutting garden, concealed by an attractive screen.

Don't forget plant materials on the deck. This is the place to savor the excitement and challenge of container gardening.

Colorful Tips Are Offered

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

Trends in colors change. At the very moment you are painting a room a particular shade because you have heard that it is up-to-date, somebody may be planning the introduction of a new tone intended to catch the public's fancy or, at the very least, plotting a promotion campaign to repopularize one of the basic colors.

You should choose colors you like — colors that enhance your furnishings — colors which create visual illusions.

Within the bounds of your personal preferences, these fundamentals can serve as your guidelines:

1. — A small room can be made to seem larger by decorating it in light colors. Deep colors give a very large room a more intimate feeling.

2. — A small room also can be made to seem larger by painting the walls and woodwork the same color.

3. — A low ceiling will appear higher if it is painted a pale tint of the wall color. To make a high ceiling appear lower, use a darker color than the walls.

4. — When selecting a color remember that it seems darker on a wall than it does in a small chip sample. Therefore, when choosing from a small sample, which most paint stores carry, pick a color slightly lighter than you want it to be. Also, study the samples in both artificial and natural light.

5. — Generally, gloss paints withstand more washing. Flat paints reflect light evenly without glare. Hence, gloss paints are preferable in kitchens and bathrooms: flat paints are better in other rooms.

6. — Very bright colors in large areas will detract from your furnishings.

7. — While both warm and cool colors should be used in a room, too many accent colors will produce a hodge - podge effect.

8. — When a room has northern exposure, blues, blue - greens and blue - grays will make it seem cold.

9. — When a room has a southern exposure, the extensive use of warm reds, oranges and yellows is not recommended.

10. — Above all, use a good quality paint. The difference between poor quality and good quality may amount to as little as $2 or $3 a room, yet the difference in hiding power, color brilliance and wear may be very great.

The water flea, a shellfish, because of its transparent body, is often used to observe the effect of drugs.

Rare Fish Displayed By Chicago Museum

CHICAGO (AP) — A living-fossil fish called a Coelacanth was harpooned off the Comoro Islands in the Indian Ocean southeast of Africa Aug. 25, 1967.

This rare specimen of prehistoric life is now on display at the Field Museum of Natural History.

"It's like finding dinosaurs today," said Field Museum's Dr. Karel F. Liem, assistant curator of vertebrate anatomy.

The three - foot - long, 30-pound specimen was donated by the College of Medicine of the University of Illinois.

Liem said it is an amazing example of a creature that has escaped major evolutionary change in 300 million years. He said it was the predecessor of land vertebrates that descended from the Devonian ancestors of this group.

The fish has fins that are actually rudimentary limbs. The limbs have an internal skeletal arrangement which shows the point of limb development.

The first edition of the Encyclopaedia Britannica in 1768 defined an idiot as "a person that is born a natural fool."

Drain Problem

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Tips Offered On Sink Stoppage

While a dripping faucet is one plumbing repair you can put off for a day or two, a stopped-up drain is a problem you must solve immediately.

Drain stoppers in wash basins and strainers in kitchen sinks accumulate foreign material gradually. Quite often the build-up is so far down below the stopper that you will not notice it until it is too late. Then stoppage apparently occurs suddenly.

Though worked by a lifter mechanism, most stoppers can be lifted out, sometimes with little more than a twist. Now and then, the lift rod may have to be loosened.

REACH DOWN through the water and try to clean off the stopper. An accumulation of soap, hair, lint and other matter can form quite a plug. Long-nose pliers or a piece of wire with a hooked end can be useful to reach into the pipe with the stopper out.

If the water starts to trickle through let it drain. Then probe with a wire and remove the rest of the plug. Kitchen sinks have a strainer that lifts out easily, but under that is another grid that catches matter.

Some older sinks have a drain plug at the base of the trap (the "U" section of the drain). Place a bucket under it and remove. You can probe from below and remove what might be too difficult from above.

If you cannot open a drain by cleaning it in this fashion, you will have to use a plumber's force cup. Use one big enough to cover the drain opening. There must be enough water in the sink to cover the cup at all times. Work the plunger up and down to move a solid column of water against the stoppage. After a few strokes, jerk the force cup off to see if the water is moving. The force of suddenly pulling off the cup will help break the stoppage.

—:—

IF THE WATER starts to trickle through, let it all drain and then pour in a few gallons of extremely hot water.

If there is an overflow in the sink, stop it up before using the plunger. In a double sink, stop up the drain in the other section before starting.

If the force cup fails, remove the trap. Loosen the two slip nuts and pull the trap straight down. Don't force the nuts. The drain pipe material is thin.

If difficult to loosen, use penetrating oil on the nuts. Generally material will be blocking the trap itself. Poke out what you can, boil the section of pipe to get it clean. If the trap is clear, look for stoppage in the other sections of the drain and poke it clear with a length of wire.

Once a flow of water has started you can use a chemical cleaner, but work carefully. If hot water does it, then skip the cleaner. Observe directions carefully.

PROTECT SKIN and eyes. The caustic soda types boil when mixed with water and this melts the stoppage as well as making the water turbulent.

If you pour the crystals into a dry drain without water they might leave a crystalline deposit on the pipe, eventally creating a new blockage. It's best to premix the cleaner in an enamel pan or old paint bucket you can discard.

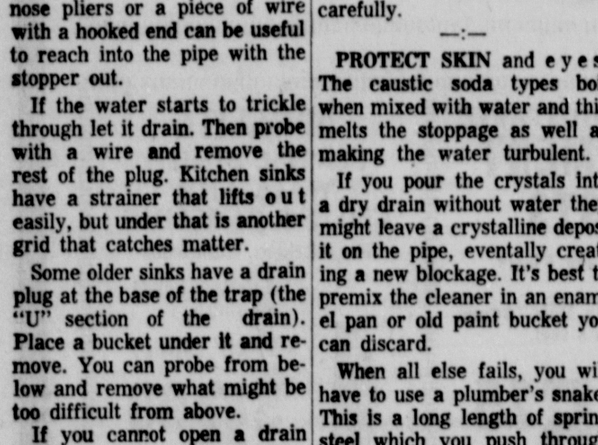

When all else fails, you will have to use a plumber's snake. This is a long length of spring steel which you push through the pipe. It can go around elbows and removes anything in its way with a little effort.

Check Home's Siding For Cracks, Peeling

Examine siding for presence of moisture. This can lead to termites, rotting wood. Fungus, mildew are two signs.

Blistering, chalking, peeling of paint show need for repainting or replacement. Cracks, splits or breaks are indications that it's time for replacement of siding.

OUT OF THE WAY AND HANDY, TOO. Garden tools can be racked in neat order in an unfinished garage or tool shed by nailing a board across four or more studs. If nailed at an angle the board will hold tools of varying length.

A GRACEFUL STOCK BAY WINDOW of ponderosa pine, with flanking casement and removable small-pane grilles, was used to beautiful advantage in this family room. Its Colonial look blends with the room decor, its wide expanse provides plenty of sunlight and a view of rustic surroundings, and the side units open at a 90-degree angle for maximum ventilation.

Give Nursery A 'New Look'

The nursery is probably the least redecorated room in the house. Once it's set up for baby number one, it generally stays "as is" with subsequent arrivals inheriting the hand - me-down decor.

You'd be surprised at how you can spark it up inexpensively and effectively with a little imagination. A fresh coat of paint for the crib, dresser and chair, the non - toxic variety please, can do wonders particularly if you dare to be adventuresome with your colors.

Instead of the traditional pallid baby shades, pick a pink with a lot of pzazzz, a bouncy blue, a no - nonsense yellow, Cover a couple of throw pillows for the chair with an inexpensive fabric in a matching or contrasting color.

If walls look bare, add pictures. And you don't have to go out and buy them. You can make them. All you need is heavy cardboard cut into strips and squares of your preferred dimensions, a pound box of baking soda. . .the same soda you use for baking, cleaning and brushing your teeth. . .corn starch, animal cookie cutters, paints, shellac and glue.

First you make a clay by mixing together thoroughly in a saucepan 2 cups baking soda (1 1-pound package), 1 cup corn starch.

Add 1¼ cups cold water. Stir until smooth. Bring to a boil over medium heat, stirring constantly. Cook a minute longer or until mixture resembles moist mashed potatoes. Transfer to plate, cover with a damp cloth and when cool enough to handle, knead a little.

Roll out clay on waxed paper to ¼-inch thickness and cut out your animal shapes with cookie cutters. Place on wire rack in warm (350 degrees) turned-off oven for a half hour or until clay animals are hard and dry.

Make House 'Bigger'

You can make your house look longer and taller by using a white paint or a hue of light value. If you want that same house to look smaller, you can paint the siding a dark color.

Windows Add 'Airiness'

Is there a room in your house that needs a new decorative highlight, a sense of spaciousness, wide visibility, and lots of sunlight and air? A wood bow or bay window could be the answer.

Possibly the most beautiful window units available, bows (which have a graceful outward curve) and bays (which are straight in the center and angled at each end) have long been popular for living rooms in both traditional and contemorary houses.

Now, imaginative homeowners are recognizing their advantages for any room that would benefit from a distinctive window treatment, natural light and a view.

KITCHENS, FOR example, are often shortchanged when it comes to window beauty and visibility.

A wide-expanse bow or bay window, readily available at local lumber dealers in pre - assembled stock uunits of ponderosa pine, becomes a decorative bonus for the room and a boon for the housewife who spends much of her time there and would enjoy a sunny view of the outdoors.

Attics converted into living areas — such as a study, den or guest room — seldom have enough natural light or fresh air. Bows or bays are practical here because they admit maximum sunlight and come with operating units at top or bottom to provide good ventilation. An attic bow or bay also makes an unusually attractive exterior feature for the house.

As focal points for relaxation and entertaining, family and dining rooms are as perfect a place for bows and bays as the living room.

THESE WINDOWS open a room to the outdoors with its changing seasonal beauty, and lend an air of spaciousness and charm. To emphasize their Colonial look, bow and bay windows are often used with grille inserts that snap in to give the window a small - pane appearance and snap out for easy window washing.

Another gracious touch is the optional window seat available with stock bow and bay units. Covered with colorful cushions, the seat becomes a comfortable reading bench. Uncovered, it's a decorative setting for plants or bric-a-brac.

Watering Lawn

Most lawns need approximately one inch of water every seven to 10 days, to wet the soil about six inches deep.

BUSY HALLWAY gets new floor in a few hours, thanks to new process for installing sheet vinyl flooring directly over an old floor. Perimifler Installation System by Armstrong Cork.

Light Waxing Proves Better For Floor Care

When applying wax to floors, furniture and paneling most housekeepers make the mistake of applying it too liberally. This makes the wax hard to buff and results in a comparatively soft finish which is more likely to pick up dirt.

For the toughest finish and the highest luster, wax should always be applied sparingly in thin layers. Allow to dry for about 20 minutes, then buff to the luster desired. For best results buff twice — once lightly and the second time with more pressure and preferably with a second cloth.

Living deep in the ocean, the giant squid is almost never seen alive. An occasional dead specimen is cast up on a beach or remains are found in stomachs of deep - diving sperm whale.

Natural Look Termed Best For Grounds

In the fall, of course, one wants foliage colors in areas where they occur most vividly. The delight of a brilliant foliage tree warms the family's heart and grows in value with the passing years.

Landscaping is not a set affair, like the Japanese Garden, or the English formal garden, but a thing of beauty which pleases the family throughout the year.

People at times have rages for gardens like the Japanese, English. French, Italian or similar gardens, but this is ridiculous if one has to sacrifice his own idea of beauty for the imported idea which may not fit into the American scheme of beauty in any sense of the word. It's like wearing sandals on a rough and tumble trip into the Rocky Mountains.

"Be yourself" say the professionals, "and tie sky, earth and home together in the lovely natural way that is part of American living. Nowhere have we the potential for exciting, exquiste, natural landscaping as in the United States. Let's capitalize on our own landscape opportunities which are incomparable."

Paint Colors Bring Bright Home Life

Color brightens the family environment, adds a touch of splendor to the home, lifts the spirits of the homemaker as she goes about her daily routine.

Bright colors make areas seem larger than they are. They attract the eye, and can be used to draw attention from unattractive objects.

—:—

Cool colors — blues, violets, blue - greens, blue - grays — make things seem cooler. They're relaxing.

In the kitchen, add light by painting countertops and cabinets white or a light color. For interest, use a bright color inside the cabinets. Or, choose a tint of a favorite color for walls, using a complementary deeper shade for cabinets.

—:—

Plan the painting with future relaxation in mind.

Use easy - to - apply latex or water - base paints for the walls, an alkyd or oil - base paint for woodwork.

Check Water For Variety Of Problems

When the home water supply is plentiful, it may still be unsatisfactory, for a variety of reasons.

1. Water leaves a grimy ring around the bathtub, won't lather with soap. Dishes and silver are dull, water - spotted.

2. Water rust - stains fixtures. Laundry is also stained.

Have water tested for iron. A water softener will remove some iron, but for excessive amounts a special filter or feeder - filter unit is recommended.

3. Plumbing pipes and fittings are corroded. Fixture enamel is eaten away.

4. Water flows in a trickle, especially from the hot water faucet.

This almost always means pipes are clogged by mineral deposits. Have a water softener installed. It will gradually reabsorb the deposits.

5. Water smells like rotten eggs. Silver is tarnished by water.

6. Water tastes bad, may also smell bad. It lacks clarity.

Hang Kitchen Utensils For Attractive Display

Need extra space in the kitchen? Your best solution is to take a pegboard and some hooks and make a "hanging garden" of the pots and pans you use most often. There's only one catch: being on display, these cookware items ought to be fairly presentable.

In fact, maybe now's a good time to start replacing some of those battered old pots and pans, the ones you've had since career days.

Treat yourself to a complete set of matching cookware — you'll be in for two bonuses.

FIRST, many cookware items on today's market are sleekly designed and beautifully colored.

Aluminum cookware in particular is available in a wide range of shades, ranging from white to oranges, reds, greens and browns. Furthermore, they have the non - stick interior finishes which not only look smart in their contrasting colors, but also eliminate hours of tedious scrubbing, soaking and scouring.

Secondly, with a matched set of utensils, you'll find that your cooking will improve, too. Different kinds of cookware have markedly different heat distribution characteristics, beginning with aluminum which has the best heat conductivity of any metal commonly used for cookware.

If you know, therefore, that each of your avocado or poppy shaded pots will perform the same way, then cooking time and temperature guesswork will be at a minimum and you'll be assured of better menus.

WHEN YOU shop for your new utensils, you can pick a coordinated matched set to pick up or contrast other colors in your kitchen decor.

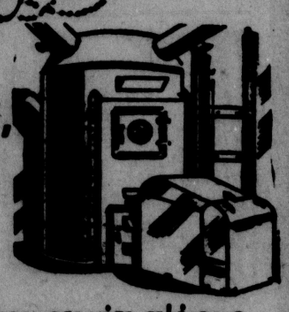

It's a whole new way of redecorating the kitchen! (By the way, you can paint the pegboard too, but do it before hanging). Eventually, you'll want to acquire the additional pieces of equipment that also come in decorator colors, such as casseroles, electric skillets, or even canisters.

Paint Colors Bring Bright Home Life

Color brightens the family environment, adds a touch of splendor to the home, lifts the spirits of the homemaker as she goes about her daily routine.

Bright colors make areas seem larger than they are. They attract the eye, and can be used to draw attention from unattractive objects.

—:—

In the kitchen, add light by painting countertops and cabinets white or a light color. For interest, use a bright color inside the cabinets. Or, choose a tint of a favorite color for walls, using a complementary deeper shade for cabinets.

Check Water For Variety Of Problems

1. Water leaves a grimy ring around the bathtub, won't lather with soap. Dishes and silver are dull, water - spotted.

2. Water rust - stains fixtures. Laundry is also stained.

Have water tested for iron. A water softener will remove some iron, but for excessive amounts a special filter or feeder - filter unit is recommended.

3. Plumbing pipes and fittings are corroded. Fixture enamel is eaten away.

4. Water flows in a trickle, especially from the hot water faucet.

This almost always means pipes are clogged by mineral deposits. Have a water softener installed. It will gradually reabsorb the deposits.

6. Water tastes bad, may also smell bad. It lacks clarity.

Safety Check Adds To Home Security

Awareness of potential accident situations is the key to removing dangers as remodeling and repair projects are being completed, according to Dr. John Henderson, medical director of Johnson and Johnson, and a first aid and safety authority.

WHEN CLEANING and repairing gutters and downspouts for anticipated rains, make sure downspouts and drains do not flood onto walks or driveways.

2. Police the lawn thoroughly. Carefully inspect the entire area for rocks, pebbles, other debris. Such debris is dangerous when power gardening equipment iis used. Running a power unit over a rock may cause the rock to fly dangerously, and may also damage the equipment.

4. As minor ravages of wintertime are repaired on the outside of the house, also double-check outdoor handrails.

See that they are secure enough to take such abuse as children's climbing or an adult's weight learning on them.

5. PORCHES, outdoor steps and wooden decks must have non-slip surfaces.

On these areas, use a dull-finish paint instead of a glossy one, which tends to slick when wet. Or add a non - skid grit to the paint.

6. Don't let do-it-yourself enthusiasm spur projects which can't be finished properly or which may lead to danger.

Jobs such as roofing, chimney repairs or painting high up on the house exterior should be done by a professional.

Be prepared to cope with an emergency, should it occur, by being certain first aid equipment is readily available throughout the house.

Dr. Henderson recommends that homeowners place inexpensive first aid kits in high-accident areas — the kitchen, bathroom, playroom and workshop particularly. Such kits contain necessary basics to treat most minor injuries.

NEVER NEGLECT minor cuts or scrapes, Dr. Henderson advises. Such injuries should be cleaned immediately with soap and water, then covered with a sterile dressing.

On more extensive wounds, such as deep cuts, the first concern is to stop bleeding. In most cases, this can be accomplished by firm pressure directly on the wound. Get medical aid as quickly as possible.

THIS STRIKING ANGLED house expresses gracious living at its fullest. One of the outstanding features is the irregular hexagonal dining room. Too often the dining room has been relegated to a secondary space. Informal dining is also planned for in the huge family style kitchen. The purpose of "bending" the house is to allow for flexibility in placement on the lot and to minimize its size. The fireplace is dramatically flanked on both sides by glass which turns the corners. The family room can be reached by a separate rear entrance. It can be closed off with folding doors; the kitchen and a lavatory are nearby. It is planned to have the house centrally air-conditioned, but this is optional. Architect is Samuel Paul, 89-30 161 St., Jamaica, N. Y. Plan HA533P has 1,867 square feet of living space.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. — I've just installed one of those silent electric mercury wall switches in one of my rooms, but it doesn't work. Any suggestions?

A. — It's possible you've installed it upside down — and this type of switch doesn't work in that position.

Q.—What can I do when I need an "extra-wide" piece of waxed paper?

A.—You can make one very easily by sealing two or three pieces of normal-sized wax paper together with a hot iron.

Q.—What can I do about cracks in old wallpaper when I am applying new paper over it?

Q.—What can I do about a shrunken sweater?

A.—Oftentimes it can be restored to shape by wetting it, dropping it into a pillow case, hanging the pillow case on the line by the hem, and letting water drip into it. Do not wring the sweater.

Computer To Handle Hospital Accounting

ST. LOUIS (AP) — DePaul Hospital officials at St. Louis have announced plans for a 21-hospital computer network designed to handle basic accounting functions for DePaul hospitals in the Western two - thirds of the United States.

"As we learn more about the system through cost and patient accounting," said DePaul Hospital administrator Anthony Bunker, "we hope to move into patient information."

Bunker said nurses now involved in clerical work will eventually be freed to devote more time to nursing duties.

Three Bankers Have 160 Years Of Service

MARINE, Ill. (AP) — The First National Bank of Marine has three directors who have been in the banking business a combined total of 160 years.

Herbert Gehrs, 78, has been a banker in this Illinois town near St. Louis since 1908. Another director, Herbert H. Esterlein, 67, started his career at a bank in Collinsville in 1917 and O. W. Billhartz, also 67, began his career Jan. 16, 1918, in New Baden.

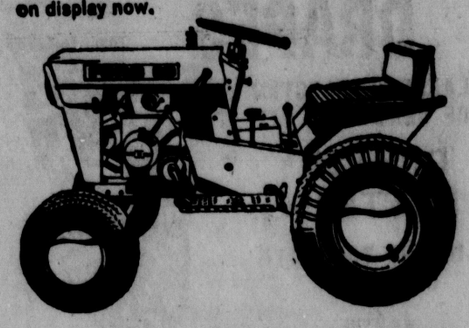

Billhartz recalled when the bank paid $300 for its only adding machine and added that today it pays $11,000 for a modern posting machine.

Control Climate By Using Shrubs

How would you like to "trap the sun," giving you an area that may be 10 degrees or more warmer in sunny weather, even on the coldest days?

Or make your home warmer in winter and cooler in summer? This can be accomplished at most home locations by the proper planting of trees and shrubs according to experts.

Both beauty and comfort can be designed into your home landscaping. While you will wish to consult with a good nurseryman, here are some of the ways to control extremes of weather by use of plantings.

1. FROM what direction do the coldest winds come in winter? On what side of your home a suitable windbreak can make your home and yard warmer in winter, even help to lower your fuel consumption to some extent.

In an experimental test of a perfectly planted windbreak, fuel cost was reduced 22.9 percent. Winter winds, more than the cold itself cause heavier fuel bills.

2. Usually, but not always, cooling summer breezes tend to blow at right angles to the customary cold winter winds. Thus, by curving the windbreak slightly, opening it up in the summer breeze direction onto his property or "outdoor living room."

3. SUN CAN be "trapped" in patio areas where the winds have been shut off by plants or the walls of the home. Everyone has experienced to some degrees the warmth on the south side of his home in winter.

This warmth can be enhanced in winter considerably with evergreen plants; while the area will be cooler in summer if it has a deciduous shade tree which cuts off the sun in summer; and, in shedding its leave lets in the winter sun when you need it.

A good shade tree transfers the heat in summer from the earth level to the top of the tree. Depending on the type of tree it can be 5 to 10 degrees cooler in the shade, making the difference between comfort and discomfort.

4. A SWIMMING pool surrounded by landscaping can help to moderate temperatures in the summer. Evaporation of water absorbs large quantities of heat from the surrounding atmosphere while the landscaping modifies reflection of heat and greatly cuts down on glare. Even a comparatively few plants will help to achieve this.

Moms Want A Mudroom

Chief purpose of the mudroom is to trap mud, snow and other dirt before it gets into the living area. It does so by changing the traffic pattern into the house.

The well - equipped mudroom should have a water closet, a sink with hot and cold water, a drinking fountain, a place to hang clothes and a work counter where flowers can be arranged and vegetables fresh from the garden can be washed.

This means that the mudroom is not only a place to shed damp boots and clothes before entering another part of the house, it's also ideal for children to use while playing or gardeners while working in the yard.

Ideal place for a mudroom is just off the kitchen. Other good spots are the garage or the laundry room, if it has an outside entrance.

Pullman Business Off, Repair Shops To Close

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Pullman Co. shops at St. Louis will be closed (about May 1), officials say. The action will leave just one shop for the repair and maintenance of sleeping cars.

Decline of business was cited by Pullman General Manager J. E. Flannery as the reason for closing the St. Louis facility. The firm once had repair shops in six cities. The remaining Pullman repair shop will be in the Chicago suburb of Calumet City, Ill.

Handicapped People To Have Own Park

CHICAGO (AP) — A state park designed especially for handicapped persons and their families is scheduled for Georgia.

Work will begin in a few years on the 1,680-acre Fort Yargo State Park in the northcentral area of the state, first of its kind in the nation.

The Council of State Governments here reports that cost is expected to be more tha $1.3 million. A federal grant will supply $642,243 for the project.

Braille direction signs, wheelchair trails and special fishing and boating equipment will be available.

Which Is Which?

Grease Spot Tip

Pullman Business Off, Repair Shops To Close

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Pullman Co. shops at St. Louis will be closed (about May 1), officials say. The action will leave just one shop for the repair and maintenance of sleeping cars.

Decline of business was cited by Pullman General Manager J. E. Flannery as the reason for closing the St. Louis facility. The firm once had repair shops in six cities. The remaining Pullman repair shop will be in the Chicago suburb of Calumet City, Ill.

Handicapped People To Have Own Park

CHICAGO (AP) — A state park designed especially for handicapped persons and their families is scheduled for Georgia.

Work will begin in a few years on the 1,680-acre Fort Yargo State Park in the northcentral area of the state, first of its kind in the nation.

The Council of State Governments here reports that cost is expected to be more tha $1.3 million. A federal grant will supply $642,243 for the project.

Braille direction signs, wheelchair trails and special fishing and boating equipment will be available.

Which Is Which?

Grease Spot Tip

For The Handyman Husband

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Spring is the time to build the morale of your do - it-yourselfer.

It would be an ideal time for a national holiday to honor the long - suffering home workman with parades and fanfare and "gone fishing" signs everywhere. But in lieu of such prestigious acclaim, the next best thing might be a home merit badge.

It's tough to work all weekend and when perspiration gets the better of you to be thanked only with, "Well, after all, it's your house, and it's the only way we can afford to get the job done."

Ah-so—but, he needs something more tangible.

KEEP A record of his hours and projects. Skip the gold star routine. Instead, award him a little prize occasionally. For example:

If he has built a shelf you've always wanted, consider the sum you've saved. Can you afford to invest a quarter or tenth of it for a little gift. A tie? Film for his movie camera? Fishing flies?

When he tries to rest from the project for a few hours, avoid those heckling remarks like: "Aren't you going to finish that today?", "I knew it was too good to be true," "I guess we'll wait another year before that's finished."

Instead, anticipate his work quotient and be the one to suggest that he knock off for a while. If you must wait to have the project completed, you can be assured he'll come back sooner, with vigor and without rancor.

Point up the finished project to everyone who calls at your home. "My husband did that." Great. You'll notice he will not protest, even if he loses other husbands as friends.

HUSBANDS are hams. They eat up all the flattering tidbits the family tosses their way. Everything accomplished by them around their homes is more or less expected of them, and it gets them down.

If he does a really big project — an addition to the house or room remodeling, give a party in his honor.

They have "topping - off" parties for paid workers when the roof is put on a new house; parties are held in honor of architects, and parties are given by builders to launch their little and big developments.

Why not a shindig for your very own architect - carpenter-builder husband? Name the room after him. This is "Mike, '68," the nursery is "Mike '64," and so on.

Be the first wife in your block to devise an emblem for her do - it - yourselfer. Big businesses have them. There's an emblem for wool, plywood, decorators. Your bank may have an emblem. So — why not an emblem for your pride and joy?

It can be a big corny emblem that can be pinned on his jacket for home party occasions, or make a do - it - yourself badge or home service bars that can be put on his work clothes.

IF THE IDEA catches on in your neighborhood, it might be hard to keep up with stripes as husbands vie to tick off projects around the house. (This happy thought is enough to send a woman reeling.)

Labor is the biggest expense in home building. If your husband has built a bathroom or other room that was estimated to cost between $1,200 and $3,000, he should have earned a pretty good gift by the time you have a shindig to present it to him.

A rishing rod, duck decoys, outboard motor or another gift that he can make immediate use of is ideal. But don't forget to sandwich in a few little gifts while the project is under way (to keep him going).

And even if you do little more than break even financially on the project, there's some satisfaction in having your do-it-yourselfer retire happily with his rewards. It should be a good - humored spring at your house.

Home Enhanced By Potted Plants

Outdoor gardens can be easily supplemented with container plants for those who want to be weedless gardeners this spring and summer. Even avid green-thumbers appreciate the addition colorful flowering plants or unusual foliage in clay containers make to outdoor landscaping effects.

Keep the raised planting bed or planter near the entrance of the house in flower-show perfection with the varied array of plants available at nearby nurseries, florist shops or garden centers.

Start with spring-flowering bulbs, then switch to annuals and tender bedding plants. Later, select hardy chrysanthemums. All are grown in porous clay pots that can be plunged right into planter box soil for a continuous seasonal display.

Cacti grow in all shapes and sizes and make interesting and unusual arrangements. Plunge the clay-potted plants into planter soil, or simply slip them into matching saucers. They love sun and a sandy soil kept on the dry side.

Grow a selection of potted herbs on a kitchen window shelf. Nothing perks up summer meals more than fresh herbs. Parsley, chives, tarragon, basil and mint can all be grown in small three or four-inch clay pots.

If it's a bright sun area, try geraniums, lantanas or marigolds; for shade, fuchsias or tuberous begonias will provide the color.

Red, pink and white geraniums make a nice combination. To give plants a bit of height, set them on inverted clay pots or saucers.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

One of culture's greatest natural benefactors was the grasslike plant papyrus, member of the sedge family. Cyperaceae, now nearly extinct, which grew abundantly in ancient Near Eastern marshes. Egyptians used papyrus 2,900 years ago to fashion utensils, skiffs, sails, mats, cloth, cords, fuel and writing material.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. — How can I remove urine stains from unwashable garments?

A. — Sponge with lukewarm soapy water, then with a cloth dipped in clear, cold water. Flush the spot with a solution of one - fifth ammonia to four-fifths water, which should be followed by a wiping with another cold - water cloth.

Q.—What can I do, if anything, about grease spots in fabrics that have been allowed to become well set?

Things Will Move Better If You Pick Right Ladder

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

What kind of ladder you will buy, or if you even will buy one, depends a lot on just how much you plan to do around the house, the kind of house you own, even your own height and weight.

If you plan to paint your house, you will need a ladder that will put you within reach of the highest gable.

If you plan to work on the roof, you will need a ladder that puts you above the eaves. If all you will need it for is checking and cleaning gutters, a shorter ladder will do.

Indoors, a step - ladder will serve every purpose. Smaller step - stools will take care of day-in, day - out reaching.

IF YOU are tall, you can provide some of the extra reach yourself. If short, make up for it with extra length in the ladder. If you tend to be heavy, get a good, sturdy ladder.

For the one - floor, ranch-style house, a straight ladder (sometimes called a ranch ladder) should be enough if there isn't much of a roof overhang.

If there is an overhang, rehang, remember that a ladder tall enough to rest against the overhang may put you too far away from the wall to reach it.

You may have to settle for more than one ladder and the best way to do this is with an extension — two ladders that can extend to a great length but which you could take apart, with one section fitting below the overhang.

The combination ladder looks like a step - ladder until you notice that the rear rail has rungs. As a step-ladder, two people can work on it together, one on each side. The rear unit can be flipped up and used as an extension ladder. Or, like the extension ladder, the combination ladder can be taken apart and used as separate ladders.

ONCE upon a time, all ladders were made of wood. Now you have a choice of wood or metal and the metal is generally aluminum, sometimes magnesium.

Wood is heavier, is subject to rot, splinters, and may crack or split. But a good wood ladder does not go all at once, as a cheap metal one might, and there is a sturdy, comfortable feel to wood.

Whether wood or metal, when you buy a ladder buy the best. It will last a lifetime and your life — literally — could depend on its quality.

WOOD ladders should be free of splinters, have smoothly rounded corners. Metal ladders should not have sharp edges or burrs. Better ladders have reinforced rungs. You may want to pay extra for flat steps, rather than round rungs.

Even with all features apparently the same, there may be differences that account for a price difference. The length may be the same, but not the width. Rails and rungs may not be as thick and wide.

DUPLEX IS 56 BY 50 FEET OVER-ALL, with 872 livable square feet in each unit. The symmetrical plan is designed from an eight-foot-thick masonry party wall. Each unit has a cross-ventilated living-dining area, nearly 30 feet deep, with the kitchen tucked away behind a protruding storage space. This can double as a darkroom for camera work. There is a high, spacious screened front porch which acts as the entrance and is handy to the carport. Back of the carport is a walk-in area for garden tools. A small but rain-protected terrace acts as the entrance to the kitchen; it could also be screened and used for outdoor dining. Plan HA 539R was designed by Jan Reiner, 1000 52nd St. North, St. Petersburg, Fla.

Wet Area Barrier

Ceramic tile, once more or less confined to the bathroom, has broken the "wet area barrier." In many colors, sizes and shapes, domestic ceramic tile now lends itself to a variety of decorating ideas for virtually every room of the home.

Controlling Weeds

Woman Sees Ship She Christened In 1909

PEARL HARBOR (AP) — The woman who smashed a bottle of champagne on the bow of the battleship Utah on Dec. 23, 1909, was a recent visitor to Pearl Harbor and viewed the rusty hulk that took two torpedoes and sank Dec. 7, 1941.

Mrs. Alice Spry Wooley, now 76, was 18 when she wielded the champagne bottle at the New York Shipbuilding Co. at Camden, N. J.

At that time she earned the honor because she was the daughter of Gov. Spry of Utah.

Doctor Says: Don't Let Baby Be Fall Guy

This is the warning of a Chicago pediatrician who has opened a campaign to stem the frequency with which babies are falling from cribs, adult beds or dressing tables.

Dr. Harvey Kravitz, an assistant professor in the Pediatrics Department of Northwestern University School of Medicine, has studied the problem. He said the high incidence of "falls from high places" averages 47.5 per cent among first occurrences.

He said mothers should be warned about the dangers of falls, usually when the infant is untended. Nursery furniture also could be redesigned to lessen the risk of a baby's rolling off a dressing table or wriggling out of a crib.

Are Roses Pink?

Pink is a favorite rose color in this country — but one garden's pink is another garden's orange. Color of roses may vary greatly according to soil, location or even season of the year.

Things Will Move Better If You Pick Right Ladder

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

What kind of ladder you will buy, or if you even will buy one, depends a lot on just how much you plan to do around the house, the kind of house you own, even your own height and weight.

If you plan to paint your house, you will need a ladder that will put you within reach of the highest gable.

If you plan to work on the roof, you will need a ladder that puts you above the eaves. If all you will need it for is checking and cleaning gutters, a shorter ladder will do.

Indoors,a step - ladder will serve every purpose. Smaller step - stools will take care of day-in, day - out reaching.

IF YOU are tall, you can provide some of the extra reach yourself. If short, make up for it with extra length in the ladder. If you tend to be heavy, get a good, sturdy ladder.

For the one - floor, ranch-style house, a straight ladder (sometimes called a ranch ladder) should be enough if there isn't much of a roof overhang.

If there is an overhang, rehang, remember that a ladder tall enough to rest against the overhang may put you too far away from the wall to reach it.

You may have to settle for more than one ladder and the best way to do this is with an extension — two ladders that can extend to a great length but which you could take apart, with one section fitting below the overhang.

The combination ladder looks like a step - ladder until you notice that the rear rail has rungs. As a step-ladder, two people can work on it together, one on each side. The rear unit can be flipped up and used as an extension ladder. Or, like the extension ladder, the combination ladder can be taken apart and used as separate ladders.

ONCE upon a time, all ladders were made of wood. Now you have a choice of wood or metal and the metal is generally aluminum, sometimes magnesium.

Wood is heavier, is subject to rot, splinters, and may crack or split. But a good wood ladder does not go all at once, as a cheap metal one might, and there is a sturdy, comfortable feel to wood.

Whether wood or metal, when you buy a ladder buy the best. It will last a lifetime and your life — literally — could depend on its quality.

WOOD ladders should be free of splinters, have smoothly rounded corners. Metal ladders should not have sharp edges or burrs. Better ladders have reinforced rungs. You may want to pay extra for flat steps, rather than round rungs.

Even with all features apparently the same, there may be differences that account for a price difference. The length may be the same, but not the width. Rails and rungs may not be as thick and wide.

DUPLEX IS 56 BY 50 FEET OVER-ALL, with 872 livable square feet in each unit. The symmetrical plan is designed from an eight-foot-thick masonry party wall. Each unit has a cross-ventilated living-dining area, nearly 30 feet deep, with the kitchen tucked away behind a protruding storage space. This can double as a darkroom for camera work. There is a high, spacious screened front porch which acts as the entrance and is handy to the carport. Back of the carport is a walk-in area for garden tools. A small but rain-protected terrace acts as the entrance to the kitchen; it could also be screened and used for outdoor dining. Plan HA 539R was designed by Jan Reiner, 1000 52nd St. North, St. Petersburg, Fla.

Wet Area Barrier

Ceramic tile, once more or less confined to the bathroom, has broken the "wet area barrier." In many colors, sizes and shapes, domestic ceramic tile now lends itself to a variety of decorating ideas for virtually every room of the home.

Controlling Weeds

Woman Sees Ship She Christened In 1909

PEARL HARBOR (AP) — The woman who smashed a bottle of champagne on the bow of the battleship Utah on Dec. 23, 1909, was a recent visitor to Pearl Harbor and viewed the rusty hulk that took two torpedoes and sank Dec. 7, 1941.

Mrs. Alice Spry Wooley, now 76, was 18 when she wielded the champagne bottle at the New York Shipbuilding Co. at Camden, N. J.

At that time she earned the honor because she was the daughter of Gov. Spry of Utah.

Doctor Says: Don't Let Baby Be Fall Guy

This is the warning of a Chicago pediatrician who has opened a campaign to stem the frequency with which babies are falling from cribs, adult beds or dressing tables.

Dr. Harvey Kravitz, an assistant professor in the Pediatrics Department of Northwestern University School of Medicine, has studied the problem. He said the high incidence of "falls from high places" averages 47.5 per cent among first occurrences.

He said mothers should be warned about the dangers of falls, usually when the infant is untended. Nursery furniture also could be redesigned to lessen the risk of a baby's rolling off a dressing table or wriggling out of a crib.

Are Roses Pink?

Pink is a favorite rose color in this country — but one garden's pink is another garden's orange. Color of roses may vary greatly according to soil, location or even season of the year.

Renew Your Furniture With Common Sal Soda

Only antique furniture is granted the privilege of looking its age. . .and it has to be a hundred years old or better to qualify.

So if any of your furniture, particularly that of recent vintage, is getting to look antiquey. . . . it's time to restore its youth.

Tables, most vulnerable to wear and tear, seem to age the fastest. Usually finished, as is most wood furniture, with varnish lacquer, or sometimes shellac and rubbed to a high polish, they're prone to scratches, alcohol stains, heat marks and bloom (a gray discoloration), or the affliction may be nothing more serious than a build - up of old furniture wax that has turned dark and splotchy.

Unupholstered chairs come second in terms of aging. Here you have a different set of problems. Tops, where chairs are grasped to be pulled away from the table, discolor. Legs and rungs get scuffed, particularly when there are youngsters in the house who like to either swing their feet as they sit so that heels hit the rungs or wrap their feet around the legs.

NOW WHILE professional restoring is costly, the do - it-yourself variety calls for little more than an expenditure of your time. It's time you won't begrudge when the job is done and you see the results and count your savings.

The most tedious and time-consuming part of the operation is removing the old finish. While most amateurs associate this step with special hardware store - bought products, the professional restorers who work on fine old pieces prefer the common household cleaner, sal soda concentrated, which you find in the laundry supply section of your local grocery store.

REMOVE THE OLD FINISH from chairs, the way the experts do . . . with a hot solution of sal soda concentrated applied with medium steel wool. You save money, save your hands and save yourself from the danger of toxic fumes. By working on a newspaper-covered table, you also save your back.

The strength of the solution you'll need. . .you simply pour sal into hot water. . . is determined by the malady. For a simple case of wax build-up, three tablespoons of the sal to the quart of water sponged over the surface, rinsed with the prescribed cure.

FOR VARNISH, lacquer or shellac, use a cup of the sal to the quart of water and apply the solution to a small area at a time with medium steel wool. Rinse, wipe dry.

Run over the surface with fine sandpaper. Wrap the sandpaper around a block of wood for tables, and around a hard, dry cellulose sponge for chairs. The sponge has just enough give to let sandpaper dig into the rounded and fluted areas.

Work on chairs on a newspaper - covered table to eliminate back - bending. Since you'll be in a comfortable position, you'll do a better job.

As for the best type of finish to use, consult your hardware dealer from whom you buy it. Just be sure the wood is completely dry before you apply it.

Mirrors Put 'Magic' Into Every Room

Mirrors can make magic in every room of a home. They bring light and air into a small room, widen a narrow, high-ceilinged room, or raise the center of interest in a predominately low room.

Today, there are sizes and styles of framed mirrors to suit any decorating need, according to the Picture and Frame Institute.

An arrangement of framed mirrors is a particularly imaginative way to add new dimensions to a room, the Institute points out. A collection of framed mirrors, hung like a wall arrangement of pictures might be, creates a strikingly different mood from that of a single mirror.

Mirrors in a variety of sizes and shapes, all with different frames and surrounding the center of interest, create a potpourri of light and color.

Frame styles and colors should be compatible with the furniture and decor of the room. Mirror sections of department or furniture stores and custom frame shops are good sources of help in selecting framed mirrors.

MIRRORS CAN be both functional and decorative. The next best thing to a second window is a handsome mirror opposite the only window in the room.

A framed mirror in the bathroom dresses up that area as almost no other wall accessory can, and the addition of a framed mirror to the kitchen not only provides a place for appearance checks when the door bell rings, but becomes an unusual decorator touch.

Experts Give Key Tips On Power Mower Care

Proof of the popularity of gardening today is the fact that there are more than 20 million power lawn mowers in use, according to recent industry estimates.

Lined up hub-to-hub, that many machines could mow a swath 7,000 miles wide.

Today's mowers are ruggedly built machines that can last six or seven years with proper mantenance. However, their life can be cut in half if they do not get proper care.

POWER garden equipment experts suggest that owners check their mowers each spring to insure long life and maximum efficiency. Here are their pointers.

Remove rotary mower blades and have them sharpened and balanced. Actually, a new blade costs only a little more. Reels only should be sharpened by a specialist.

Caked, dry grass should be removed from the underside of rotary mowers, particularly if the unit's exhaust is under the blade housing. The hot exhaust can ignite the dry grass and start a potentially dangerous fire.

When doing this, or any other work on a power mower, the spark plug wire should be removed to prevent accidental starting.

Oil and gas should be drained if this wasn't done when the mower was put away for the winter.

The crankcase should then be refilled with a special power mower oil. Automotive engine oils should not be used; they are formulated to lubricate engines operating at varying speeds.

Power mower engines operate at relatively constant speeds and, therefore, require special oils. Outboard motor oils should be used only with two - cycle engines.

THE MOWER should be washed down with detergent and a scrub brush and rinsed with a scrub brush and rinsed with a hose. All oil plugs and gas caps should be tightened before doing this. A few drops of mower oil should be applied to wheel bearings and any oil cups.

Mower spark plugs rarely need cleaning. If you do remove the plug and have a unit that requires a copper washer under it, do not re-use the old washer. It will not make a proper seal. A new plug and washer is the best bet.

With these simple steps out of the way, practically any powmower can be used throughout the entire season with little or no attention.

Roses Offer Outdoor Beauty For 3 Seasons

One reason the rose is high on the most - liked list of garden flowers to improve the outdoor appearance of the home, is that it gives gardens color from June into October and even longer, in some areas.

Even the novice gardener can have a steady supply of insect-free roses, either in the garden or as cut flowers indoors throughout this long season.

There are two keys to success with roses: cutting and spraying.

KNOWING WHERE to cut a rose flower is the secret of continuous bloom. On the flower stem you will see both three- and five - leaflet leaves. Cut the stem a quarter of an inch above any of the five - leaflet leaves.

A new flower - producing shoot will emerge from the joint of leaf and stem. In less than six weeks you will have another flower.

Of course, for longer in-home enjoyment of cut roses, cut the flower before it is fully open.

To insure insect - free Roses, entomologists recommend spraying on a regular basis — every seven to fourteen days during the growing season.

There are a number of different kinds of insects found on roses during the grownig season — which takes in spring, summer and fall. Insecticides for the entire garden, will control all the common insect pests that attack roses.

To be thoroughly effective, the entire plant should be covered properly with mixed spray until the leaves drip.

This includes wetting stems and both sides of the leaves. Aphids, for instance, are found in all these places. You may not notice them on the plant in the garden, but you will when cut roses are brought indoors.

Spray Painting Tip

To get the smoothest possible finish with a spray paint the home handyman should avoid holding the spray can too close to the work surface. Hold it at least eight inches away and keep it moving steadily. It should be remembered that two light coats will always cover better than one heavy one. In addition, there will be much less likelihood of dripping or running because too much was applied.

Second Sink Eases Entertaining At Home

Especially designed for water convenience in limited space, a stainless steel hospitality sink can be set up anywhere in the home. Usually, it's installed away from the regular sink, to relieve traffic around the food preparation area.

Such sinks are suitable for indoor or outdoor use, since stainless steel is impervious to weather. Tall, gooseneck faucets allow glasses and ice trays to be filled with ease.

Painting Hint Helps

For easier outdoor painting, remember a good exterior paint job requires a clean, sound surface. This means you should use a scraper or power sander to remove loose paint.

Renew Your Furniture With Common Sal Soda

Only antique furniture is granted the privilege of looking its age. . .and it has to be a hundred years old or better to qualify.

So if any of your furniture, particularly that of recent vintage, is getting to look antiquey. . . . it's time to restore its youth.

Tables, most vulnerable to wear and tear, seem to age the fastest. Usually finished, as is most wood furniture, with varnish lacquer, or sometimes shellac and rubbed to a high polish, they're prone to scratches, alcohol stains, heat marks and bloom (a gray discoloration), or the affliction may be nothing more serious than a build - up of old furniture wax that has turned dark and splotchy.

Nails Have Long History Of Usage

By MR. FIX

There is no lack of fasteners on the market today and they get more ingenious all the time.

But in spite of fancy screws, bolts, anchors and glues, the lowly nail continues in widespread use. A fastener that goes back to Roman times, the nail has not only held its own in popularity but it has branched out into special purpose designs.

Though most nails are made from steel wire, new materials and shapes are popping up all the time. Four types, however, remain in widest use — common nails, box nails, casing nails and finishing nails.

These four can be used for just about everything. Common nails and box nails have flat heads, casing and finishing nails have narrow heads that sink into the wood and remain almost invisible.

BOX NAILS are thinner than common nails in any given length and finishing nails are thinner than casing nails in similar lengths.

Box nails and finishing nails also are not available in as long lengths as common and casing nails.

Now about length.

You will hear nails referred to as four-penny, eight - penny, 30-, 40- and 60 - penny nails. Anl if that doesn't throw you, consider the printed designation —4d for four-penny nails. The "d" is the English sign for pence.

One story about the origin of the designation has it that, when nails were sold hy the hundred, the number of pence was the price per hundred for a particular size.

Today, if you buy nails in bulk, you will buy them by the pound. But a 2d nail in any of the four types, and whether in bulk or packaged, will be the same length. In the case of a 2d nail, it is one inch. Longest is the 60d common nail, a six-inch spike.

AS FOR THE choice between lengths, get one long enough to go through the first surface and about halfway into the second.

Whether to use a thicker or thinner nail depends on the nature of the work and material. Obviously, the thicker nail is stronger but in some instances it might split the material.

Among the special nails beyond the four common types are nails with coatings and of special materials. Roofing nails have an extra - large, flat head and are galvanized. Cement - coated nails have a gritty surface to increase their holding power. There are other coatings that make the nail rust-resistant.

Instead of steel, you can have nails made of aluminum, copper, brass. If the nail will come in contact with metal, use a nail of similar material to prevent corrosion.

One nail has a threaded shank. You drive it like a nail but it holds like a screw. Masonry nails not only have a special design but are made of hardened steel.

Whatever your nailing problem, there is a nail to solve it. Just go to a well-stocked hardware or building supply store and get the proper nail for a better job.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The world's largest bird cage is located in the St. Louis zoo. Known as the great flight cage, it was originally built for the Louisiana Purchase Exhibition of 1904 and s 230 feet long, 84 feet wide and 50 feet high.

Kennedy To Address Guild At Cleveland

CLEVELAND (AP) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, a Democratic presidential hopeful will speak to some 300 newspapermen June 18th at the 35th convention of the American Newspaper Guild here.

The invitation was made to the New York senator five days before he announced his candidacy, Jack F. Weir, executive secretary of the Cleveland Newspaper Guild, said Monday.

Guild delegates from across the United States and Canada are expected for the convention. The ANG was started in Cleveland in 1933 and the local here is No. 1.

The ANG covention will be held at the Statler Hilton.

Homeowners Offered Countertop Projects

Now on the market is a new do - it - yourself kitchen countertopping which the homeowner can handle. It's pliable vinyl, which the manufacturer says is easy to cut, bend and adhere to old surfaces.

The vinyl is much like vinyl tiles that handymen have been putting on floors for years, only it isn't quite as thick, for ease of handling. Wearing surface is just as tough as the floor surface.

You will hear nails referred to as four-penny, eight - penny, 30-, 40- and 60 - penny nails. Anl if that doesn't throw you, consider the printed designation —4d for four-penny nails. The "d" is the English sign for pence.

One story about the origin of the designation has it that, when nails were sold by the hundred, the number of pence was the price per hundred for a particular size.

Today, if you buy nails in bulk, you will buy them by the pound. But a 2d nail in any of the four types, and whether in bulk or packaged, will be the same length. In the case of a 2d nail, it is one inch. Longest is the 60d common nail, a six-inch spike.

AS FOR THE choice between lengths, get one long enough to go through the first surface and about halfway into the second.

Whether to use a thicker or thinner nail depends on the nature of the work and material. Obviously, the thicker nail is stronger but in some instances it might split the material.

Among the special nails beyond the four common types are nails with coatings and of special materials. Roofing nails have an extra - large, flat head and are galvanized. Cement - coated nails have a gritty surface to increase their holding power. There are other coatings that make the nail rust-resistant.

Instead of steel, you can have nails made of aluminum, copper, brass. If the nail will come in contact with metal, use a nail of similar material to prevent corrosion.

One nail has a threaded shank. You drive it like a nail but it holds like a screw. Masonry nails not only have a special design but are made of hardened steel.

The staple is just a bent nail with two points. An upholstery tack is a short nail with a large, fancy head.

Whatever your nailing problem, there is a nail to solve it. Just go to a well-stocked hardware or building supply store and get the proper nail for a better job.

Kennedy To Address Guild At Cleveland

CLEVELAND (AP) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, a Democratic presidential hopeful will speak to some 300 newspapermen June 18th at the 35th convention of the American Newspaper Guild here.

The invitation was made to the New York senator five days before he announced his candidacy, Jack F. Weir, executive secretary of the Cleveland Newspaper Guild, said Monday.

Guild delegates from across the United States and Canada are expected for the convention. The ANG was started in Cleveland in 1933 and the local here is No. 1.

Kennedy's appearance will follow Democratic primaries in Oregon and California and precede the national convention Aug. 23 in Chicago.

The ANG covention will be held at the Statler Hilton.

Homeowners Offered Countertop Projects

Now on the market is a new do - it - yourself kitchen countertopping which the homeowner can handle. It's pliable vinyl, which the manufacturer says is easy to cut, bend and adhere to old surfaces.

The vinyl is much like vinyl tiles that handymen have been putting on floors for years, only it isn't quite as thick, for ease of handling. Wearing surface is just as tough as the floor surface.

Window Boxes Brighten House With Small Cost

This season, window boxes are back in vogue. They are simple and inexpensive to maintain. They complement any home, from a colonial cottage to a super - modern ranch or a small city apartment. Best of all, they ease decorating problems, by allowing last year's curtains to open on a brand-new view.

You can make your own window boxes or choose from ready-made boxes in a wide variety of materials. For most purposes, sturdy red cedar or California redwood boxes are best. They may be stained and shellacked, or painted with your favorite lively color. To guard against despoiling rust, you'll want to coat the metal brackets and trims with petroleum jelly from time to time.

Your basic gardening kit can include just six items: pocket pruners with a pruning blade that folds like a knife, a watering can for dousing plants and mixing liquid fertilizer, a small spade, a miniature fork, a pair of gardening gloves and a large tube of multi-purpose petroleum jelly.

Ideally, this equipment should be kept in a chest, cabinet or drawer near the window box. If you have a captain's chest, a colonial cobbler's bench or a stackable storage cube, your problem is solved.

If your space is limited, simply hang the tools on dimestore racks inside a kitchen cabinet door, and find a cheerfully lacquered watering can that will double as a kitchen accessory.

Make it a point to take good care of your indoor gardening tools right from the start. Rust, which eats away at unprotected metal, will age the tools and flake on furniture and rugs. To avoid this annoyance, rinse each tool and dry it thoroughly after use, then coat the metal with a thin layer of petroleum jelly.

YOU CAN begin planting at the first warm sign of spring. After the window box is mounted, prepare it with a thin drainage layer of burlap or fiberglass to prevent nutrients from seeping away.

Next, add a layer of rich porous soil that stops about two to three inches from the top of the box to allow "breathing room." Finally, set your pot grown plants in place.

For full sun, balcony petunias, verbenas, ivy geraniums or lantanas are among your best choices. Other upright flowers that enjoy sunlight include dwarf marigolds, dwarf snapdragons and dwarf zinnias. Avoid tall flowers; they look top heavy and scraggly in a window box.
